Homeowners Battle For San Pedro Funds

Residents of East San Rafael organized last night to fight a proposed county budget cut which would delay the next phase of widening of San Pedro Road.

Some 400 were on hand at Peacock Gap Country Club for a joint meeting of Bayside Acres, Loch Lomond, Glenwood and Peacock Gap homeowner organizations, according to John Shiner, who presided.

Petitions in opposition to the fund cut were passed out at the meeting and were being circulated today. Residents plan a mass appearance at the county supervisors' budget hearing at 9 a.m. tomorrow, when public works projects will come under scrutiny.

County Administrator Alan Bruce has proposed that $200,000 be cut from the proposed $500,000 joint city-county appropriation for acquiring property for widening San Pedro Road from Lochinvar Road to Main Drive, next-to-last phase of the five-year widening project.

This would result in further delay of at least a year in the project, already one year behind schedule. Homeowners fear the delay might prove to be as much as five to 10 years, declared Shiner, who is president of the Peacock Gap Homeowners Association.

Norris M. Rawles, San Rafael public works director, assured last night's meeting that the City of San Rafael is ready to put up its half of the $500,000 proposed for property acquisition. The city and county agreed in 1965 to each contribute half of the road widening project, to be completed in five stages. San Pedro Road winds in and out of city limits.

Speakers at the meeting, Sheldon Bowers, Glenwood Homeowners Association president; Eugene Wallace, manager of Peacock Gap Country Club, and Bernard Heare, Bayside Acres Homeowners Association president, stressed and safety hazard at the end of third-phase widening, now being completed. The widening ends just west of where it is intersected by Bayview Drive, with trees and shrubbery partially hiding the intersection and the sudden bottleneck. San Pedro Road makes a sharp curve just east of Bayview Drive.

Rawles told the meeting that 7,000 vehicles per day travel San Pedro Road.

Key Demo Threatens Tax Reform Proposal

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Chances for agreement on tax reform worsened today when a top Assembly Democratic leader raised major objections to a $1 billion compromise tax revision plan.

George Zenovich of Fresno, chairman of the Assembly Democratic caucus said, "I don't know whether I can live with" three key sections of the program — an income tax hike, a sales tax boost and a local levy on utility services, such as gas and the telephone.

The House is 40-39 Republican and a two-thirds majority of 54 is needed for passage of a comprehensive tax bill.

It would raise the income and sales taxes and other levies by about $1 billion, to provide funds for $1 billion in property tax cuts.

The plan would also impose withholding of personal income taxes — a feature that makes it the No. 1 rival of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax relief package.

Reagan's proposal, which also boosts some taxes to finance property tax cuts, calls for a voluntary system of withholding for most workers. It is before the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, headed by Bagley.

Zenovich said he would be reluctant to support a one-half cent sales tax hike advocated by the Bagley committee unless the $108 million in revenue is specifically set aside for additional aid to local school districts.

"I don't know whether I can live with an income tax increase at this point," Zenovich said. He predicted, however, eventual agreement on a plan, "maybe by the end of the month."

The Bagley committee's bill proposes a 10 per cent across-the-board increase in income taxes. If your tax is 1 per

San Rafael Voting Brisk

Voting ranged from slow to brisk today as the San Rafael Elementary School District sought approval of a $2.1 million bond issue to finance a new middle school and improvements at other schools.

The measure is virtually the same one closely rejected by voters in February.

Polls were to remain open until 8 p.m for 16,619 eligible voters in the district.

Voting was reported brisk at Oliver Hartzell School, where 85 had cast ballots out of about 400 registered by 11:30 a.m., at Glenwood school, 300 voters had cast ballots out of about 1,400 registered.

Voting Heavy In Petaluma

Voting in today's Petaluma municipal election was reported as heavy with most polling places swamped by midmorning.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen said she expects a large majority of the 9,218 registered voters to cast ballots. Polls will be open until 8 p.m.

Voters are selecting a mayor, three city councilmen and three board of education members and deciding on five bond issues and two charter amendments.

Voting was reportedly a little slower outside the city where voters are choosing only board of education members.

Bay Fill Bill Tougher After Committee Nod

The Senate Local Government Committee approved 8-2 last night as amended version of the Assembly-approved bill extending jurisdiction of the Bay Area Conservation and Development Commission (BCDC) to salt ponds and managed wetlands.

The measure by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, and Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, now goes to the Senate Finance Committee where it faces a sterner test.

The bill now continues BCDC's jurisdiction over bay fill projects, extends its authority to a strip of shoreline 100 to 1,000 feet wide around the bay and includes all the salt ponds, marshes and wetlands along the bay.

The committee rejected two attempts to cut back BCDC authority to just waters of the bay and to a strip of shoreline 100 feet wide.

Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, lost in his effort to limit BCDC to its present authority over waters of the scenic bay. And a proposal by the League of California Cities to limit shoreline control to a strip 100 feet wide was defeated.

About 60,000 acres of salt ponds and marshlands along the southern and northern reaches of the bay were placed under BCDC control over objections of the Leslie Salt Co.

Its counsel, Harry Jackson, condemned the amendment as a declaration by conservationists "we must preserve this bay and private property rights be damned." Leslie owns about 46,000 acres at the southern end of the bay.

Jackson disputed testimony by Dr. H. Thomas Harvey, professor of biology and ecology at San Jose State College that filling of salt ponds would increase the temperatures in the Bay Area and result in an increases in smog.

"I have seen no evidence," Jackson said. "Salt ponds have

Police Foes Silenced In Fairfax

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

Fairfax Mayor Francis J. O'Connell, stubbornly insisting that nobody was going to talk about it, last night presided over a generally raucous, frequently formless, and ultimately pointless debate over police brutality in Fairfax. (Another Fairfax council story, page 19.)

At the same time, O'Connell and the council, with few in the audience of 270 realizing what happened, neatly buried its once-explosive proposal for a so-called antihippie law.

The police brutality debate, which lasted 41 minutes, centered on an incident outside a Memorial Day teen-age dance at the Fairfax Pavilion during which a black youth claimed to have been beaten by Orr and other police. The matter is being investigated by the U.S. Attorney's office in San Francisco.

Last night's debate, which at one point seemed on the verge of violence, started when one youth, representing "the people," demanded the council discuss the "police attack on a black brother (David E. Pratt, 17)."

O'Connell interrupted to say the matter was under investigation and would not be discussed by the council. "We're not going to have a kangaroo court here, let's make that clear," the mayor said to hoots from Pratt's supporters and return jeers from propolice elements.

The exchange sparked the first of several yelling matches during which a burly, crewcut Fairfax resident shouted for the microphone to be taken away from an antipolice speaker.

O'Connell then cutoff a female "taxpayer" who said Fairfax "taxpayers and residents are very happy" with the police department. The matter before the council, the mayor said, was not the Pavilion incident but whether to accept a Parks and Recreation Commission recommendation to continue teen-age dances at the Pavilion.

The council later unanimously backed the recommendation after O'Connell had turned off the microphones. He announced the vote to the audience, which was unable to hear any of the vote, nine minutes later.

At one point during the angry debate, two women faced off and yelled epithets at each other while O'Connell pounded for order. One of the women, Betty Huddleston of San Anselmo, a leader of a move to set up a group to watchdog police in Marin, previously had ignored

Strike Fails To Halt Bus Operations

Mechanics Reject Pact; Commute Runs Continue

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — About 350 mechanics struck Greyhound's bus repair depot today, but commuter service was reported unaffected.

The strike, which was called at 12:01 a.m., came after members of Local 1305 of the International Association of Machinists "overwhelmingly rejected" a tentative contract agreement, according to Fred Martin, business agent for the local.

The mechanics had hoped that drivers would join the walkout and help spread it throughout the West. But Kenneth B. Satrom, director of agency relations for Greyhound, said operations were normal.

"We have experienced no difficulties so far and will operate normally as long as maintenance will permit," he said.

Satron said long distance service was uninterrupted because buses in 11 western states involved were refueled at cities not affected by the strike, including Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle and Redding.

Supervisory personnel were refueling buses that carry some 23,000 Bay Area commuters — including some 4,000 from Marin — that commute on Greyhound.

Machinists picketed the Greyhound depot on Seventh Street here, but the terminal in San Rafael was quiet. A spokesman reported no pickets in Marin and all buses on time.

"We expect every laboring man to respect a bona fide picket line," Martin said late last night after the machinists had rejected company offers for a two and three-year contract.

Tentative agreement had been reached by negotiators Friday night. Details of the proposed contract were not disclosed.

Mechanics, now $5.09 an hour, had demanded a new three-year contract that would raise pay $1.50 an hour and improve benefits.

NEW ROSS IDEA

Opinions Vary On Creek Plan

The Ross Citizens Committee's proposal for an underground channel for Corte Madera Creek flood control instead of a concrete ditch was supported and opposed last night.

The plan, which rests on residents granting rights-of-way, which were estimated to be worth $1,000,000, was presented at a meeting of about 175 persons at Ross School auditorium. One speaker, however, said the Army Corps of Engineers estimated an underground channel at $1.25 million more than an open ditch.

Backers felt the corps plan would be esthetically destructive and urged a "less devastating plan."

Critics viewed it as economically unfeasible and called it a last-minute movement that would delay start of flood control construction.

The committee will present its plan to the corps tomorrow at the office of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, in San Francisco.

Robert L. Shearn of 153 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, representing Residents for Flood Control, said he had signatures of 130 persons for proceeding with the corps' plan and would be "in Mailliard's office" with 150 signatures.

Under fire by the committee is the corps plan for an open concrete ditch, 33 feet wide, 13 feet deep and topped by a six-foot fence, which they feel will destroy the beauty of the creek.

Their proposal is for an underground channel beneath the abandoned Northwestern Pacific Railroaf Co. right-of-way, west of the creek. It would extend the length of Phase III of the project, from College Avenue in Kentfield, through Ross to near the San Anselmo line.

The creek would continue to carry its normal flow of water, and there would be an intake at

Stiff Battles After Lull In Viet War

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 400 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in heavy ground fighting yesterday after a brief lull in the Vietnam War, military spokesmen reported today.

The 5th Marine Regiment reported killing 186 North Vietnamese soldiers in a two-day battle 22 miles southwest of Da Nang, and the U.S. Command said 137 enemy troops were killed in four other clashes involving American forces. South Vietnamese headquarters claimed 70 enemy killed in two fights in Tay Ninh Province.

American losses were 18 killed and 95 wounded. Six Saigon government troops were reported killed, and 16 were wounded.

A Marine spokesman at Da Nang said North Vietnamese troops attacked a platoon of the 5th Regiment Sunday night, "we called in artillery, and then the big battle started."

Heavy air strikes and artillery pounded fortified enemy positions during the night, and about 500 Marines attacked yesterday morning.

The fighting raged on the outskirts of An Hoa, the Marines' regimental headquarters, and through the rich lowlands rice area until 3 o'clock this morning.

"Traditionally, since 1965, the enemy has been putting pressure on this area," a Marine spokesman said.

The Marines said they counted 186 enemy dead, compared to six of their own men killed and 38 wounded.

U.S. headquarters said American soldiers riding tanks and armored personnel carriers clashed with the North Vietnamese in four fights on old familiar battlegrounds 32 to 65 miles northwest of Saigon.

Spokesmen said 137 enemy troops and 12 Americans were killed. Fifty-seven Americans were reported wounded.

"There were no ground attacks by the enemy," an American military spokesman said. "In most cases we found him in fortified positions . . .

"It fits in with his tactics." He's sitting in fortified positions until he's ready to move out and attack somebody.

"We're continually out looking for him. Yesterday, we found him."

The board members refused to speak to newsmen.

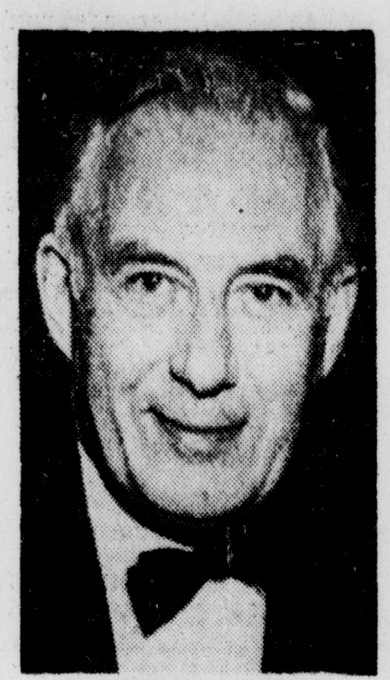
Senate Confirms Burger To Court



WARREN E. BURGER
New chief justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, moving with polished efficiency against a tiny, ineffectual group of dissenters, has overwhelmingly confirmed Warren E. Burger to be the nation's 15th chief justice.

After the few vocal critics failed to win a delay yesterday the Senate by a 74-3 vote put its stamp of approval on the 61-year-old Burger, nominated by President Richard M. Nixon to succeed Earl Warren, who retires later this month.

The dissenters claimed consideration of the nomination should have been prolonged in order to hold a more careful and extensive look into the appointment, particularly in view of the Abe Fortas affair.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., asked at one point during the rambling three-hour debate, "Why vote today?" When Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said there had been nearly no opposition to the appointment, Fulbright retorted: "There wasn't any opposition to Fortas, either."

The Arkansas senator said he knew of no reason to oppose Burger, a 14-year veteran of the federal Court of Appeals, but he thought the Fortas incident demanded a close look at any new Supreme Court appointment.

Fortas quit the court last month following disclosures that he had agreed to accept $20,000 a year from Louis E. Wolfson, a Florida industrialist now in jail.

The Burger success leaves Nixon with another court position to fill—the seat left vacant by Fortas' resignation. The President has indicated he will move quickly to bring the high court to full strength.

Most of the appointment supporters pointed to Burger as a tough man on law violators who won't go along with the activist and social-liberal nature of the court under Warren.

They indicated hope Burger and the next appointee will swing the court into another orbit following the more conservative pre-Warren positions.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said he voted no "for reasons somewhat personal and political." Burger, a former Republican party official in Minnesota, was active against McCarthy in the 1952 congressional campaign. McCarthy said Burger misrepresented his position and appealed to emotionalism.

Wisconsin Democrat Gaylord Nelson, said he cast a nay vote because he simply didn't know enough about Burger. I was "mistaken last time," Nelson said about his yes vote for Fortas.

The third naysayer, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, also protesting the confirmation process and noted the Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Eastland, had heard not a single opposition witness in its brief hour and 40 minute hearing.

Fulbright, after voicing his objections, declined to take either a yes or no position. He had himself listed only as present.

George Szell of the Cleveland Orchestra will be the Philharmonic's music adviser, as previously announced, during the next two seasons.

Longshore Jobs Draw Unruly Mob

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—In a scene reminiscent of the Great Depression, the lure of 400 longshoremen's jobs brought an unruly crowd of nearly 10,000 to the Ferry Building yesterday.

Pacific Maritime Association officials gave up trying to pass out job application at 10 a.m. and said they hoped that applicants would get the message today that the jobs are not on a first-come, first-served basis.

Only 250 applications were passed out as men vied with one another to reach signup windows.

Men have until June 26 to apply for 400 Class B longshoremen jobs. It is the first time in two years that new jobs have been opened by the PMA and the International Warehouemen's and Longshoremen's Union.

Men now holding Class B cards will move up to Class A status.

Three 7-block-long lines stretched from the PMA office on Pier 16 when the office opened at 7:45 a.m. Some of the men had sleeping bags and stools and had been waiting all night.

If the mob scene occurs again, PMA officials said, applicants will have to get their forms by mail.

In 1967, the union and employers asked for 700 men and got 21,000 applicants.

The new men will receive between $35 and $48 a day—an average of $8,000 a year—plus lucrative fringe benefits.

Pilots Superjet

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has piloted the new C5 Galaxy cargo plane, world's biggest operational aircraft, and says it is surprisingly easy to handle.

Escape Plot Unlikely, Marin Attorney Says

Roger Garety of Greenbrae summed up his defense case for Larry Taylor, 24, of Santa Rosa yesterday.

He told the court in his two-hour final argument that the sheriff's radio room was the busiest place in the Lakeport courthouse and that three armed deputies guarded the three handcuffed prisoners as they awaited arraignment across the hall on a previous escape attempt charge.

The prosecution summing up was set for today.

Garety said there was no evidence to link his client physically with Deputy William Hoyt, the man who was shot during the escape try.

Garety also noted that much of the state's case came from two convicted felons, Carol Jolley and Stephen Garcia Tovar, who were jailmates at Lakeport with the defendants.

Garety hit the improbability of the radio room as a promising escape setting in his effort to disprove the prosecution's attempt to convict the two on trial of conspiracy to escape.

Owen Woodruff, defense attorney for the other defendant, John Lynn, 24, of Ventura, also spent two hours yesterday trying to show that no one would plot to escape from a sheriff's radio room.

The third man in the escape, Raymond Pettis, was found hanged in his San Quentin cell later.

The case was moved here after the Lake County judge and district attorney, who helped halt the escape, disqualified themselves.

General Dies

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Defense Ministry today announced the death of retired Maj. Gen. Fyodor Kharchevin, 69. It said he died after a long illness.

Health Insurance Change Is Sought

City employees of San Anselmo will ask the San Anselmo City Council to change their health insurance program from the present Blue Cross-Blue Shield to the state plan at the council's 8 p.m. meeting today.

Other subjects on the agenda include the proposed adoption of an amended animal control ordinance, discussion of a proposed public safety building site and a request from the City of Fairfax to participate in cost of repairs to Forest Avenue, damaged by slides in last winter's rains.

U.C. Offered Building Bonds

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Reagan administration acknowledged today it has tried to sell some of its out-of-favor construction bonds to the University of California.

No sale so far, Finance Director Caspar W. Wienberger said. But he added: "It's a splendid investment."

The money raised would be used to build badly needed U.C. buildings.

Bankers won't buy state voter-bonds under present high interest rate conditions because they can make more on their money elsewhere. The state Constitution limits the interest rate on such state bonds to 5 per cent.

Wienberger said he asked U.C. President Charles Hitch in late March to defer at least $29.4 million in planned construction because of the state's inability to sell bonds.

Then he added: "The university may also want to consider buying a sufficient quantity of our state bonds to guarantee the financing of your remaining bond projects."

There would be no need to interrupt the university's building program if that happened, he said. Money would come from U.S. funds which normally are placed in investments.

The proposal was brought to light yesterday by Republican Chairman William T. Bagley, of San Rafael, of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee as he outlined a new tax reform program. He called it "bootstrap financing.'

Wienberger said, "That's a new plan we devised to meet the emergency. It's perfectly feasible."

He said the owner of land the state is buying for a college site may accept payment in state bonds even though he might be able to make more interest in other investments.

Bill Aimed At News 'Creation' Is Stalled

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee has stalled a bill designed to prevent newsmen from creating news by urging the commission of crimes or staging them.

Sen. John L. Harmer, R-Glendale, says his measure is motivated by some newsmen whom, he contends, have staged news to sell newspapers or draw viewers. But a television station official said it was "ill conceived and would do great harm if enacted."

Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, without asking for a vote, took Harmer's bill under submission yesterday.

Harmer said that, for a newsman to be subject to a misdemeanor penalty, he would have to:

Willfully publish or broadcast any statement which he knew or should know was false or misleading and which resulted in the commission or threatened commission of certain crimes.

Urge the commission of simulation of certain illegal acts for the purpose of willfully reporting them as actual news events when such action could lead to the actual commission of such crimes.

Harmer insisted there have been increased instances recently of newsmen triggering or intensifying violence by asking demonstrators to throw rocks, feign injuries and picket certain places in certain ways.

He said legislative counsel termed the bill constitutional and not unduly vague and argued that the measure "clearly, completely protects the mass media."

But general manager Ray Beindorf of Los Angeles television station KNXT said Harmer was "unaware of the realities of news gathering" with newsmen forced to make immediate decisions on the validity of reports based on a wide range of source material.

The bill, Beindorf said, would "subject newsmen to second-guessing by prosecutors" and result in "play-it-safe" coverage of news events.

Such laws are vehicles of repression," he said.

Mike Dorais of the California Newspaper Publishers Association added that urging the commission of a crime was already covered by existing law.

He called the bill "a potential source of harassment of news media" and said it was "unnecessary and dangerous. The best source of regulation," he said, "is the free marketplace" of self-regulation.

DDT Fighter Is Drafting Compromise

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The author of a controversial bill banning the bug killer DDT in California says he is drafting compromise amendments to reduce opposition to the measure.

Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, said yesterday the changes he is "seriously" considering" making would not substantially weaken the proposal, which also outlaws other pesticides that fail to break down after application.

Under the amendments, the state agriculture director could allow limited use of DDT if a farmer could prove there was no other way to keep his crops healthy. But the pesticide would have to be used under a strict phaseout program.

"This could eliminate much of the bill's opposition," Nejedly said. "I feel it absolutely essential we get a strong DDT bill out of the Legislature this year."

The bill is set for its first committee hearing June 19 before the Senate Agriculture Committee.

200 Freed After Berkeley Arrests

Asst. Alameda County District Attorney David Dutton said yesterday that the 200 are "weeded out" in conference with police before his office filed formal charges.

The Berkeley City Council meanwhile meets tonight to hear accusations of police vandalism during a sweep of the people's park annex, which was raided last Friday night.

Berkeley police also have promised action on 150 complaints about alleged officer misconduct lodged with the department. Most deal with complaints over use of shotguns and teargas by authorities.

$750,000 For Guard At U.C.

SACRAMENTO (AP)— About $750,000 has been appropriated by the Assembly to pay the costs of sending California National Guard troops to Berkeley because of the University of California-People's Park crisis.

The money was included in a $1.3-million emergency appropriation bill which passed the lower house 60-1 yesterday and now is in the Senate.

Also in the bill was $300,000 to replace money used to fight last winter's floods and to maintain levee patrols throughout the spring runoff season.

Treasury Boss Sees No 'Credit Crunch'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy said today the sort of "credit crunch" that developed in 1966 can be avoided despite the present high inflation.

"We're in a credit stringency," Kennedy said at a news conference, "and the markets are not good but they are not in the state of disorder that they were in 1966."

Kennedy added, however, that the grip of inflation is such that it could develop into a runaway condition.

Meanwhile, Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, urged President Richard M. Nixon to withdraw government deposits from banks that raised their prime interest rate to an unprecedented 8.5 per cent.

Kennedy and Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin who also appeared at the news conference, placed top priority on extension of the income tax surcharge, currently scheduled to die June 20.

Asked if the government might resort to wage and price control if inflation worsens, Kennedy answered: "There's a possibility of a lot of things."

The treasury secretary noted that wage-price controls are not a policy the government is contemplating and that he is personally against them. They would be turned to only as a last resort, he said.

"We cannot allow a runaway inflation to develop in this country" Kennedy said. "We could be very close to that now."

Kennedy said he neither endorsed nor condemned Monday's increase in the prime rate charge their best credit risks—from 7.5 per cent to 8.5 per cent.

The higher rates will to some extent serve to ration credit, a desirable objective, but rising interest rates cause "distortion" in the economy, Kennedy said.

In a letter to the President, Patman, D-Tex., charged the 1 per cent boost announced by the banks yesterday was a conspiracy that threatens to force the country into a severe recession.

"Mr. President," Patman wrote, "your office has great powers to end these high interest rates and to prevent monetary policy from forcing the country into a severe recession. I respectfully urge you to exercise this power in the public interest."

Patman also called on the administration to instruct the Federal Reserve Board to cut off the discount privilege from the interest-raising banks, which enables them to raise ready money.

Although some banks promised not to up their rates to their smaller borrowers, Patman and other congressmen weren't buying.

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., said the increase will disrupt the housing market. "It's now impossible for a family earning less than $12,000 a year to buy a home," he said.

Wholesale Food Price Index Jumps

WASHINGTON (AP) — A big jump in food prices pushed the government's wholesale price index up eight-tenths of 1 per cent in May, the Labor Department reported today.

Farm product prices rose 4.6 per cent and processed foods and feeds were up 1.8 per cent in May, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The other major sector of the wholesale index—industrial raw materials — rose one-tenth of 1 per cent.

The over-all rise brought the wholesale index to 112.8. This means that it cost $112.80 last month to buy what would have been $100 worth of wholesale goods during the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

Major price increases included 18.6 per cent for fruits and vegetables, 8.1 per cent for livestock, 6.1 per cent for processed meats, poultry and fish, and 2.1 per cent for sugar.

The May increase pushed the wholesale price index to 4 per cent above those at a year earlier. Retail prices have been running more than 5 per cent above those a year ago.

Reagan advocates an average 50 per cent hike for Californians.

Zenovich also said a Bagley committee plan to permit cities and counties to tax utilities would not sit well with farmers in his Central Valley district who use natural gas.

Reagan withheld comment on the Bagley committee plan, presented at a news conference yesterday.

But Bagley indicated to newsmen he expected the withholding dispute to cause difficulties with the governor.

Without referring to Reagan by name, Bagley accused him of raising a false issue by saying withholding will collect too much tax revenue from some people.

"It's a scare tactic used by those who are uncompromisingly against withholding," said Bagley. And he declared "if we do not have total withholding, we do not have a chance of putting this through the legislature."

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, called the committee compromise "generally a good plan. I would hope something of this magnitude would pass."

Assembly Democratic Leader Jesse M. Unruh of Inglewood, said his position on the plan "is very flexible." He said "we're willing to look at anything that is reasonable."

Most of the outlines of the Bagley plan were unveiled last week. But yesterday he disclosed a new feature — a limit on tax increases for school districts.

It would be done, he said, by limiting the amount each district can spend for a pupil, "while making sufficient funds available so that the Education Committee could finance $307 million in additional state support for schools."

Zenovich, meanwhile, urged Speaker Monagan to delay action on taxes until the Senate studies the Bagley plan and gives informal indication of whether it will support the program.

But Peter Behr, of Mill Valley, former Marin County supervisor, said a University of California at Davis study showed filling of 10,000 acreas of salt ponds on the Napa County shore would destroy by raising temperatures the vintage grapes grown in the Napa-Solano area.

Bradley, backed by Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, said extending BCDC authority to the shoreline was giving "a single-purpose, multi-power agency jurisdiction beyond authority of city and county governments around the bay."

Knox rejected the argument that his bill would result in zoning conflicts. He said BCDC authority would be "not superior but co-equal" with local governments.

Earlier yesterday, supporters of the Knox-Petris bill were heartened by a statement Gov. Ronald Reagan made to a water quality control symposium at U.C. Davis.

"That bay is one of California's most priceless natural assets. The extension of BCDC is essential to continued protection of the bay," Reagan said.

The governor listed six criteria an anti-bay fill measure must meet for his signature. The Knox-Petris measure appears to meet all those conditions—and goes farther.

Reagan did not touch on BCDC control of shoreline, salt ponds and marshes, apparently remaining uncommitted on that subject.

ROSS

the confluence of Ross and Corte Madera creeks to carry off storm waters, leaving the creek untouched, under the plan.

An unofficial check after the meeting showed that 257 residents have signed petitions supporting the committee's position opposing the corps' plan.

County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker said the corps' plan is a disaster from an environment viewpoint, but "something to be desired" from the viewpoint of flood control.

Zucker, who recently retained his post by a 3-2 vote of Marin County supervisors, carefully prefaced his remarks by noting: "I am not against the county position or pushing for any particular position."

After comment that changing to an underground system would delay construction, scheduled to get under way next April, for one year, residents of flood areas objected.

Joseph D. Bernat of 145 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard said the project has been in the planning for many years and should be resolved.

"I'm interested in ecology, but if we have floods, we'll be living in slums," Bernat said.

Mrs. F. William Mosden of 27 Southwood Avenue said no one wanted a project which would split the town, and she urged residents "to get and work together," and there was applause.

One of the key issues in the discussion was whether the land donation by property owners would offset the additional costs involved in constructing an underground channel.

Daniel Shillinger of 433 Lagunitas Road, an engineer with Underground Construction Co. and a committee member, said the proposed channel, possibly 20 feet wide and 10 feet high, would provide the same flood control as the corps' plan.

He felt the savings in right-of-way costs would offset the additional construction costs.

William C. Bricca, committee chairman, said the plan is to have $1 million in donated right-of-way applied to construction costs.

Zucker said it was his understanding that $2.5 million was allocated for Phase III construction, $1 million for land acquisition and $250,000 for utility relocation and miscellaneous expenses, for a total of $3.75 million.

Zucker said it would be politically effective if residents took $1 million to a public agency saying they would finance $1 million for a different plan.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. commended the committee's efforts for an alternate plan and said he would support any attempt "for the same amount of flood control in the bounds of costs of the current projects."

Asked how much more the underground plan would cost, Bricca said the committee couldn't handle the engineering details, but would seek to have the corps makes "the nickels and dimes estimate."

Architect Edward Elliott, a director of the Ross Property Owners Association, said he recently got an estimate from the corps that an additional $1,250,000 would be needed for an underground channel.

"Our only problem is how to fund it," he said. "We need at least $1.25 million."

Donald R. Frost, county public works director, said if the additional construction costs were higher than the right-of-way savings, there would have to be an application to Congress for more funds.

Marin County supervisors will have a hearing on Phase III of the flood control project at 4 p.m. June 24 at the Marin Civic Center.

Proposed New Restaurant's Design Backed

The Corte Madera Planning Commission last night approved design review for the proposed Denny's restaurant at 5839 Paradise Drive, secretary Betty Long reported today.

It set 8 p.m. July 14 for a public hearing on proposed sign ordinance amendments and approved the updating of an ordinance pertaining to conditional uses in residential districts.

The commission denied an appeal from Amy M. Farrin who requested a variance to permit two lots at 23 Grove Avenue to become legal, nonconforming single family building sites.

A Marin County plan for bicycle paths in Corte Madera was approved.

John W. Gates was reappointed for a one year term to the Board of Adjustments of the town and C. William Thomas and James W. McClintock were re-elected planning commission chairman and vice chairman, respectively.

Contractor Gets Threat On Ark Job

A San Rafael contractor has been threatened with destruction of his equipment if he even bids on a contract to clean up houseboats and debris from county streets at Waldo Point.

Mario Ghilotti, general manager of Ghilotti Brothers reported the anonymous threat at this morning's session of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Public Works Director Ronald R. Frost has called for bids on the contract to clear underwater county streets at Donlan J. Arques' property on Richardson Bay. The bids are to be opened on June 23.

"I think most people there are law abiding and will conform," said Supervisor Michael Wornum. "But I think government has to act. If anything, it makes it more mandatory that we act when we get this type of threat."

The unsigned letter, postmarked in Larkspur, said in part:

". . . We have a right to our homes just as you do to yours. If you contract this job and attempt to demolish our homes, every bulldozer, truck and piece of equipment you own will be destroyed, not only the machines used at this job site, but also those in your yard and at other job locations will be destroyed. Is it worth it? . . ."

Frost said at least one other contractor in the East Bay also received a similar letter.

O'Connell's demands to relinquish the mike.

She said Pratt's case was "a people's struggle" and told shouting Fairfax residents, "You people have negated your rights."

At another point, a member of the audience told the council Pratt's case was one "of police brutality and racism and you'd better discuss it."

Flushing red and shouting "Watch it" into the microphone, O'Connell cut him off and again tried to end the discussion. A press by both sides from the back of the stuffy Women's Club towards the council at the front seemed then to subside.

The crowd further relaxed when a gray-haired 40-year resident of Fairfax took the microphone. Speaking to a now quiet crowd, she said folk dances for young people were held in the Pavilion 25 years ago without police and she hoped they still could be. She was applauded by both sides.

The debate sputtered out while O'Connell fiddled with the sound system and the council voted to continue the dances.

The council also voted to tell Switchboard of Marin to resubmit its application — turned down by the Recreation Commission — to hold a dance at the Pavilion after a review of dance regulations is completed.

Earlier, O'Connell had announced that a subcommittee had decided that the so-called antihippie measure, which would have regulated all conduct on public property, was unnecessary because most of the restrictions suggested by the proposal were already law.

The action quietly defused the issue which had sparked another debate by a hostile crowd at the council's May 12 meeting when the council backed off from taking action on the ordinance.

San Rafael Library Asks Larger Budget

The San Rafael Library board last night agreed to submit a proposed 1969-70 budget of $151,000 to the city council, librarian Vivian R. Smith reported.

This represents a $5,000 increase over the current $146,000 budget and includes $2,000 for the proposed remodeling of the children's room and a $1,000 increase in the book budget.

nouncement on Catholic Church relations with the World Council of Churches, Pope Paul left the question of Vatican membership about where it was when the first assembly of the council was held in Amsterdam 21 years ago. On that occasion the Catholics, under Pope Pius XII, remained aloof.

Nine Presbyterian ministers with protest placards hanging around their necks appeared before the World Council headquarters an hour before the scheduled arrival of Pope Paul. Police dispersed them without incident. The placards said, "No peace with Rome," and "The Pope is anti-Christ." The group leader was identified as the Rev. Alan Cearns, of Ulstershire.

The group demanded to see Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, the council secretary-general. They read a handwritten letter to a council aide which said, "This visit is not but a betrayal of true Protestanism. It repudiates all that Calvin stood for in his hisotirac setting.

In their zeal for organization of unity by the World Council the word of God has been forgotten. The testimony of the reformist has been rejected."

Plans for the pontiff to ride in an open car were abandoned and he rode about Geneva in a closed limousine, occasionally waving an arm out an open window.

A senior police official disputed a claim by Northern Ireland Protestant extremists that thousands of leaflets had been distributed in protest against the papal visit. "I have no knowledge of this," the police official said, "and if there had been thousands of leaflets distributed I would know about it."

Police set up wooden stake fences along parts of the route to City Hall, but so few spectators turned out that they were hardly necessary.

Papal aides and newsmen who accompanied the Pope on his trips to the Holy Land, India, New York, Portugal, Turkey and Colombia called this the smallest turnout the Pope had ever seen.

A budget of $382,700 for next school year—down $4,258 from this year—was tentatively adopted by the Lagunitas School District board in a meeting last night at Lagunitas School.

Supt. Marshall J. McGunniff attributed the drop in expenditurse to staff reduction.

He also said the budget does not yet include salaries of the handicapped teachers since the board is uncertain as to the amount which will be provided from state funds.

The board adopted a resolution which will enable it to adjust teachers' salaries after July 1 if additional state money becomes available. The provision of the resolution also applies to administrative and classified salaries.

Treasury Boss Sees No 'Credit Crunch'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy said today the sort of "credit crunch" that developed in 1966 can be avoided despite the present high inflation.

"We're in a credit stringency," Kennedy said at a news conference, "and the markets are not good but they are not in the state of disorder that they were in 1966."

Kennedy added, however, that the grip of inflation is such that it could develop into a runaway condition.

Meanwhile, Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, urged President Richard M. Nixon to withdraw government deposits from banks that raised their prime interest rate to an unprecedented 8.5 per cent.

Kennedy and Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin who also appeared at the news conference, placed top priority on extension of the income tax surcharge, currently scheduled to die June 20.

Asked if the government might resort to wage and price control if inflation worsens, Kennedy answered: "There's a possibility of a lot of things."

The treasury secretary noted that wage-price controls are not a policy the government is contemplating and that he is personally against them. They would be turned to only as a last resort, he said.

"We cannot allow a runaway inflation to develop in this country" Kennedy said. "We could be very close to that now."

Kennedy said he neither endorsed nor condemned Monday's increase in the prime rate charge their best credit risks—from 7.5 per cent to 8.5 per cent.

The higher rates will to some extent serve to ration credit, a desirable objective, but rising interest rates cause "distortion" in the economy, Kennedy said.

In a letter to the President, Patman, D-Tex., charged the 1 per cent boost announced by the banks yesterday was a conspiracy that threatens to force the country into a severe recession.

"Mr. President," Patman wrote, "your office has great powers to end these high interest rates and to prevent monetary policy from forcing the country into a severe recession. I respectfully urge you to exercise this power in the public interest."

Patman also called on the administration to instruct the Federal Reserve Board to cut off the discount privilege from the interest-raising banks, which enables them to raise ready money.

Although some banks promised not to up their rates to their smaller borrowers, Patman and other congressmen weren't buying.

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., said the increase will disrupt the housing market. "It's now impossible for a family earning less than $12,000 a year to buy a home," he said.

Wholesale Food Price Index Jumps

WASHINGTON (AP) — A big jump in food prices pushed the government's wholesale price index up eight-tenths of 1 per cent in May, the Labor Department reported today.

Farm product prices rose 4.6 per cent and processed foods and feeds were up 1.8 per cent in May, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The other major sector of the wholesale index—industrial raw materials — rose one-tenth of 1 per cent.

The over-all rise brought the wholesale index to 112.8. This means that it cost $112.80 last month to buy what would have been $100 worth of wholesale goods during the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

Major price increases included 18.6 per cent for fruits and vegetables, 8.1 per cent for livestock, 6.1 per cent for processed meats, poultry and fish, and 2.1 per cent for sugar.

The May increase pushed the wholesale price index to 4 per cent above those at a year earlier. Retail prices have been running more than 5 per cent above those a year ago.

Reagan advocates an average 50 per cent hike for Californians.

Zenovich also said a Bagley committee plan to permit cities and counties to tax utilities would not sit well with farmers in his Central Valley district who use natural gas.

Reagan withheld comment on the Bagley committee plan, presented at a news conference yesterday.

But Bagley indicated to newsmen he expected the withholding dispute to cause difficulties with the governor.

Without referring to Reagan by name, Bagley accused him of raising a false issue by saying withholding will collect too much tax revenue from some people.

"It's a scare tactic used by those who are uncompromisingly against withholding," said Bagley. And he declared "if we do not have total withholding, we do not have a chance of putting this through the legislature."

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, called the committee compromise "generally a good plan. I would hope something of this magnitude would pass."

Assembly Democratic Leader Jesse M. Unruh of Inglewood, said his position on the plan "is very flexible." He said "we're willing to look at anything that is reasonable."

Most of the outlines of the Bagley plan were unveiled last week. But yesterday he disclosed a new feature — a limit on tax increases for school districts.

It would be done, he said, by limiting the amount each district can spend for a pupil, "while making sufficient funds available so that the Education Committee could finance $307 million in additional state support for schools."

Zenovich, meanwhile, urged Speaker Monagan to delay action on taxes until the Senate studies the Bagley plan and gives informal indication of whether it will support the program.

But Peter Behr, of Mill Valley, former Marin County supervisor, said a University of California at Davis study showed filling of 10,000 acreas of salt ponds on the Napa County shore would destroy by raising temperatures the vintage grapes grown in the Napa-Solano area.

Bradley, backed by Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, said extending BCDC authority to the shoreline was giving "a single - purpose, multi - power agency jurisdiction beyond authority of city and county governments around the bay."

Knox rejected the argument that his bill would result in zoning conflicts. He said BCDC authority would be "not superior but co-equal" with local governments.

Earlier yesterday, supporters of the Knox-Petris bill were heartened by a statement Gov. Ronald Reagan made to a water quality control symposium at U.C. Davis.

"That bay is one of California's most priceless natural assets. The extension of BCDC is essential to continued protection of the bay," Reagan said.

The governor listed six criteria an anti-bay fill measure must meet for his signature. The Knox-Petris measure appears to meet all those conditions—and goes farther.

Reagan did not touch on BCDC control of shoreline, salt ponds and marshes, apparently remaining uncommitted on that subject.

O'Connell's demands to relinquish the mike.

She said Pratt's case was "a people's struggle" and told shouting Fairfax residents, "You people have negated your rights."

At another point, a member of the audience told the council Pratt's case was one "of police brutality and racism and you'd better discuss it."

Flushing red and shouting "Watch it" into the microphone, O'Connell cut him off and again tried to end the discussion. A press by both sides from the back of the stuffy Women's Club towards the council at the front seemed then to subside.

The crowd further relaxed when a gray-haired 40-year resident of Fairfax took the microphone. Speaking to a now quiet crowd, she said folk dances for young people were held in the Pavilion 25 years ago without police and she hoped they still could be. She was applauded by both sides.

The debate sputtered out while O'Connell fiddled with the sound system and the council voted to continue the dances.

The council also voted to tell Switchboard of Marin to resubmit its application — turned down by the Recreation Commission — to hold a dance at the Pavilion after a review of dance regulations is completed.

Earlier, O'Connell had announced that a subcommittee had decided that the so-called antihippie measure, which would have regulated all conduct on public property, was unnecessary because most of the restrictions suggested by the proposal were already law.

The action quietly defused the issue which had sparked another debate by a hostile crowd at the council's May 12 meeting when the council backed off from taking action on the ordinance.

San Rafael Library Asks Larger Budget

The San Rafael Library board last night agreed to submit a proposed 1969-70 budget of $151,000 to the city council, librarian Vivian R. Smith reported.

This represents a $5,000 increase over the current $146,000 budget and includes $2,000 for the proposed remodeling of the children's room and a $1,000 increase in the book budget.

POPE

nouncement on Catholic Church relations with the World Council of Churches, Pope Paul left the question of Vatican membership about where it was when the first assembly of the council was held in Amsterdam 21 years ago. On that occasion the Catholics, under Pope Pius XII, remained aloof.

Some anti-Catholic followers of the French Protestant reformer John Calvin 1509-64, who raised his banner in Geneva, demonstrated briefly.

Nine Presbyterian ministers with protest placards hanging around their necks appeared before the World Council headquarters an hour before the scheduled arrival of Pope Paul. Police dispersed them without incident. The placards said, "No peace with Rome," and "The Pope is anti-Christ." The group leader was identified as the Rev. Alan Cearns, of Ulstershire.

The group demanded to see Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, the council secretary-general. They read a handwritten letter to a council aide which said, "This visit is not but a betrayal of true Protestanism. It repudiates all that Calvin stood for in his hisotirac setting.

In their zeal for organization of unity by the World Council the word of God has been forgotten. The testimony of the reformist has been rejected."

Plans for the pontiff to ride in an open car were abandoned and he rode about Geneva in a closed limousine, occasionally waving an arm out an open window.

A senior police official disputed a claim by Northern Ireland Protestant extremists that thousands of leaflets had been distributed in protest against the papal visit. "I have no knowledge of this," the police official said, "and if there had been thousands of leaflets distributed I would know about it."

Police set up wooden stake fences along parts of the route to City Hall, but so few spectators turned out that they were hardly necessary.

Papal aides and newsmen who accompanied the Pope on his trips to the Holy Land, India, New York, Portugal, Turkey and Colombia called this the smallest turnout the Pope had ever seen.

Tentative Budget Of $382,700

A budget of $382,700 for next school year—down $4,258 from this year—was tentatively adopted by the Lagunitas School District board in a meeting last night at Lagunitas School.

Supt. Marshall J. McGunniff attributed the drop in expenditurse to staff reduction.

He also said the budget does not yet include salaries of the handicapped teachers since the board is uncertain as to the amount which will be provided from state funds.

The board adopted a resolution which will enable it to adjust teachers' salaries after July 1 if additional state money becomes available. The provision of the resolution also applies to administrative and classified salaries.

The Lagunitas School District board also:

VISION—Discussed establishing an early vision screening test program for the school district. The San Geronimo Valley Lions Club voted to donate $100 toward this project with the school district to pay the remaining cost.

Teachers Lower Pay Request 1 Per Cent

Tamalpais High School District teachers — rebuffed last week in their bid for a 10 per cent across-the-board salary schedule raise — submitted a second proposal last night asking for a 9 per cent hike.

The new proposal — which includes cuts in some fringe benefits — would cost the district $437,482 rather than the $592,000 which was the price tag on the teacher's first proposal.

Trustees, meeting in special session at Redwood High School, took the proposal under study and agreed to meet with the district's auditor tomorrow night along with members of the teacher's negotiating committee to see if funds are available to meet the pay requests, which are in addition to the automatic annual step increase.

The trustees last week offered the teachers what averaged out to be a 4.2 per cent salary schedule hike, but this was rejected by the teachers.

None of the trustees seemed to think that the money was available for what the teachers want.

Trustee David D. Ring told the teachers that he felt ". . . there is about $200,000 available for teachers salary raises and that's the amount we reflected in our offer."

An audience of about 50 persons — most of them teachers — sat quietly through the three-hour meeting silently, letting negotiating chairman William B. Wilkinson do most of the talking.

Through Wilkinson, the teachers again asked for health and welfare benefits costing the district $54,683, which would have to be financed through the tax override.

In their second proposal, the teachers did somewhat soften other fringe benefit requests. They had originally asked for an increase to $8.50 per hour for summer school teaching, but dropped that to $7.25 in the second proposal.

The trustees made no commitment to the teachers that they would grant the 9 per cent raise, even if the auditor's check of the district's financial condition indicated that the funds could be found.

Jury Trial Set In Weapons Case

A jury trial for Patricia Ann Fusiliereia, 18, of Marin City, accused of two counts of assault with a deadly weapon, was set yesterday for the week of July 21 in Marin Superior Court.

Mrs. Fusiliereia is accused of stabbing one supermarket employee with a hunting knife while aiming at another one with whom she got into an argument May 23 in Sausalito.

Bussing To West Marin Facing Cuts

Curtailment or outright discontinuation of bus service from the Bolinas-Stinson Beach and Nicasio-Lagunitas areas to Tamalpais High School District schools is being quietly — but seriously — considered by district trustees.

Bus service from these areas may well become one of the casualties in the trustee's effort to trim back the 1969-70 budget, with cancellation or cutback of the service recommended as one way to save $2,500.

The trustees are awaiting a report expected in two weeks, from a transportation committee headed by trustee David D. Ring before making a final decision. Serving with Ring on the committee are Jerrold Ladar of Mill Valley and Francis Compton of Kentfield.

Trustees, although making no official statement, indicated that the current bus service from Marin City to Tamalpais High School would be retained, at a cost of $20,000 to the district. The service started this year, partially funded by a grant of $10,000 with the remainder being funded by the district. Next year the district is going to have to pick up the full tab, trustees said.

The students from the Bolinas-Stinson Beach and Nicasio-Lagunitas are the only ones who rode to school free this year. Other students arrive at schools on specially chartered buses. The district's bussing program was drastically cut back several years ago.

An informal poll of the trustees indicated that while none of them wanted to see bus service curtailed or withdrawn, all felt that the Marin City service was more important than the other two.

The trustees agreed that the Marin City bus service was necessary because of the economic level of that community.

Acting in the same vein, trustees last night did act to trim $5,000 from the field and athletic trips budget, knocking it down from $31,000 to $26,000 and trustee Gloria Melbostad said that she felt "this is one area that might even stand more cutting."

"I think it's more important to get the kids to school than send them on field trips and athletics trips," she said.

The cutback in travel funds for athletics will affect only practice games, not league commitments, the trustees decided.

Library Friends Elect Officers

Dr. Harvey Z. Klein has been elected to serve a second year as president of the Friends of the Sausalito Library.

Also reelected were Mrs. Elisa Stinson, first vice president; Gordon McColl, second vice president, and Mrs. Richard L. Whitaker, secretary.

Elected treasurer to replace Dr. Burton Wise was Charles F. Lester.

San Anselman, 15, Booked In Theft

William John Thompson, 18, of 131 Woodside Drive, San Anselmo, was booked into Marin County jail Sunday on a citizen's arrest on suspicion of shoplifting a coil spring, valued at $1.97 from Disco Wonderland, 555 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael.

Thomson posted $315 bail to appear at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court. Thompson's two companions were reprimanded and released, police said.

Novato Planners Give Permit To Car Wash

Cloudburst Car Wash Inc. last night was granted a use permit to construct and run an automatic car wash with gasoline sales on Ford Way west of Highway 101 south of Novato Creek by the Novato Planning Commission.

The planning commission set the requirement that the building be located 35 feet from the Highway 101 frontage instead of the 25 feet requested. The company originally had applied for the car wash to be located on the east side of Seventh Street south of Lee Brothers Market. It was denied gasoline sales there and asked for the new location.

The Novato Planning Commission Also:

NURSERY SCHOOL — Approved the application of the Novato Parents Nursery School Inc. for a use permit for two years to operate at the Methodist Church at 1485 South Novato Boulevard. The school operated there last year on a one-year use permit.

IMPROVEMENTS — Gave its approval to the capital improvement program which the public works department has submitted in the fiscal 1969-70 budget. This program still needs approval of the city council.

Three Hurt In Two-Car Crash

Three persons were injured at 1:20 p.m. yesterday when two cars collided at the entry to a College of Marin parking lot, the California Highway Patrol said.

Mary Fee, 16, of the Presidio of San Francisco, had head bruises and was taken to Letterman Hospital in San Francisco for observation.

Yvonne Murphy, 17, of San Francisco, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a broken ankle and Hans-Bernd Baerthel, 20, of 26 Laurelwood Court, San Rafael, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut chin.

Skylight Is Used To Enter School

Thieves opened a skylight over the girls' gymnasium to enter Davidson Junior High School, San Rafael, during the weekend, and broke into a snack bar and several gymnasium offices, police said today.

School officials were to determine if anything was stolen. While in the snack bar, thieves helped themselves to food and drink.

Sausalito Library Member Seated

It was the last meeting for Anita Koenig, who is completing a three-year term and said she does not want another term.

Dr. Peale Is Elected Church Chief

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, known to millions through his book "The Power of Positive Thinking," his newspaper column and his close ties with the Nixon family, was elected president of the Reformed Church in America last night.

Peale won on the third ballot to head the 232,000-member denomination.

One of the first problems Peale faces is occupation of the group's New York City headquarters by James Forman and other militant blacks who are demanding $500 million in "reparations" from white churches and synagogues in America.

The offices have been occupied since Thursday.

Peale, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York, where he married Julie Nixon to David Eisenhower late last year, was elected at the church group's general synod in Douglass College.

Lagunitas Suspect Denies Two Charges

Children Accused Of Killing 10 In Blaze

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Warrants charging murder were issued by the Wood County prosecutor's office today against two young children whose parents and 10 brothers and sisters perished in a house fire Sunday.

Prosecutor Bruce White said the warrants were issued against Roger Bailey, 13, and his sister Susan, 15. He said this followed an investigation which produced evidence of arson in the house blaze.

White said the children were only being charged with murder of their father, Charles Bailey, 41.

"We obviously wouldn't set forth charges in all the deaths, so at random we settled on the father's name," White told The Associated Press.

He said arraignment was scheduled for later in the day.

The predawn fire whipped through the family's small frame home here Sunday. The only occupant to flee the flames was the children's grandfather, Obie, 63.

Emmett C. Rousch, assistant state fire marshall, said earlier that two persons had admitted intentionally setting the fire. However, he declined at that time to identify those involved.

Following the fire, Roger and Susan told authorities they escaped the flames because they were sleeping in a two-room structure behind the family's eight-room house.

They said they watched helplessly as the flames engulfed the house.

Probation Allowed In Car Theft Case

John Lowell Massengale, 27, of Larkspur, was placed on two years probation yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court on the condition that he continue in an alcoholism treatment program at Mendocino State Hospital.

Mental Retardation Traineeships Given

Three Sonoma State College students have been named recipients of U. S. Office of Education traineeships in the field of mental retardation by Dr. Robert Fuchigami, coordinator of the special education program at the college.

They include Elaine Gonsalves, 1401 Pepper Road, Petaluma; Mrs. Lucy Mason, 1115 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, and Mrs. Merry-Lynn Cobb, 312 Fair Street, Petaluma. They will study at Sonoma State in the fall under tuition grants and tax-free stipends.

Most automobile license plates are manufactured in prisons and reformatories.

Bay Strike Spreads To Tugboats

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A walkout of sightseeing and ferryboat engineers spread yesterday to tugboats on San Francisco Bay.

The Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, which struck ferry and sightseeing boat operators last Wednesday, called a separate strike yesterday against the Shipowners and Merchants Tug Boat Co., idling about 100 men.

No negotiation sessions have been set in either strike.

The week-old walkout against Harbor Tours and other firms has forced about 200 Marinites who normally commute by ferryboats to find other means of transportation.

In that strike, ferry engineers (captains) are seeking raises from $690 to $1,000 a month over three years.

The tug strike has forced ships to berth themselves. No major problems have been reported.

Novato Youth Denies Statutory Offense

Larry Donald Healon, 22, of Novato pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of statutory rape. A jury trial was set for the week of Sept. 29.

Three Hurt In Three-Car Crash

Three persons were injured this morning when a car spun on rain-wet Highway 101 near the Richardson Bay Bridge, triggering a three-car accident, the California Highway Patrol said.

The patrol said the accident occurred at 2:30 a.m. when Nancy L. Weidauer, 35, of 61 Lambert Way, Novato, lost control of her car and spun. A following car driven by George K. Papas, 48, of 164 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, swerved into the center rail dodging the Wiedauer car, then was hit by a car driven by Andre J. Desmedt, 34, of 203 Bridgeway, Sausalito.

Mrs. Weidauer was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital, San Francisco, for cuts of the head and pelvis. Papas was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital, San Rafael, for head and knee cuts, and a passenger in his car, Theodore Papaioannou, 28, of the same address, was treated there for a possible broken nose.

Guilty Pleas To Selling Of Drugs

Two young Marin men pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of selling drugs last year. Barry Baukol of Mill Valley and Carl L. King of Fairfax admitted selling methamphetamine on Feb. 3, 1968.

A count of another sale of the same drug against King was dismissed, and Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for July 14.

WITHOUT HABIT-FORMING SLEEPING PILLS

(Special)...A New York chemist has perfected a remarkable "Asper-Sleep" formula which unites in one small tablet 3 safe aids to sound, refreshing sleep. No other sleeping tablets offer more comfort . . . yet are not habit-forming!

Never before has there been such a combination to help you relieve the problem of sleeplessness — to bring restful sleep without habit-forming drugs. No prescription is needed—just ask for "Asper-Sleep Tablets". For 100% safe sleep take as directed.

The reason you can fall asleep so fast and sleep like a log is that each Asper-Sleep tablet contains these 3 ingredients:

(1) An anti-histamine which (in a test by doctors) proved as effective as a usual dose of phenobarbitol...yet Asper-Sleep is mild, safe.

(2) A sedative with gentle soothing properties — to help you relax from simple everyday nervous tensions.

(3) Last but not least, Asper-Sleep contains analgesic, pain-relieving aspirin. This curbs the miseries of common headaches, colds and minor arthritis, rheumatism, muscular and menstrual aches and pains—to help you sleep when these disturbances are keeping you awake.

So get your sleep tonight without the depressing after-effects of habit-forming drugs. Asper-Sleep contains no barbiturates. You pop off to sleep, wake up "bright-eyed and bushy-tailed" not dull or dopey. During the night you are relaxed yet responsive to emergencies.

Money back guarantee: Unless Asper-Sleep brings you better, faster sleep than any sleeping tablet you have ever taken . . . return the partly used bottle and get all your money back. Ask for Asper-Sleep tablets at druggists. 89¢.

French Or Humanities Courses Set

Red Hill School fifth through eighth graders will be permitted to take either French or humanities on an elective basis this fall, the pilot project being approved last night by the San Anselmo School District board.

Currently those students are required to take French, Supt. Stephen L. Parodi reported. The recommendation for the project came from Red Hill School principal Donald A. Shaw following a change in the state law permitting the variation.

The San Anselmo School District trustees:

PHILOSOPHY — Adopted a district philosophy of education as submitted by the Educational Specifications Committee.

SALARY SCHEDULE — Discussed salary schedule proposals for 1969-70 but took no action, calling a special salary meeting for 8:30 p.m., tomorrow, at Red Hill School. The board met in closed session at meeting's end to discuss salaries with their negotiator but took no action, Parodi said.

PHYSICAL FITNESS — Heard in a report by Barry Connell on the district's physical fitness program that eighth grade boys do not do as well as fifth grade boys in pushups but boys in both grades did quite well in the 50 yard dash as compared with the national norm.

KINDERGARTEN — Agreed to write State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, saying it favors a fully state-funded kindergarten program rather than the partially funded one at present.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Kris Beining, Wade Thomas School, second grade, at $6,961; Mrs. Leslie Kahl, Sleepy Hollow, third grade, $6,574 and Sandra Tierney, Wade Thomas, third grade, $8,122 and agreed to give five per cent additional pay in 1969-70 to Frances Findley, Yolansdale, third grade, who will become head teacher in addition to teaching her regular class.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE — Granted a leave of absence for 1969-70 to Ann T. Morrison, Wade Thomas School, fifth grade, now on sick leave.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations from Jean Yates, Sleepy Hollow, sixth grade, who is moving to Oklahoma with her husband and Margaret Olson, Wade Thomas, library teacher-aide, for personal reasons.

Petaluman Killed In Viet Battle

A 19-year-old Petaluma Marine was reported killed in action in Vietnam Saturday, the Defense Department has announced.

Jason David Hunnicutt of 8 Dean Court, was reportedly killed when he was struck in the head by rockets and mortars while standing guard at a small Marine outpost in Quan An province.

A Marine for nearly a year; Hunnicutt had been in Vietnam for five months. A private first class, he was to have been promoted to lance corporal this month, according to his father, Joseph W. Hunnicutt.

A 1967 graduate of Petaluma Senior High School, he had worked for the Carson Goat Milk Co. while a student.

In addition to his father, he is survived by his mother, Wanda E. Hunnicutt; two sisters, Nancy Willitts of Pittsfield, Ill., and Joyce Hunnicutt, at home; and a brother, Marty Hunnicutt, at home.

American Flag Still Flies Low

The American flag continues to fly at half-mast at the College of Marin in honor of men who have lost their lives in war.

An altercation among students occurred last Friday after lowering ceremonies. The flag was lowered several times, finally disappeared but was replaced yesterday morning at 6:45 a.m.

The flag is to be flown at half-mast until June 19, the end of the current final examination period.

Kentfield Trustees Shun Tax Rate Boost

Kentfield School District trustees last night adopted a preliminary 1969-70 budget of $1,331,171 and said they are determined to hold the current $3.34 tax rate.

The board, reported Supt. Anthony G. Bacich, has adjusted to the 1969-70 financial picture by drastically reducing maintenance costs and eliminating nearly all capital outlay items and cutting one staff member.

But, in order to maintain the current school program for 1970-71, a tax increase election will be necessary, the board said.

Trustees set a meeting for July 7 at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade School to reach a decision on calling a tax election early this fall, Bacich reported.

The board tentatively approved a salary schedule with a 4.82 per cent increase over the current year for teachers and classified employees. This results in a schedule running from a beginning salary of $6,500 to $13,000 after 13 years of service and an added 60 units of graduate work.

The 4.82 per cent increase is above the automatic annual step raise which runs about 5 per cent.

A 12-by-12 board, burned continuously for one hour on all four sides, would still be stronger than a 9-by-9 inch board never touched by fire. Even when exposee to fire, thick wood members retain their strength for long periods of time.

Foe Of Film Series To Talk

A psychiatrist opposed to the sex education aspects of the film series, "Time of Your Life," will appear before a Mill Valley School District review committee tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Dr. Louis A. Noltimier, a member of Gov. Ronald Reagan's Advisory Committee on Mental Health, is president of Physicians for Good Government and on the staffs at St. Mary's and St. Francis hospitals, San Francisco.

The session is to be held at Homestead School, 305 Montford Avenue.

At an earlier meeting Mrs. Marilyn McCurdy, who appears in the film, spoke in favor of adoption of the KQED series.

Novato Planners Give Permit To Car Wash

Cloudburst Car Wash Inc. last night was granted a use permit to construct and run an automatic car wash with gasoline sales on Ford Way west of Highway 101 south of Novato Creek by the Novato Planning Commission.

The planning commission set the requirement that the building be located 35 feet from the Highway 101 frontage instead of the 25 feet requested. The company originally had applied for the car wash to be located on the east side of Seventh Street south of Lee Brothers Market. It was denied gasoline sales there and asked for the new location.

The Novato Planning Commission Also:

NURSERY SCHOOL — Approved the application of the Novato Parents Nursery School Inc. for a use permit for two years to operate at the Methodist Church at 1485 South Novato Boulevard. The school operated there last year on a one-year use permit.

IMPROVEMENTS — Gave its approval to the capital improvement program which the public works department has submitted in the fiscal 1969-70 budget. This program still needs approval of the city council.

Dr. Peale Is Elected Church Chief

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, known to millions through his book "The Power of Positive Thinking," his newspaper column and his close ties with the Nixon family, was elected president of the Reformed Church in America last night.

Peale won on the third ballot to head the 232,000-member denomination.

One of the first problems Peale faces is occupation of the group's New York City headquarters by James Forman and other militant blacks who are demanding $500 million in "reparations" from white churches and synagogues in America.

The offices have been occupied since Thursday.

Peale, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York, where he married Julie Nixon to David Eisenhower late last year, was elected at the church group's general synod in Douglass College.

Children Accused Of Killing 10 In Blaze

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Warrants charging murder were issued by the Wood County prosecutor's office today against two young children whose parents and 10 brothers and sisters perished in a house fire Sunday.

Prosecutor Bruce White said the warrants were issued against Roger Bailey, 13, and his sister Susan, 15. He said this followed an investigation which produced evidence of arson in the house blaze.

White said the children were only being charged with murder of their father, Charles Bailey, 41.

"We obviously wouldn't set forth charges in all the deaths, so at random we settled on the father's name," White told The Associated Press.

He said arraignment was scheduled for later in the day.

The predawn fire whipped through the family's small frame home here Sunday. The only occupant to flee the flames was the children's grandfather, Obie, 63.

Emmett C. Rousch, assistant state fire marshall, said earlier that two persons had admitted intentionally setting the fire. However, he declined at that time to identify those involved.

Following the fire, Roger and Susan told authorities they escaped the flames because they were sleeping in a two-room structure behind the family's eight-room house.

They said they watched helplessly as the flames engulfed the house.

Probation Allowed In Car Theft Case

John Lowell Massengale, 27, of Larkspur, was placed on two years probation yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court on the condition that he continue in an alcoholism treatment program at Mendocino State Hospital.

Bay Strike Spreads To Tugboats

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A walkout of sightseeing and ferryboat engineers spread yesterday to tugboats on San Francisco Bay.

The Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, which struck ferry and sightseeing boat operators last Wednesday, called a separate strike yesterday against the Shipowners and Merchants Tug Boat Co., idling about 100 men.

No negotiation sessions have been set in either strike.

The week-old walkout against Harbor Tours and other firms has forced about 200 Marinites who normally commute by ferryboats to find other means of transportation.

In that strike, ferry engineers (captains) are seeking raises from $690 to $1,000 a month over three years.

The tug strike has forced ships to berth themselves. No major problems have been reported.

Novato Youth Denies Statutory Offense

Larry Donald Healon, 22, of Novato pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of statutory rape. A jury trial was set for the week of Sept. 29.

Three Hurt In Three-Car Crash

Three persons were injured this morning when a car spun on rain-wet Highway 101 near the Richardson Bay Bridge, triggering a three-car accident, the California Highway Patrol said.

The patrol said the accident occurred at 2:30 a.m. when Nancy L. Weidauer, 35, of 61 Lambert Way, Novato, lost control of her car and spun. A following car driven by George K. Papas, 48, of 164 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, swerved into the center rail dodging the Wiedauer car, then was hit by a car driven by Andre J. Desmedt, 34, of 203 Bridgeway, Sausalito.

Mrs. Weidauer was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital, San Francisco, for cuts of the head and pelvis. Papas was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital, San Rafael, for head and knee cuts, and a passenger in his car, Theodore Papaioannou, 28, of the same address, was treated there for a possible broken nose.

Guilty Pleas To Selling Of Drugs

Two young Marin men pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of selling drugs last year. Barry Baukol of Mill Valley and Carl L. King of Fairfax admitted selling methamphetamine on Feb. 3, 1968.

A count of another sale of the same drug against King was dismissed, and Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for July 14.

Nixon Sets Briefing On Midway Session

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon, heading home from the Midway summit conference, hopes his decision to begin withdrawing U.S. troops from South Vietnam will be read by Communist peace negotiators as a significant signal.

Nixon will get a formal Washington welcome from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and other dignitaries and will deliver "general remarks."

His comments will be broadcast live by some networks.

The cabinet and some members of Congress from both parties will participate in the welcome, with Nixon accorded full military honors.

In early evening, Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress will meet with Nixon in the White House to get a firsthand report on his Midway meeting Sunday with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

White House sources, who declined to be identified by name, said Nixon and his aides believed the Midway sessions were successful and that administration objectives were achieved.

They said Nixon was hopeful that his decision to withdraw 25,000 U.S. troops from South Vietnam by the end of August would convey a significant message to the other side.

The bulk of the 25,000 will be combat troops, they said, and asserted this fact should underscore the intended signal.

While Nixon and Thieu indicated more troops will be pulled out later, the White House said there is no numerical target for the year.

Initial reaction to the troop withdrawal from North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, was to denounce it as mere propaganda.

A spokesman for Hanoi at the Paris peace talks said yesterday it was part of "perfidious maneuvers" by Nixon "seeking by all means to calm the opposition of the American people" to the Vietnam war.

A National Liberation Front source said the withdrawal "constitutes only a grain of sand thrown in an ocean" and a "propaganda maneuver intended to calm the demands of the American people and mislead world opinion.

White House sources said the initial negative reaction was predictable.

The White House reported that a tentative decision to begin the withdrawals was made about six weeks ago, but insisted that a final decision on the details was not reached until the two presidents met at Midway.

At the end of March, they noted, Thieu offered to enter into unconditional negotiations with representatives of the National Liberation Front. Then came Nixon's eight-point peace plan of May 14, followed by the Midway agreement to begin gradually replacing U.S. forces with newly trained and equipped South Vietnamese units.

While the sources said they did not want to speculate, they hinted strongly that Theu soon can be expected to spell out in greater detail his suggestions for the political evolution of South Vietnam.

They reported that Nixon and Thieu devoted more time to this subject at Midway than to any other topic.

College Unrest Plans Stalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — A divided House Education Committee was unable to reach agreement today on a compromise bill designed to deal with college unrest.

Opponents of any federal action on the subject prevented the committee from putting through a bipartisan bill.

Chairman Carl Perkins, D-Ky., scheduled another session for tomorrow in hopes of getting the legislation approved.

The change was recommended by Robert J. Soderblom, auditor for the district.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

MASTER PLAN — Received an offer from Jenks and Adamson, consulting engineers of Palo Alto who made the master plan for the district, to revise the master plan so that it would comply with the new regulations of the Regional Water Quality Control Board. This work would cost $6,000. The board called for a contract to be ready for its meeting at 6:30 p.m. June 23.

EXTENSIONS — Accepted the main extension for the Ted R. Schuman development west of Highway 101 at Lamont Avenue and approved the plans for a main extension for a lot at the southeast corner of Center Road and Euclyptus Avenue for Lloyd Benson.

TRUCK — Authorized the $4,600 purchase of a sewer maintenance tank truck to replace a 1944 model which is worn out. The board also authorized the purchase of $765 in equipment for the Novato treatment plant.

SERVICE — Approved a temporary service agreement for Robert J. Soderblom for 997 Simmons Lane to get service to the lot while it is being annexed to the district.

Jail Ordered In Car Theft Case

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday ordered George Arthur Ehrig, 25, of San Francisco to spend nine months in jail for car theft and petty theft, which Ehrig had admitted as his trial commenced last month.

The judge said Ehrig should be allowed credit for time already served on a San Francisco sentence.

He also placed him on three years probation with a suspended prison sentence.

Keynote Speaker

President Leland L. Levinger of the Redwood Empire Association will be the keynote speaker at the second annual meeting and installation luncheon of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau at noon June 19 at the Holiday Inn, San Rafael.

French Or Humanities Courses Set

Red Hill School fifth through eighth graders will be permitted to take either French or humanities on an elective basis this fall, the pilot project being approved last night by the San Anselmo School District board.

Currently those students are required to take French, Supt. Stephen L. Parodi reported. The recommendation for the project came from Red Hill School principal Donald A. Shaw following a change in the state law permitting the variation.

The San Anselmo School District [illegible]

PHILOSOPHY — Adopted a district philosophy of education as submitted by the Educational Specifications Committee.

SALARY SCHEDULE — Discussed salary schedule proposals for 1969-70 but took no action, calling a special salary meeting for 8:30 p.m., tomorrow, at Red Hill School. The board met in closed session at meeting's end to discuss salaries with their negotiator but took no action, Parodi said.

PHYSICAL FITNESS — Heard in a report by Barry Connell on the district's physical fitness program that eighth grade boys do not do as well as fifth grade boys in pushups but boys in both grades did quite well in the 50 yard dash as compared with the national norm.

KINDERGARTEN — Agreed to write State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, saying it favors a fully state-funded kindergarten program rather than the partially funded one at present.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Kris Beining, Wade Thomas School, second grade, at $6,961; Mrs. Leslie Kahl, Sleepy Hollow, third grade, $6,574 and Sandra Tierney, Wade Thomas, third grade, $8,122 and agreed to give five per cent additional pay in 1969-70 to Frances Findley, Yolansdale, third grade, who will become head teacher in addition to teaching her regular class.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE — Granted a leave of absence for 1969-70 to Ann T. Morrison, Wade Thomas School, fifth grade, now on sick leave.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations from Jean Yates, Sleepy Hollow, sixth grade, who is moving to Oklahoma with her husband and Margaret Olson, Wade Thomas, library teacher-aide, for personal reasons.

Petaluman Killed In Viet Battle

A 19-year-old Petaluma Marine was reported killed in action in Vietnam Saturday, the Defense Department has announced.

Jason David Hunnicutt of 8 Dean Court, was reportedly killed when he was struck in the head by rockets and mortars while standing guard at a small Marine outpost in Quan An province.

A Marine for nearly a year; Hunnicutt had been in Vietnam for five months. A private first class, he was to have been promoted to lance corporal this month, according to his father, Joseph W. Hunnicutt.

A 1967 graduate of Petaluma Senior High School, he had worked for the Carson Goat Milk Co. while a student.

In addition to his father, he is survived by his mother, Wanda E. Hunnicutt; two sisters, Nancy Willitts of Pittsfield, Ill., and Joyce Hunnicutt, at home; and a brother, Marty Hunnicutt, at home.

American Flag Still Flies Low

The American flag continues to fly at half-mast at the College of Marin in honor of men who have lost their lives in war.

An altercation among students occurred last Friday after lowering ceremonies. The flag was lowered several times, finally disappeared but was replaced yesterday morning at 6:45 a.m.

The flag is to be flown at half-mast until June 19, the end of the current final examination period.

Kentfield Trustees Shun Tax Rate Boost

Kentfield School District trustees last night adopted a preliminary 1969-70 budget of $1,331,171 and said they are determined to hold the current $3.34 tax rate.

The board, reported Supt. Anthony G. Bacich, has adjusted to the 1969-70 financial picture by drastically reducing maintenance costs and eliminating nearly all capital outlay items and cutting one staff member.

But, in order to maintain the current school program for 1970-71, a tax increase election will be necessary, the board said.

Trustees set a meeting for July 7 at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade School to reach a decision on calling a tax election early this fall, Bacich reported.

The board tentatively approved a salary schedule with a 4.82 per cent increase over the current year for teachers and classified employees. This results in a schedule running from a beginning salary of $6,500 to $13,000 after 13 years of service and an added 60 units of graduate work.

The 4.82 per cent increase is above the automatic annual step raise which runs about 5 per cent.

A 12-by-12 board, burned continuously for one hour on all four sides, would still be stronger than a 9-by-9 inch board never touched by fire. Even when exposee to fire, thick wood members retain their strength for long periods of time.

Foe Of Film Series To Talk

A psychiatrist opposed to the sex education aspects of the film series, "Time of Your Life," will appear before a Mill Valley School District review committee tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Dr. Louis A. Noltimier, a member of Gov. Ronald Reagan's Advisory Committee on Mental Health, is president of Physicians for Good Government and on the staffs at St. Mary's and St. Francis hospitals, San Francisco.

The session is to be held at Homestead School, 305 Montford Avenue.

At an earlier meeting Mrs. Marilyn McCurdy, who appears in the film, spoke in favor of adoption of the KQED series.

Condemnation Talk On Rail Property

Tiburon City Councilman William R. Bremer last night said he might recommend condemnation of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way along Tiburon Boulevard if negotiations to purchase the land are not successful by the end of July.

Bremer told the council, in a report prompted by criticism of delay in acquiring the right-of-way sought by the city for a bicycle and pedestrian path, that he had received "certain overtures" from railroad representatives concerning sale of the property to the city.

However, he noted, the railroad's overtures "have other ramifications" which he implied concerned other railroad holdings in the city.

"We must consider all the ramifications to the city of the railroad's interests," he said, adding he wanted to clarify these "ramifications" before making a recommendation for action to the council.

He promised the council a full report "perhaps in two weeks" at which time, he said, the issue would be discussed fully.

Bremer's remarks were prompted by a letter in yesterday's Independent-Journal from Tiburon resident Gerry E. Coles which criticized the council for an apparent delay of more than a year in acquiring the land.

In his letter, Coles asked, "How long must our patience endure? S.P. is playing a waiting game, and our council naively goofs along."

The city should have condemned the land a long time ago, Coles said.

Bremer, announcing he wanted to "respond publicly" to the letter, said "The approach advocated by Coles in naive, insipid, negligent."

"I am not ready to declare war on the railroad," Bremer said. "It may have to be done eventually . . . I will not be bulldozed into taking a premature position on this."

Bremer, who was appointed the city's representative in the negotiations with the railroad, was supported by Mayor Branwell D. Fanning who said he was "not disappointed" in Coles' attitude. "I didn't expect much else. He seems to have taken it as a personal project to keep the waters muddy."

Councilman Anne E. Ellinwood said the council was "overreacting." Coles has the right to "take the public channels, including the press," to air his displeasure with the council, she said.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

HORSES — Declared its intent to amend the zoning ordinance to regulate the keeping of horses, donkeys, mules and similar domestic animals in the city.

BICYCLE TRAILS — Endorsed the addition of an urban bicycle trail system to the county parks and recreation plan and suggested Trestle Glen Boulevard be added to the trail system.

EMPLOYEES — Allocated $3,450 for salaries for temporary employees in the public works department.

ARK — Extended a temporary permit allowing storage of the ark Mermaid on Tiburon Peninsula Club property until July 14.

ABATEMENT — Indicated its intent to declare two arks stored on Northwestern Pacific Railroad property a public nuisance at the June 23 meeting if the arks have not been removed by that time.

Lagoon Victim's Mother Sues

A $75,000 damage suit has been filed in Marin Superior Court for wrongful death by the mother of a nine-year-old boy drowned Feb. 8 in a lagoon near the Civic Center against Marin County.

In her suit Carol Ann Fust, who describes herself as David Blaine Dills' only survivor, claimed that the body of water should have been fenced and that it appeared to be shallow but actually had deep holes.

Also named in the suit are five John Does and two corporations of unknown names.

Rifle Shots Chase Petaluma Prowler

Rifle shots from a Petaluma resident routed a prowler at 2 a.m. today, police reported.

Frank Claxton, 428 Fifth Street, said he saw a prowler in his back yard, fired a shot into the air and began a chase. He said he chased the man on Fifth Street to G Street where he fired a second shot in the air, but lost the man as he fled toward Petaluma Boulevard South. The prowler was described as being five feet five inches tall and weighing 125 pounds.

Youth Is Booked In Drug Probe

A 16-year-old high school student has been booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of selling dangerous drugs in connection with the distribution of seconal tablets last month at a Santa Venetia teen-age party.

Philip Adams of 109 Professional Center Parkway, San Rafael, was arrested Thursday at school for allegedly selling 20 seconal tablets for $5 on May 16 at Northgate Shopping Center.

Marin County Sheriff's inspector Charles Prandi said a 16-year-old boy and his 13-year-old sister said they had received the pills, known as "reds," at the party from another youth who said he purchased them from Adams.

No Election

The fleet captains for sail, ski and cruiser boats of the Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the community center and not an election of the captains as reported last Friday in the Independent-Journal.

Nixon Sets Briefing On Midway Session

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon, heading home from the Midway summit conference, hopes his decision to begin withdrawing U.S. troops from South Vietnam will be read by Communist peace negotiators as a significant signal.

Nixon will get a formal Washington welcome from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and other dignitaries and will deliver "general remarks."

His comments will be broadcast live by some networks.

The cabinet and some members of Congress from both parties will participate in the welcome, with Nixon accorded full military honors.

In early evening, Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress will meet with Nixon in the White House to get a firsthand report on his Midway meeting Sunday with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

White House sources, who declined to be identified by name, said Nixon and his aides believed the Midway sessions were successful and that administration objectives were achieved.

They said Nixon was hopeful that his decision to withdraw 25,000 U.S. troops from South Vietnam by the end of August would convey a significant message to the other side.

The bulk of the 25,000 will be combat troops, they said, and asserted this fact should underscore the intended signal.

While Nixon and Thieu indicated more troops will be pulled out later, the White House said there is no numerical target for the year.

Initial reaction to the troop withdrawal from North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, was to denounce it as mere propaganda.

A spokesman for Hanoi at the Paris peace talks said yesterday it was part of "perfidious maneuvers" by Nixon "seeking by all means to calm the opposition of the American people" to the Vietnam war.

A National Liberation Front source said the withdrawal "constitutes only a grain of sand thrown in an ocean" and a "propaganda maneuver intended to calm the demands of the American people and mislead world opinion.

White House sources said the initial negative reaction was predictable.

The White House reported that a tentative decision to begin the withdrawals was made about six weeks ago, but insisted that a final decision on the details was not reached until the two presidents met at Midway.

At the end of March, they noted, Thieu offered to enter into unconditional negotiations with representatives of the National Liberation Front. Then came Nixon's eight-point peace plan of May 14, followed by the Midway agreement to begin gradually replacing U.S. forces with newly trained and equipped South Vietnamese units.

While the sources said they did not want to speculate, they hinted strongly that Theu soon can be expected to spell out in greater detail his suggestions for the political evolution of South Vietnam.

They reported that Nixon and Thieu devoted more time to this subject at Midway than to any other topic.

College Unrest Plans Stalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — A divided House Education Committee was unable to reach agreement today on a compromise bill designed to deal with college unrest.

Opponents of any federal action on the subject prevented the committee from putting through a bipartisan bill.

Chairman Carl Perkins, D-Ky., scheduled another session for tomorrow in hopes of getting the legislation approved.

Safe Is Stolen

W. Leonard Needham of 825 Las Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael, reported to police today the theft of a 100-year-old safe, $200 in coins and $10 in cash from his apartment during the night. The thieves pried the front door to enter the residence, police said.

Sausalitan Admits Selling Methedrine

Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for July 28.

Probation On Pot

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Frederick Lee Sherman of Novato, a Vietnam War veteran, on one year probation for possessing marijuana. He also ordered him to pay a $50 fine and declared the offense to be a misdemeanor.

Sanitary Funds Moved Into Novato

The Novato Sanitary District board last night voted to transfer district funds from the county treasury to local banks, according to Engineer-Manager Charles A. Joseph.

"This will give the district more flexibility in handling its money," Joseph said.

The change was recommended by Robert J. Soderblom, auditor for the district.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

MASTER PLAN — Received an offer from Jenks and Adamson, consulting engineers of Palo Alto who made the master plan for the district, to revise the master plan so that it would comply with the new regulations of the Regional Water Quality Control Board. This work would cost $6,000. The board called for a contract to be ready for its meeting at 6:30 p.m. June 23.

EXTENSIONS — Accepted the main extension for the Ted R. Schuman development west of Highway 101 at Lamont Avenue and approved the plans for a main extension for a lot at the southeast corner of Center Road and Euclyptus Avenue for Lloyd Benson.

TRUCK — Authorized the $4,600 purchase of a sewer maintenance tank truck to replace a 1944 model which is worn out. The board also authorized the purchase of $765 in equipment for the Novato treatment plant.

SERVICE — Approved a temporary service agreement for Robert J. Soderblom for 997 Simmons Lane to get service to the lot while it is being annexed to the district.

The aardvark is a large, nocturnal burrowing mammal of Africa.

Jail Ordered In Car Theft Case

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday ordered George Arthur Ehrig, 25, of San Francisco to spend nine months in jail for car theft and petty theft, which Ehrig had admitted as his trial commenced last month.

The judge said Ehrig should be allowed credit for time already served on a San Francisco sentence.

He also placed him on three years probation with a suspended prison sentence.

Keynote Speaker

President Leland L. Levinger of the Redwood Empire Association will be the keynote speaker at the second annual meeting and installation luncheon of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau at noon June 19 at the Holiday Inn, San Rafael.

According to a spokesman for General Foods the five varieties of cereals containing freeze-dry fruit had to be cut down to one, cornflakes and strawberries. "Maybe, the variety was too bewildering" said the GF spokesman. An astute observation when you consider the consumer has at least 190 choices in cereals. Among them, different size packages, instant and almost instant, a variety of shapes and colors—what else.

Co-op has cut down your work a little, we only have ninety-three varieties.

FATS ENOUGH

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture has proposed that the fat content of cooked sausage, such as frankfurters and bologna, be limited to 33%. Analitical data gathered by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service indicates 33 per cent is the maximum fat content currently normal in these products. The proposal, if adopted would prevent further increases. It will be considered at a public hearing, June 18-20 at USDA in Washington, D.C. If you don't want the level of fat increased in sausage products write a note (2 copies) to the Hearing Clerk, Rm. 112-A, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. DO IT NOW.

Condemnation Talk On Rail Property

Tiburon City Councilman William R. Bremer last night said he might recommend condemnation of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way along Tiburon Boulevard if negotiations to purchase the land are not successful by the end of July.

Bremer told the council, in a report prompted by criticism of delay in acquiring the right-of-way sought by the city for a bicycle and pedestrian path, that he had received "certain overtures" from railroad representatives concerning sale of the property to the city.

However, he noted, the railroad's overtures "have other ramifications" which he implied concerned other railroad holdings in the city.

"We must consider all the ramifications to the city of the railroad's interests," he said, adding he wanted to clarify these "ramifications" before making a recommendation for action to the council.

He promised the council a full report "perhaps in two weeks" at which time, he said, the issue would be discussed fully.

Bremer's remarks were prompted by a letter in yesterday's Independent-Journal from Tiburon resident Gerry E. Coles which criticized the council for an apparent delay of more than a year in acquiring the land.

In his letter, Coles asked, "How long must our patience endure? S.P. is playing a waiting game, and our council naively goofs along."

The city should have condemned the land a long time ago, Coles said.

Bremer, announcing he wanted to "respond publicly" to the letter, said "The approach advocated by Coles in naive, insipid, negligent."

"I am not ready to declare war on the railroad," Bremer said. "It may have to be done eventually . . . I will not be bulldozed into taking a premature position on this."

Bremer, who was appointed the city's representative in the negotiations with the railroad, was supported by Mayor Branwell D. Fanning who said he was "not disappointed" in Coles' attitude. "I didn't expect much else. He seems to have taken it as a personal project to keep the waters muddy."

Councilman Anne E. Ellinwood said the council was "overreacting." Coles has the right to "take the public channels, including the press," to air his displeasure with the council, she said.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

HORSES — Declared its intent to amend the zoning ordinance to regulate the keeping of horses, donkeys, mules and similar domestic animals in the city.

BICYCLE TRAILS — Endorsed the addition of an urban bicycle trail system to the county parks and recreation plan and suggested Trestle Glen Boulevard be added to the trail system.

ARK — Extended a temporary permit allowing storage of the ark Mermaid on Tiburon Peninsula Club property until July 14.

ABATEMENT — Indicated its intent to declare two arks stored on Northwestern Pacific Railroad property a public nuisance at the June 23 meeting if the arks have not been removed by that time.

Burglaries Denied By AWOL Marine

Steven Wayne Mitchell, 19, an AWOL Marine from San Rafael, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to burglarizing five Tiburon and Greenbrae homes in April.

A jury trial was set for the week of July 21.

Named Reader

Edward L. Cunningham, chairman of the English department at San Rafael High School, has been appointed a reader for advanced placement tests at Rider College in Trenton, N.J., not Writer's College, as reported in Saturday's Independent-Journal.

Youth Is Booked In Drug Probe

A 16-year-old high school student has been booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of selling dangerous drugs in connection with the distribution of seconal tablets last month at a Santa Venetia teen-age party.

Philip Adams of 109 Professional Center Parkway, San Rafael, was arrested Thursday at school for allegedly selling 20 seconal tablets fcr $5 on May 16 at Northgate Shopping Center.

Marin County Sheriff's inspector Charles Prandi said a 16-year-old boy and his 13-year-old sister said they had received the pills, known as "reds," at the party from another youth who said he purchased them from Adams.

No Election

The fleet captains for sail, ski and cruiser boats of the Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the community center and not an election of the captains as reported last Friday in the Independent-Journal.

Lagoon Victim's Mother Sues

A $75,000 damage suit has been filed in Marin Superior Court for wrongful death by the mother of a nine-year-old boy drowned Feb. 8 in a lagoon near the Civic Center against Marin County.

In her suit Carol Ann Fust, who describes herself as David Blaine Dills' only survivor, claimed that the body of water should have been fenced and that it appeared to be shallow but actually had deep holes.

Also named in the suit are five John Does and two corporations of unknown names.

Rifle Shots Chase Petaluma Prowler

Rifle shots from a Petaluma resident routed a prowler at 2 a.m. today, police reported.

Frank Claxton, 428 Fifth Street, said he saw a prowler in his back yard, fired a shot into the air and began a chase. He said he chased the man on Fifth Street to G Street where he fired a second shot in the air, but lost the man as he fled toward Petaluma Boulevard South. The prowler was described as being five feet five inches tall and weighing 125 pounds.

WITH THE "new generation" has come a new style in weddings, bringing a joyous pageantry to these often outdoor occasions. Artists Bob and Eileen are New Yorkers, but their wishes for a "glorious celebration" of a wedding are typical of recent Marin and Bay Area weddings with colorful hip clothes and rock music for the celebration afterward.

NEW GENERATION

Weddings Take On A Free Pageantry

They prefer their coffee black or sweetened with coarse unrefined sugar. They don't drink alcohol or smoke cigarettes. They eat only pure foods, grown without any chemical fertilizers. They express a disinterest in clothes yet decorate themselves with paints, brightly colored beads, pendants, flowers, ribbons and scarves. They dislike traditional formality and surround their most important affairs with rituals of their own design.

They are the flower children, the prophets of peace, love and Utopia in our time. Most of the enclaves where they gathered have been reduced to decay. Haight-Ashbury and the East Village have become sordid centers of crime. Their once passionate belief in the self-revealing, conscious-expanding powers of potent weeds and chemical compounds have proved a false and dangerous myth. Most of their experiments in communalism have failed, partly as a result of a hostile society and partly because the communes attracted young people too confused and too lost in the psychological undergrowth of their own problems.

But the flower children's spirit remains. They still preach altruism, mysticism, honesty, joy and non-violence. And they have deeply touched the imagination of the straight society. Corporation presidents and psychiatrists speak of hang ups. Advertising executives and salesgirls speak of groovy trends. Department stores and shopping malls have blossomed out in psychedelic colors and designs. Television commercials from brotherhood to soft drinks use acid rock backgrounds. No other sub culture has so influenced the world's youth. And members of the tribe like to think they live the life styles of the future.

Spring in New York brings the cult to full flower. During the first warm days of April, two of the faithful got married with joyous pageantry. In Central Park, on a blustery day, Bob and Eileen (they've given up the use of last names) promised each other love and peace, and "to stay with each other as long as we both shall desire," and were happily pelted by their friends with carnations, irises, daisies and daffodils.

Both Bob and Eileen are artists; he paints, designs and works for an art gallery; she makes pottery. Both are unlike the hippies of a few years ago; they have no desire to drop out of society but to work within it, to follow their personal vocations and perhaps to reform society by their example. Both regard long-held ways of doing things as valueless and point out the contradictions in American life. But when they married, they both wanted a ceremony.

"It's a glorious celebration," said Eileen. "We're happy and in love, and we want everybody to share it."

The bride was radiant in a long white eyelet dress made by a young designer, Pat Walker, sold in Greenwich Village's Apartment G.

"The dress is out of sight," sighed Eileen, "it doesn't have artificial things like buttons and zippers. You just pull the sashes to make it look any way you want."

The bridegroom wore a pale pink flowered shirt, belted dungarees, ropes of beads, boots and a cowboy hat. The hat was decorated with head bands crafted by the Hopi Indians, whose naturalistic ways Bob admires. He decided not to wear two silver and turquoise bracelets sent to him by a friend in Tangiers because the friend was "too far into the drug scene."

Accompanied by tambourines, guitars and chants of "Hare Krishna," the wedding party marched back to a friend's apartment on the West Side. There they swayed to ear-shattering sounds of the Grateful Dead in the flashing beams of a strobe light and the greenish glow of a television set.

Explaining why he never turned the set's sound on, Bob said, "There's no good sounds on, but I like to keep a lot of images in front of my eyes."

Will they remain together until death does them part? "Sure," says Bob, "or until one of us wants to split."

"But," adds Eileen, "I'm sure Bob and I will love each other forever. We really are into what we're like, and we really groove on one another."

SHUNNING THE traditional silk or satin gown, but keeping the regal feeling, a long white eyelet dress was selected by Eileen from a custom shop in Greenwich Village. It has no buttons or zippers. "You just pull the sashes any way you want," explains the bride.

Marinites' Comings, Goings

By MOLLY MARIN

Guests of the Milton L. Stannards at the Corinthian Yacht Club's Commodore's Luau in Tiburon Saturday will be Mr. and Mrs. Norman F. Frahm of Corona Del Mar. Later this month the Stannards will go to Southern California to attend the wedding of their son, Bruce, to Marilyn Ames in Indio, then travel to San Diego, and stop off at Balboa Island and Corona Del Mar before returning to their home in Tiburon.

ON A THREE weeks trip through the South Pacific with a large group of Shriners, Dr. and Mrs. Norman C. Klotz of San Rafael spent a week in Fiji, during which they took a cruise out over the reef that surrounds Suva Bay. Dr. Klotz is a member of Islam Temple Masonic Lodge. While in Fiji the couple stayed in Suva and also on the Coral Coast.

BACK FROM a week's vacation in Baja Cailfornia are Dr. and Mrs. John Flint of Belvedere.

CELEBRATING their golden wedding anniversary on June 22 will be Mr. and Mrs. George Moore of Rohnert Park. The Moores lived in Marin until recently.

A reception will be held for the couple that day at the Oakview Club in Terra Linda from 2 to 5 p.m. for relatives and friends. The Moores' sons and daughters and their families who will attend are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Strouss of Terra Linda, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore of Laytonville, Mr. and Mrs. Don Moore of Chico, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moore of Fairfax, Mr. and Mrs. William Largent of Novato and Mr. and Mrs. James Larson of Sonoma.

The Moores were married 50 years ago in Valier, Mont., and came to live in Marin in 1943. They have lived in Mill Valley, San Anselmo and San Rafael over the years, and have just moved to Rohnert Park. Mr. Moore was employed with a wholesale florist company in Larkspur until his recent retirement.

THE EDWARD Monaghans of Fairfax sailed last week from Miami on a cruise to Nassau aboard the New Bahama Star. The ship was their floating hotel for their Bahama visit.

Citypants take the same Edwardian shaping that men are now wearing with a fitted waistline, ruffled jabot, wider lapels and full cut pantslegs. Even the boots have an Edwardian touch in the buckle styling. One of the looks for fall from the New York Couture Group.

According to a spokesman for General Foods the five varieties of cereals containing freeze-dry fruit had to be cut down to one, cornflakes and strawberries. "Maybe, the variety was too bewildering" said the GF spokesman. An astute observation when you consider the consumer has at least 190 choices in cereals. Among them, different size packages, instant and almost instant, a variety of shapes and colors—what else.

Co-op has cut down your work a little, we only have ninety-three varieties.

OUR FIRST FAN LETTER

I tried your method of storing lettuce and it works perfectly says Mrs. Frank Corwin, Walnut Creek. One of our home economists says if you add a paper towel when storing it in a plastic bag it will be super-perfect.

Limitations of space do not allow us to print answers to all your questions, however each will be acknowledged and in cases where the information is on file we will send you an answer. Those that need to be researched may take a little while longer but we will try to give you the BUY WORD.

FATS ENOUGH

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture has proposed that the fat content of cooked sausage, such as frankfurters and bologna, be limited to 33%. Analitical data gathered by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service indicates 33 per cent is the maximum fat content currently normal in these products. The proposal, if adopted would prevent further increases. It will be considered at a public hearing, June 18-20 at USDA in Washington, D.C. If you don't want the level of fat increased in sausage products write a note (2 copies) to the Hearing Clerk, Rm. 112-A, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. DO IT NOW.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Girl's Phony Correspondence Poses Believable Problem

DEAR HELEN:

I am a well-adjusted high school senior. The other night my father, a widower, had some friends over to the house.

When they left, I noticed most were glassy-eyed and there was a peculiar odor about them. The next day I searched Dad's room and found a packet of marijuana.

I read about parents turning their children in for smoking pot. Should I turn my dad in to the police? — BO-ZEAR

DEAR BO:

The New Jersey hoaxer strikes again. I've learned to recognize your printing — having seen it so often — and also your cute double-meaning signatures.

But because their turn-about could easily happen, I'll give a phony question a straight answer:

Ask your father if a mild high is worth a felony conviction, and add that it's safer (legally, anyway) to cruise with booze than trip up on pot. (But is either trip really necessary?—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm glad to read that others are fed up to here with college riots, sieges, takeovers and threats. Those guys have proved their points, and most universities — like Columbia for instance — have made many needed changes.

I hope when classes begin this fall the violence won't start up again — and if it does, I hope the authorities turn those soul brothers of the SDS, etc. into cell brothers fast! — BRENT

DEAR HELEN:

I'm one of the so-called silent generation, aged 25. In my college days we stuffed telephone booths, and before that they stuffed down goldfish. Now they're stuffing presidents' offices as part of their rites of spring. Maybe we were cop-outs, as they say, but at least we got an education. Only five years separates me from these kids, but that's a bigger gap than there is between me and my parents. — DON'T UNDERSTAND 'EM

DEAR HELEN:

All over the country overdue reforms are being made in colleges. I don't like violence, but I'll have to admit — it got what mild gripes didn't — action! Let's hope the get tough policy doesn't get so tough it stifles the progress that dissenters started. — NON-VIOLENT DISSENTER

DEAR HELEN:

My hang-up: I was engaged to a young man who I thought was out of this world. Well I found he was way, way out of orbit. We broke up. I went into a decline.

As the days went by I began eating enormous amounts of food. I gained 10 pounds quite suddenly, to my sad surprise.

My rescue: Self-analysis. Heck if I'm going to let that no-good bum make me into a fat sob-slob: I am resuming my health diet and once I've lost the excess weight I'm going to escape from hiding, have my hair restyled, let my nervously chewed nails grow long again and paint them apricot. And most of all, I'm going to enjoy that good old feeling of self-confidence— GOBBLE NO MORE

DEAR GOB:

Your letter should help many young people who haven't yet learned that a shot of anger is the best cure for a broken heart. — H.

GEMMA CRUZ Araneta, Miss International of 1964, is one of four international beauty queens living in Manila. She is director of the Philippine National Museum and writes a cultural column in the Weekly Graphic magazine. Married to Antonio Araneta Jr., a Filipino Oxford graduate and journalist, she is one of the most widely traveled women from the Philippines.

Manila's Beauty Queens

MANILA (UPI) — Almost without notice of the fact, Manila has quietly become something of a beauty queen capital. Four international beauty queens now reside within the city's metropolitan limits.

Three of the beauties came from foreign lands, wooed and won by Filipino bachelors.

THEY ARE Armi Kuusela of Finland, Miss Universe of 1953; Stella Marquez of Colombia, Miss International of 1962, and Angela Filmer of Malaysia, Miss Asia of 1965.

They have settled down in Manila with their Filipino husbands and adopted the Philippines as their home.

Manila's fourth beauty is Gemma Cruz Araneta, Miss International of 1964 and now director of the Philippine National Museum. She is married to Antonio Araneta, Jr., a Filipino Oxford graduate and journalist.

Manila claimed five international beauty queens until last February when Richard Handl, former manager of the Rama Hilton Hotel in Bangkok, married Maria Rita (Baby) Santiago, 1968 Queen of the Pacific, and swept her off to a new home in West Berlin.

ARMI KUUSELA, 35, mother of five children, was proclaimed the first Miss Universe 16 years ago in Long Beach.

During her visit to Manila in the course of a world tour, which was part of her prize, she met a handsome Filipino millionaire five years her senior, Virgilio Hilario. They were married after a whirlwind courtship.

Armi looks after their five children, Arne 13, Anna 11, Eva 10, Jose 9, and Mikko 3, and helps her husband in his various business enterprises and civic activities. Since her marriage, she has learned how to speak the Filipino language like a native.

"It is very lovely to stay here but the only thing which scares me is the summer heat," said Armi, who was accustomed to a cold, wintry climate before her marriage.

Jorge Araneta, son of a Filipino industrialist and sportsman, courted and married Stella Marquez in a romance that spanned the Pacific Ocean from Manila to Cali, Colombia.

Stella is a permanent fixture in almost all of Manila's charity-civic affairs. She is chairman of the annual Miss Philippines Pageant and is executive officer of the Colombian consulate. Her husband serves as Colombia's honorary consul general.

The five-foot-two Angela, or Dolly as her husband calls her, has a 3-year-old daughter, Angelique, and expects another child soon.

GEMMA CRUZ Araneta, 25, is perhaps one of the Philippines most-widely traveled women. She accompanied her journalist husband to the Soviet Union, Communist China and North Vietnam, countries normally barred to Filipinos.

Besides running the National Museum, where she was a researcher before she became Miss International of 1964, Gemma writes a cultural column in the weekly Graphic magazine. She also has written a book, "Hanoi Dairy," based on the month-long visit she and her husband made to North Vietnam in 1968.

Conversation With Daddy

By DONALD E. MULLEN

NEW YORK (UPI) — I gathered my three grocery snappers — Scott, 6, Andrew, 4, and Alice, 20 months, in front of the hearth, and, eyes twinkling kindly, asked them:

"Father's Day is coming. Do you regard me in a lighthearted way, yet with just that right amount of sentimentality?"

Scott: What does lighthearted mean?

Daddy: It means am I a fun guy, a groovy fellow to have around?

Andy: Say it again, is it a new riddle?

Scott: Shut up, I'm asking—What does sentimentality mean?

Daddy: It means...well...like when you go to bed at night you say 'I love you, daddy," and really mean it.

Andy: That's the answer to the riddle?

Scott: I don't think so.

Daddy: Don't think so what?

Andy: I know—I'll meet you at the corner!

Daddy: Nobody said any thing about any presents. All I want to know is...

Andy: Now I'll ask one—why did the little boy throw the clock out the window?

Scott: You don't want any presents at all?

Andy: It's my turn!

Daddy: Quiet; let's have a little attention here. Now what did I ask before?

Scott: I forgot.

Andy: Let's play I spy.

Daddy: Let's put it this way. If you were going to buy me a present for Father's Day, why would you buy it?

Scott: Because mommy gave us the money?

Daddy: No.

Scott: It's because all the kids in the world have to thank their fathers for everything.

Daddy: You mean 'want to,' don't you?

Scott: Want to what?

Daddy: I think Father's Day is for the birds.

Andy: No it's not, it's for you and we're making a nice pre...

Scott: Shut up, Andy, big mouth—it's a surprise!

WITH THE "new generation" has come a new style in weddings, bringing a joyous pageantry to these often outdoor occasions. Artists Bob and Eileen are New Yorkers, but their wishes for a "glorious celebration" of a wedding are typical of recent Marin and Bay Area weddings with colorful hip clothes and rock music for the celebration afterward.

NEW GENERATION

Weddings Take On A Free Pageantry

They prefer their coffee black or sweetened with coarse unrefined sugar. They don't drink alcohol or smoke cigarettes. They eat only pure foods, grown without any chemical fertilizers. They express a disinterest in clothes yet decorate themselves with paints, brightly colored beads, pendants, flowers, ribbons and scarves. They dislike traditional formality and surround their most important affairs with rituals of their own design.

They are the flower children, the prophets of peace, love and Utopia in our time. Most of the enclaves where they gathered have been reduced to decay. Haight-Ashbury and the East Village have become sordid centers of crime. Their once passionate belief in the self-revealing, conscious-expanding powers of potent weeds and chemical compounds have proved a false and dangerous myth. Most of their experiments in communalism have failed, partly as a result of a hostile society and partly because the communes attracted young people too confused and too lost in the psychological undergrowth of their own problems.

But the flower children's spirit remains. They still preach altruism, mysticism, honesty, joy and non-violence. And they have deeply touched the imagination of the straight society. Corporation presidents and psychiatrists speak of hang ups. Advertising executives and salesgirls speak of groovy trends. Department stores and shopping malls have blossomed out in psychedelic colors and designs. Television commercials from brotherhood to soft drinks use acid rock backgrounds. No other sub culture has so influenced the world's youth. And members of the tribe like to think they live the life styles of the future.

Spring in New York brings the cult to full flower. During the first warm days of April, two of the faithful got married with joyous pageantry. In Central Park, on a blustery day, Bob and Eileen (they've given up the use of last names) promised each other love and peace, and "to stay with each other as long as we both shall desire," and were happily pelted by their friends with carnations, irises, daisies and daffodils.

Both Bob and Eileen are artists; he paints, designs and works for an art gallery; she makes pottery. Both are unlike the hippies of a few years ago; they have no desire to drop out of society but to work within it, to follow their personal vocations and perhaps to reform society by their example. Both regard long-held ways of doing things as valueless and point out the contradictions in American life. But when they married, they both wanted a ceremony.

"It's a glorious celebration," said Eileen. "We're happy and in love, and we want everybody to share it."

The bride was radiant in a long white eyelet dress made by a young designer, Pat Walker, sold in Greenwich Village's Apartment G.

"The dress is out of sight," sighed Eileen, "it doesn't have artificial things like buttons and zippers. You just pull the sashes to make it look any way you want."

The bridegroom wore a pale pink flowered shirt, belted dungarees, ropes of beads, boots and a cowboy hat. The hat was decorated with head bands crafted by the Hopi Indians, whose naturalistic ways Bob admires. He decided not to wear two silver and turquoise bracelets sent to him by a friend in Tangiers because the friend was "too far into the drug scene."

Accompanied by tambourines, guitars and chants of "Hare Krishna," the wedding party marched back to a friend's apartment on the West Side. There they swayed to ear-shattering sounds of the Grateful Dead in the flashing beams of a strobe light and the greenish glow of a television set.

Explaining why he never turned the set's sound on, Bob said, "There's no good sounds on, but I like to keep a lot of images in front of my eyes."

Will they remain together until death does them part? "Sure," says Bob, "or until one of us wants to split."

"But," adds Eileen, "I'm sure Bob and I will love each other forever. We really are into what we're like, and we really groove on one another."

SHUNNING THE traditional silk or satin gown, but keeping the regal feeling, a long white eyelet dress was selected by Eileen from a custom shop in Greenwich Village. It has no buttons or zippers. "You just pull the sashes any way you want," explains the bride.

THE PANTSSUIT IS DRESSED UP

Registration Opens Tomorrow For Audubon Canyon Ranch Volunteers

An unusual opportunity will be available soon to Marin men and women who enjoy children and have an interest in becoming volunteer naturalists. The Audubon Canyon Ranch at the Bolinas Lagoon will soon broaden its educational horizons with financial aid from the Junior League of San Francisco, Inc.

A training program to be called the Volunteer Council of the Audubon Canyon Ranch will begin next fall.

The program, consisting of alternate field trips and lectures, to be given in Ross, will deal with the natural history of the plants and animals associated with the varied ecological communitie s at the Audubon Canyon Ranch and throughout Marin County. The variety of areas in the county, such as woodlands, ponds, grasslands, chaparral, bays and the Bolinas Lagoon will be emphasized.

Volunteers will learn the multiple facets of conservation and county planning, as they relate to Marin, from biologists of National Science Education Resources in a program coordinated by Mrs. Rembert Kingsley and conducted by Clarin Zumwalt, naturalist at the Ranch. Instructing with Mrs. Kingsley and Mr. Zumwalt will be Mrs. Katherine Cuneo, Mrs. Virginia Havel and Maggie and David Cavagnaro.

How to involve the child in the classroom with the story of the Blue Heron and the Egret, and how to hold his attention and to answer questions when out on the trail will be part of the learning experience offered in this course. When the volunteer has completed his training he will be equipped to enter the classroom to present his information and then to guide the curious students along the nature trails of the Audubon Canyon Ranch.

Interviews for those interested in participating in this program of sixteen training sessions will be held at the Volunteer Bureau of Marin, 723 A Street, San Rafael tomorrow and Thursday between 10 a.m. and noon. Interview appointment may be made with Mrs. Kieckhefer.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Girl's Phony Correspondence Poses Believable Problem

DEAR HELEN:

I am a well-adjusted high school senior. The other night my father, a widower, had some friends over to the house.

When they left, I noticed most were glassy-eyed and there was a peculiar odor about them. The next day I searched Dad's room and found a packet of marijuana.

I read about parents turning their children in for smoking pot. Should I turn my dad in to the police? — BO-ZEAR

DEAR BO:

The New Jersey hoaxer strikes again. I've learned to recognize your printing — having seen it so often — and also your cute double-meaning signatures.

But because their turn-about could easily happen, I'll give a phony question a straight answer:

Ask your father if a mild high is worth a felony conviction, and add that it's safer (legally, anyway) to cruise with booze than trip up on pot. (But is either trip really necessary?—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm glad to read that others are fed up to here with college riots, sieges, takeovers and threats. Those guys have proved their points, and most universities — like Columbia for instance — have made many needed changes.

I hope when classes begin this fall the violence won't start up again — and if it does, I hope the authorities turn those soul brothers of the SDS, etc. into cell brothers fast! — BRENT

DEAR HELEN:

I'm one of the so-called silent generation, aged 25. In my college days we stuffed telephone booths, and before that they stuffed down goldfish. Now they're stuffing presidents' offices as part of their rites of spring. Maybe we were cop-outs, as they say, but at least we got an education. Only five years separates me from these kids, but that's a bigger gap than there is between me and my parents. — DON'T UNDERSTAND 'EM

DEAR HELEN:

All over the country overdue reforms are being made in colleges. I don't like violence, but I'll have to admit — it got what mild gripes didn't — action! Let's hope the get tough policy doesn't get so tough it stifles the progress that dissenters started. — NON-VIOLENT DISSENTER

DEAR HELEN:

My hang-up: I was engaged to a young man who I thought was out of this world. Well I found he was way, way out of orbit. We broke up. I went into a decline.

As the days went by I began eating enormous amounts of food. I gained 10 pounds quite suddenly, to my sad surprise.

My rescue: Self-analysis. Heck if I'm going to let that no-good bum make me into a fat sob-slob: I am resuming my health diet and once I've lost the excess weight I'm going to escape from hiding, have my hair restyled, let my nervously chewed nails grow long again and paint them apricot. And most of all, I'm going to enjoy that good old feeling of self-confidence— GOBBLE NO MORE

DEAR GOB:

Your letter should help many young people who haven't yet learned that a shot of anger is the best cure for a broken heart. — H.

GEMMA CRUZ Araneta, Miss International of 1964, is one of four international beauty queens living in Manila. She is director of the Philippine National Museum and writes a cultural column in the Weekly Graphic magazine. Married to Antonio Araneta Jr., a Filipino Oxford graduate and journalist, she is one of the most widely traveled women from the Philippines.

Manila's Beauty Queens

MANILA (UPI) — Almost without notice of the fact, Manila has quietly become something of a beauty queen capital. Four international beauty queens now reside within the city's metropolitan limits.

Three of the beauties came from foreign lands, wooed and won by Filipino bachelors.

THEY ARE Armi Kuusela of Finland, Miss Universe of 1953; Stella Marquez of Colombia, Miss International of 1962, and Angela Filmer of Malaysia, Miss Asia of 1965.

They have settled down in Manila with their Filipino husbands and adopted the Philippines as their home.

Manila's fourth beauty is Gemma Cruz Araneta, Miss International of 1964 and now director of the Philippine National Museum. She is married to Antonio Araneta, Jr., a Filipino Oxford graduate and journalist.

Manila claimed five international beauty queens until last February when Richard Handl, former manager of the Rama Hilton Hotel in Bangkok, married Maria Rita (Baby) Santiago, 1968 Queen of the Pacific, and swept her off to a new home in West Berlin.

ARMI KUUSELA, 35, mother of five children, was proclaimed the first Miss Universe 16 years ago in Long Beach.

During her visit to Manila in the course of a world tour, which was part of her prize, she met a handsome Filipino millionaire five years her senior, Virgilio Hilario. They were married after a whirlwind courtship.

Armi looks after their five children, Arne 13, Anna 11, Eva 10, Jose 9, and Mikko 3, and helps her husband in his various business enterprises and civic activities. Since her marriage, she has learned how to speak the Filipino language like a native.

"It is very lovely to stay here but the only thing which scares me is the summer heat," said Armi, who was accustomed to a cold, wintry climate before her marriage.

Jorge Araneta, son of a Filipino industrialist and sportsman, courted and married Stella Marquez in a romance that spanned the Pacific Ocean from Manila to Cali, Colombia.

Stella is a permanent fixture in almost all of Manila's charity-civic affairs. She is chairman of the annual Miss Philippines Pageant and is executive officer of the Colombian consulate. Her husband serves as Colombia's honorary consul general.

The five-foot-two Angela, or Dolly as her husband calls her, has a 3-year-old daughter, Angelique, and expects another child soon.

GEMMA CRUZ Araneta, 25, is perhaps one of the Philippines most-widely traveled women. She accompanied her journalist husband to the Soviet Union, Communist China and North Vietnam, countries normally barred to Filipinos.

Besides running the National Museum, where she was a researcher before she became Miss International of 1964, Gemma writes a cultural column in the weekly Graphic magazine. She also has written a book, "Hanoi Dairy," based on the month-long visit she and her husband made to North Vietnam in 1968.

Conversation With Daddy

By DONALD E. MULLEN

NEW YORK (UPI) — I gathered my three grocery snappers — Scott, 6, Andrew, 4, and Alice, 20 months, in front of the hearth, and, eyes twinkling kindly, asked them:

"Father's Day is coming. Do you regard me in a lighthearted way, yet with just that right amount of sentimentality?"

Scott: What does lighthearted mean?

Daddy: It means am I a fun guy, a groovy fellow to have around?

Andy: Say it again, is it a new riddle?

Scott: Shut up, I'm asking—What does sentimentality mean?

Daddy: It means...well...like when you go to bed at night you say 'I love you, daddy,'' and really mean it.

Andy: That's the answer to the riddle?

Scott: I don't think so.

Daddy: Don't think so what?

Andy: I know—I'll meet you at the corner!

Daddy: Nobody said any thing about any presents. All I want to know is...

Andy: Now I'll ask one—why did the little boy throw the clock out the window?

Scott: You don't want any presents at all?

Andy: It's my turn!

Daddy: Quiet; let's have a little attention here. Now what did I ask before?

Scott: I forgot.

Andy: Let's play I spy.

Daddy: Let's put it this way. If you were going to buy me a present for Father's Day, why would you buy it?

Scott: Because mommy gave us the money?

Daddy: No.

Scott: It's because all the kids in the world have to thank their fathers for everything.

Daddy: You mean 'want to,' don't you?

Scott: Want to what?

Daddy: I think Father's Day is for the birds.

Andy: No it's not, it's for you and we're making a nice pre...

Scott: Shut up, Andy, big mouth—it's a surprise!

First Class Badges Awarded To Seven San Rafael Girl Scouts

Seven San Rafael girls received the highest honor in Cadette Girl Scouting, the First Class Badge, last night at the annual Awards Night held at the San Rafael home of Mr. and Mrs. George Tuttle.

Gladys Mendelson, the daughter of Mrs. Bette Cooper; Deborah Plotkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Plotkin; Susan Rose, daughter of the Williams Roses; Patricia Salin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lothar Salin; Deborah White, daughter of the Wayne Welches; and Margaret Yarling, Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Yarling's daughter are members of Troop 2009. Mrs. Yarling is the leader of the troop, sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael. Patti Kendrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kendrick, is a member of Troop 1327, led by Mrs. Boyd Wells.

The honor exemplifies many years of Scouting, proficiency in skills of art, homemaking, citizenship, health and safety, international friendship and the out-of-doors. The award is similar to the Eagle award in Boy Scouting.

AT THURSDAY'S meeting of the Path Finders Section of the Marin Art and Garden Center plans for the summer will be discussed and officers will be elected.

New members will be greeted during the 10 a.m. coffee hour at the home of the president, Mrs. John Gentles of San Rafael.

MRS. BUD Ruzsicska was installed president of Theta Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in Petaluma. The other chapter officers are Mmes. Bob Rafael, vice president; Paul Dito, recording secretary; Norman Rollins, corresponding secretary; Les Sturm, treasurer; Jim Bostrum, civil defense; John Setlak and Harold Matzen, city council delegates.

NOVATO CHAPTER 609, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a flag ceremony and meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at Druids Hall in Novato.

Chairman for the evening will be Mrs. Dorothy A. Campbell, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Lott Vickers, Mrs. Stanley Crandall, Mrs. W. O. Bird and Laurence Schmidt.

AT THE annual meeting of the Marin County Women's Tennis Club at the home of Mrs. William B. Lindow in Tiburon, last year's president, Mrs. Wallace Painter of San Anselmo, turned over the gavel to Mrs. Walter Becker of San Rafael.

Also elected were vice president, Mrs. Norbert Dose of San Anselmo; secretary, Mrs. William Lindow of Tiburon; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Backer of Ross; and tournament chairman, Mrs. Joseph Personeni of Greenbrae.

In addition to the summer mixed doubles tourney the club holds, this group of experienced tennis players is now a member of the Bay Area Ladies League A Division.

A LUAU will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Williams for members and their husbands of Upsilon Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at 7 p.m., Friday. Chairmen of the luau are Mmes. Claus Mund, Robert Teijeiro, Williams and Donald Heinitz.

The No-Party

The fashion in parties, according to Madame Elsa Schiaparelli: "Don't mix the old with the young." She staged a happening for her granddaughter, Berry Berenson, at the St. Regis. The occasion was Miss Berenson's 21st birthday. "Schiap" practiced what she preached by not attending.

Knit Nighties

Registration Opens Tomorrow For Audubon Canyon Ranch Volunteers

An unusual opportunity will be available soon to Marin men and women who enjoy children and have an interest in becoming volunteer naturalists. The Audubon Canyon Ranch at the Bolinas Lagoon will soon broaden its educational horizons with financial aid from the Junior League of San Francisco, Inc.

A training program to be called the Volunteer Council of the Audubon Canyon Ranch will begin next fall.

The program, consisting of alternate field trips and lectures, to be given in Ross, will deal with the natural history of the plants and animals associated with the varied ecological communitie s at the Audubon Canyon Ranch and throughout Marin County. The variety of areas in the county, such as woodlands, ponds, grasslands, chaparral, bays and the Bolinas Lagoon will be emphasized.

Volunteers will learn the multiple facets of conservation and county planning, as they relate to Marin, from biologists of National Science Education Resources in a program coordinated by Mrs. Rembert Kingsley and conducted by Clarin Zumwalt, naturalist at the Ranch. Instructing with Mrs. Kingsley and Mr. Zumwalt will be Mrs. Katherine Cuneo, Mrs. Virginia Havel and Maggie and David Cavagnaro.

How to involve the child in the classroom with the story of the Blue Heron and the Egret, and how to hold his attention and to answer questions when out on the trail will be part of the learning experience offered in this course. When the volunteer has completed his training he will be equipped to enter the classroom to present his information and then to guide the curious students along the nature trails of the Audubon Canyon Ranch.

Interviews for those interested in participating in this program of sixteen training sessions will be held at the Volunteer Bureau of Marin, 723 A Street, San Rafael tomorrow and Thursday between 10 a.m. and noon. Interview appointment may be made with Mrs. Kieckhefer.

Kentfield Surgeon Among New Breed

By PATRICK SULLIVAN

Their concern for healing transcends patient rosters and the borders of the towns and cities where they practice.

Burke, a quiet, unassuming six-footer late in April traveled 10,000 miles to the curving peninsula Federation of Malaysia, 300 miles southwest across the Gulf of Siam from South Vietnam.

His five-week visit, spent mostly at the Sungei Patani District Hospital, was busy. He performed an average of three operations a day.

And all around him the country was exploding in bitter racial rioting.

Native Malays and the minority Malaysian Chinese clashed in the streets following a general election early in May in which openly racist Chinese and Malay parties cut deeply into the coalition Alliance Party's majority in Parliament.

The Alliance Party declared it would not participate in the new cabinet, setting the stage for wild street parades which disintegrated into taunts, confrontations — and ultimately — an anti-Chinese rampage.

Machinegun-armed government troops — all native Malays — imposed a rigid curfew, restoring some order, but not before about 500 persons were killed, about 90 per cent Chinese.

"It is just the start," Burke said glumly in an interview last week. "It brought out the real racial hatred" between the Chinese and Malays.

Most of the violence was confined to the capitol of Kuala Lumpur, where Burke needed a curfew card to get past the armed troops during five days at the university medical center.

"The soldiers rather indiscriminately suppressed the "One Chinese physician's brother's whole family was shot. They were inside their home; in an area where there had been some teouble, when soldiers Chinese people," he reported. suddenly opend fire with machine guns. The man, his wife and two children were killed. One son survived."

Some Chinese doctors on the hospital staff indicated they felt compelled to leave Malaysia because of the racial hatred, Burke added.

The government of Premier Tunku Abdul Rahman imposed strict censorship, suspending all newspapers and radio broadcasts except by the government station and banning Time and Newsweek magazines, the tanned physician said.

"You had no idea what was going on. It is a completely helpless feeling."

Putting the violence in the background for the moment, the journey, Burke said, was "very refreshing."

He worked in Sungei Patani with a team of six doctors, nurses and technicians in Malaysia on a two-year project for the CARE-Medico organization.

The surgery department there was established by the team earlier in its tour, due to end in November, ending years of a situation in which persons in need of operations had to travel 50 miles to the next hospital.

Burke found a great many parasitic diseases, including worms, and malaria among the Malaysians, who daily must face a wet, hot (95-degree) climate.

In Kuala Lumpur he worked with members of the second graduating class of the university medical school. The class of about 65 joins a similar number who became doctors last year.

More and more doctors are participating in such "working vacations" as his to nations such as Malaysia and elsewhere under the auspices of CARE-Medico, Burke said. Other doctors serve on the ship HOPE and in missionary hospitals.

In a few years, he said, he just might undertake another such mission himself.

$3 Billion Manned Lab Program Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department today announced cancellation of the Air Force's $3 billion Manned Orbiting Laboratory program because of "the continuing urgency of reducing federal defense spending."

Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard told reporters this means the Pentagon is giving up the idea of a military manned space mission "for the time being."

In addition to citing budget cutting pressure, Packard said the decision to cancel the project, was based on "advances in automated techniques for unmanned satellite systems in such fields as research, communications, navigation and meteorology."

He refused to discuss any spy mission the Manned Orbiting Laboratory would have had.

Packard estimated that, as a result of the cancellation, close to $300 million will be saved in spending during the coming fiscal year.

Cancellation will save about $1.5 billion over the next five years, Packard estimated.

It contemplated sending up two-man crews who would have lived and worked in a 30,000-pound, 72-foot-long spacecraft for 30 days.

The first manned flight would have been staged this coming December, according to the original plan, but a combination of factors have slipped the program objective to mid-1972.

Judiciary Warned Of Imposed Ethics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., told the U.S. Judicial Conference today that the judiciary faces congressionally-imposed ethical standards if it fails to put its own house in order.

Appearing at a closed session of the conference at the invitation of Chief Justice Earl Warren, Tydings said in a prepared text that pending legislation would create a commission of judicial disabilities and tenure and require full public disclosure of financial interests.

As chairman of the Senate subcommittee on improvements in judicial machinery, he said that a crisis in confidence in the courts must be resolved. He said that this was caused by the "judiciary's timidity in dealing with the rare instance of judicial misconduct and the more frequent of judicial disability."

"To be quite frank," he said, "the judicial councils have not done the job it was hoped they would do . . . "

Tyding did not mention the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas, who quit under fire of criticism of his acceptance of a yearly fee from the family of convicted financier Louis E. Wolfson. The Fortas case prompted Warren to call the judicial conference together to consider reforms.

Warren, due to retire with the court's adjournment later this month, is believed anxious to have a code of conduct worked out before then—and before Congress attempts to impose one from the outside.

The conference's 11-member committee on court administration met late into the evening yesterday at the court, presumably putting the finishing touches on proposed new standards.

Activities of the committee and of the conference itself have been secret.

The proposed code is expected to rule out most lecturing by federal judges, require extensive reporting of income and put strict limits on relations with nonjudicial organizations.

From 1844 to 1930, the Dominican Republic had 43 presidents and 56 revolutions.

Final Concert By Camerata Players Is Set

The Camerata Players, a chamber group organized and directed by Dr. S. Drummond Wolff, will present the final free public concert in its current season Sunday at 4 p.m. at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley.

Performing will be Ruggiero Pelosi and Donna Salarpi, violins; Joan Lundblad, viola; Patricia Symonds, cello; Jacquelyn Bowers and Marsha Lang, oboes; John Leones, bassoon. Dr. Wolff will accompany at the harpsichord.

Guest artist will be soprano Jeanne Kostelic, who will sing two arias for soprano and obbligato instruments by J. S. Bach.

Other gems from the baroque era performed will be the Concerto for Organ and Orchestra and Sonata for Two Violins and Cello, Handel; Concerto in A Minor for Oboes and Bassoon, Boismortier; Concerto for Violin in A Minor, Telemann; Sonata for Bassoon and Harpsichord, Senaille; Concerto for Oboe and Strings, Albinoni, and Concerto for Oboe, Violin, Viola, Bassoon and Cello, Vivaldi.

Music Workshop Announced At Dominican College

The Dominican College Preparatory Department of Music will offer a summer workshop for elementary and high school students from June 23 to July 31.

The series of programs geared to different age and ability levels will include basic composition and theory, music appreciation, group singing, instrumental ensembles and private lessons.

The workshop for boys and girls from 7 to 12 years old will meet from 9:15 to 11 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays for 10 sessions under the direction of Tamara Robertson of the Eastman School of Music and a former student of concert pianist Istvan Nadas. She will also direct the classes in basic composition and theory for high school students from 11:10 a.m. to noon on the same days.

Classes in instrumental ensemble and chamber orchestra will meet one hour a week Wednesdays under the direction of Helen Jordan.

Private lessons in harpsichord, piano, flute, violin, viola and guitar may be arranged through Sister M. Antoinette, O.P., chairman of the department.

CREEK READIED FOR MORE CONCRETE

Tamalpais Creek was tightly corseted with reinforcing rods today as workmen prepared for the pouring of concrete walls to begin tomorrow. In the foreground the cement floor is smoothed by a workman, the industrious scene a contrast to past furor over the block-long section of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project. The creek has been the scene of demonstrations against concrete, the subject of court action and the victim of vandals who wrecked pumps and flooded the dried out creekbed. Teen Center Fund Plea Scrutinized

The San Anselmo City Council moved cautiously over portions of its preliminary budget for 1969-70 last night but in no case was it so careful as with a request from the Town Meeting for $500 for the Third Rail Coffee House.

Councilmen heard manager Norman Leach's itemized $6,195 budget for the teen center located in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church, then asked question after question in connection with the $500 the city was asked to contribute.

To Councilman Duane C. Ragan, Leach reported the regular hours are Friday and Satuday evenings from 8 p.m. to midnight; yes, it is supported by the church's board of deacons; spotlights and amplifiers are needed for the bands which perform; drug abuse information at the coffee house is needed to supplement that offered by local police; the public health service information on drugs is not always accurate.

Ragan said he opposes authorzing the $500 on the basis the coffee house is a private organization.

Councilman James F. Reed said he had reached no decision, that he would like to visit the coffee house and that the council has an obligation to help the teens.

To Councilman Robert M. Scott's questions, Leach said, yes, he feels marijuana should be legalized like alcohol; that it could be beneficial to certain people and no, he has not produced a paper on how to get high on different substances. Leach told Scott he has no antipathy toward the police and that the coffee house is not run by him but by policies and programs established by teenagers.

Answering Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson's queries, Leach said attendance averages 75 on Friday nights and 75 to 200 on Saturday nights.

The coffee house manager said he could not give the percentage of San Anselmans who are served because being a resident is not required.

Leach said that similar teen centers in Fairfax and Mill Valley had to close reportedly because of problems that came from the teens using drugs and alcohol.

Anderson said he, too, would like to visit the coffee house, "unannounced."

Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro said he felt the most important question was qhether the coffee house served San Anselmo teen-agers.

Reed asked Leach if the coffee house were getting very many teens that are presently experiencing drugs. "Yes, Leach replied.

Reed then asked if he was having any luck convincing them that there are other ways of fulfilling one's self other than the drug route. "This is very difficult to answer," Leach replied. He said he knows that some teens were using a lot of drugs when they first came to the center and are now using none.

Leach said those teens under the influence of alcohol or drugs are asked to leave the coffee house and anyone carrying either can have his parents notified.

No action was taken. The subject is expected to be reconsidered June 19 with other requests from the Town Meeting.

The council went over the proposed chamber of commerce budget request of $5,190, up $855 from the current figure. A city contribution of $3,500 was recommended by administrator-controller A. C. Kaeppel.

The library board requested an increase of 10 hours a week for one employee, $1,000 to replace a water line in the basement and rental of a copy machine at $480 a year for five years, and $10,000 for books, with Kaeppel suggesting $9,500.

Total library budget for 1969-70 is estimated at $59,109 as against the current $56,808.

The council discussed hiring one or two full-time maintenance men for the Parks Department.

Kaeppel had budgeted $8,000 in the budget for one added man, $5,200 for a parttime maintenance man and $4,560 for professional landscaping services of A. and J. Shooter for a total of about $18,000.

Other items in the proposed $52,599 parks budget include $2,347 for reconstruction of tennis courts, $5,000 for improvements including comfort stations at Robson-Harrington Park. The proposed $32,680 recreation budget includes $1,000 for senior citizen services.

The council will meet in regular session tonight at 8 o'clock. It meets next on the budget at 8 p.m. Thursday to discuss police, fire and general government. The meeting was adjourned in memory of Hans E. Fischel, San Anselmo's part-time city treasurer, who died Saturday in an auto accident.

Gift Wrap Button Kills Marin Baby

A 10-month-old San Rafael boy choked to death yesterday after swallowing a plastic button used to secure ribbon bows to gift packages.

The boy, Alexander Peter Laskoff II, was rushed to the family physician a short distance from the family home at 96 Oakridge Road, but failed to respond to the efforts of five doctors.

Deputy County Coroner Keith C. Craig said the boy loosened the button from a length of ribbon while playing in his home shortly after 1 p.m. His mother, Joyce, tried to grab the object before the boy swallowed it, but failed.

She rushed him in the family car several blocks to Dr. Williams S. Neal at 11 Professional Center Parkway. Five doctors worked on him to no avail. The button was describes as being about an inch long and about twice as wide as a pencil.

The boy's father, Alexander, is a salesman with Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. in San Francisco. Also surviving is a twin sister, Carol.

Graveside services will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael. Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, is in charge of arrangements.

$60 Taken

Martha O'Brien of 85 Montego Key, Bel Marin, reported to the sheriff's department Saturday that burglars had taken $60 cash from her home as well as a pair of silver candlesticks and a tape recorder, officers said today.

Filling Salt Ponds No Link To Pollution

Filling salt ponds to create land for housing development would in itself have little or no effect on San Francisco Bay air pollution, according to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's chief administrative officer. (See also BCDC Legislature story, page 1)

This finding, however, apparently was unknown to the smog district's director of information — though it was known to the executive director of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, which has recommended against such fill in its proposed master plan for the bay.

Paul E. Peterzell, in his "Golden Gate View" column in the Independent-Journal of May 27, reported that representatives of Leslie Salt Co., which proposes to fill some of the flooded shorelands it now uses for salt ponds, testified before legislative committees that smog district studies prove the salt ponds do not help reduce air pollution and "that water surface of any kind has no effect in reducing smog."

He then quoted the smog district's director of information, Edward W. McHugh, that "we never made such a finding," and that the statement was "not supportable."

However, on Feb. 15, 1966, D. J. Callghan, chief administrative officer of the smog district, wrote to Joseph E. Bodovitz, executive director of BCDC, as follows:

"The staff has reviewed and studied material available on possible effects of filling the bay, and it is our opinion that, unless all tideland areas are filled, there would be little or no effect on inversion of temperature, which affects the severity of air pollution episodes. A recent study conducted by San Jose State in the south bay area indicated that an 80 per cent fill would probably result in an increase of five degrees in summer temperature and a reduction of about four degrees in winter temperature. This would have only a slight effect on the formation of photochemical air pollution.

"The major effect, however, of bay fill on air pollution would result from the use of the new land created: more freeways, more residences, more industry and more commercial establishments. This would increase the amount of pollutants emitted to the air and would have a very direct effect on increasing the air pollution potential."

Charles Denton, director of public relations for Leslie Salt Co., commenting on this letter, remarked:

"If development is pushed farther and farther into the foothills and beyond to keep it away from the bay, travel time to and from the core area will be increased and, with it, the likelihood of even greater auto-generated air pollution, to say nothing of the need for more and larger freeways."

Thus, he suggested, the alternative would add to air pollution more than would developments along the bay shore on the "swamp and overflowed" lands, which are not actually part of the bay.

Attorney's Firing Delays Kidnap Trial

The trial of two men accused of kidnaping and robbing restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella last November came to a brief halt today when one of the defendants fired his attorney and decided to represent himself.

Daniel Thomas Stathos told Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in his chambers that there were "irreconcilable differences" between him and attorney Carleton Innis of Berkeley, who has been Stathos's lawyer for several years.

Judge Gardiner agreed to allow Stathos to try his own case.

The prosecution has already presented several witnesses linking Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnel to the Sabella crime and Stathos alone to the robbing of the Greenbrae Lanes in October.

Friday a former confederate of the two men who is now serving a San Quentin prison term testified how he and Stathos and Harnal had planned and executed the Sabella affair and how he and Stathos held up the bowling alley.

Scheduled for this afternoon's court session was cross-examination of the convict, Walter John Hoefler, formerly of Lakrspur.

Harnal will continue to be represented by Public Defender Jerome C. Durham.

Fairfax Faces 6-Cent Boost In Tax Rate

A 1969-70 budget of $539,403 — which would require a 6-cent tax rate increase — was proposed to the Fairfax City Council last night by City Administrator Frances R. Lestanguet. (Another Fairfax Council story, page 1.)

Buried in her budget message was a warning that the tax rate could be forced even higher, possibly up 11 cents.

The budget is up $77,491 from this fiscal year's $461,912 and would require hiking the tax rate from $1.74 to $1.80 per $100 valuation, the highest in seven years.

In her budget message, Mrs. Lestanguet said the 6-cent increase "will be considered by many to be high, but it will be easier to explain to those who complain that 4 cents of it is for retirement due to cost-of-living salary increases."

She added, "It is unfortunate that the retirement tax rate was not increased 2 cents last year . . ."

The proposed budget showed expected revenues of $269,023 from property taxes, up from $245,950 this year, $248,916 from other sources and $21,464 from reserves.

Mrs. Lestanguet warned that if the council's policy of keeping its general fund year-end balance at $150,000 or above is maintained, the council has two choices: It can cut the budget $16,000 or increase the tax rate 5 cents more to $1.85 (an 11-cent total boost) and still have to cut $7,922.

"Either of these two will be difficult to do," the message said. (The general fund, now only 20 days away from the end of the fiscal year, is well below the $150,000 level).

The budget requests are $63,463 less than asked by department heads, she said. Expenditures include $342,269 for personnel, $112,632 for materials and supplies and $84,502 for capital outlay.

The personnel money includes a 5 per cent increase for all full-time employees. It does not include funds for more police or an additional employee in the street department for which there is a definite need, Mrs. Lestanguet said.

The biggest capital improvement item is $40,000 for restoration of Forrest Avenue. Another $13,168 would go to the vehicle replacement fund and $12,000 for street resurfacing.

The $14,526 increase in materials and supplies expenditures would included added money for election services, ordinance codification required by a proposed zoning ordinance, street lighting and recreation day camp supplies.

The council set budget hearings for 8 p.m. on June 17, 20, 23, 24 and 27 at the Women's Club.

The Fairfax City Council also:

SEWER — At the request of Councilman Frank J. Egger demanded that the Ross Valley Sanitation District take immediate steps to stop dumping raw sewage into San Anselmo (Cascade) Creek. Egger said the pollution is coming from a broken main line which received a "Mickey Mouse" repair job when it burst in February.

STREETS — Accepted the $13,831 resurfacing of Forrest Avenue and other streets by the Brown-Ely Co. constrctors.

VARIANCE — Granted a request for a variance regarding fire protection from Robert L. Rose on Ridgeway Park under which he would install a low pressure pump to extend fire protection to his house.

PAY — Approved payment of $449.48 to retired Police Capt. Robert Cortelyou, who was forced to retire early with permanent disability after an accident Feb. 9.

College Trustees Set Closed Talks

Marin Junior College District trustees have canceled their adjourned meeting set for Thursday but instead will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in closed session to discuss hiring of a new president of the College of Marin. The meeting will be in room 72 of the Fine Arts Building.

The board is considering applications from three candidates to fill the post now being held by Louis H. Herkenhoff, acting president.

Courthouse Sale Discussion Revived

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Negotiations for sale of the courthouse square to the City of San Rafael were reopened last night at a joint meeting of county supervisors and city councilmen in the city hall.

Just before the meeting, supervisors and councilmen were presented with copies of an appraisal report made for the county by Edward P. Morphy. It valued the property at $750,000 with both courthouse and annex removed or $850,000 with annex intact. Demolition costs were estimated at $150,000 for both buildings or $110,000 for the courthouse only.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini at first suggested maybe the city, which a few months ago offered $500,000 for the property, should get its own appraisal. Later, however, he expressed doubt that would be necessary.

To show beyond doubt that they are serious about the city's acquiring the square, the three supervisors and three councilmen present extended a bid for any developer interested in the midtown block to deal directly with the city.

They approved unanimously a statement prepared on the spot by chairman John F. McInnis of the board of supervisors, declaring: "Redevelopment of downtown San Rafael is recognized as a paramount requirement by the City of San Rafael and the County of Marin. To this end, the county is interested in cooperating with San Rafael for the earliest possible transfer of ownership of the courthouse property to the city, so the city can entertain offers for the proper development immediately."

Supervisors and councilmen agreed Morphy's appraisal figures represented merely something from which to work in negotiating.

Robert A. Roumiguiere, a member of the citizen committee on the courthouse property appointed by the county, pointed out that Morphy estimated demolition of the courthouse would cost $110,000 and that of the annex, $40,000. Thus, he said, actual net to the county under his appraisal would be $600,000 with annex removed and $740,000 with it intact.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said there seemed to be a contradiction in the report, however, as in describing the developer's approach to the property, Morphy had included demolition costs as part of development.

The No. 1 question, left unanswered, was when the city could come up with the money — assuming agreement on price. Part of the corporation yard property which it had hoped to sell to finance purchase of the square was sold recently for a low down payment, giving the city little cash on hand.

Councilman Fred C. Robbins Jr., suggested title might be transferred to the city for a dollar, with an agreement for proceeds of city sale to a specified maximum to be paid to the county. This was promptly squelched, however, by chairman McInnis and Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

S. K. Herzog, in the audience, noted that "the day all those people move out of the courthouse to the Civic Center, the appraisal becomes obsolete" because of the effect of the move on downtown business.

Not mentioned in Morphy's appraisal report was provision of parking for redevelopment of the square, cost of which has loomed large in city discussions. City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said a report on the parking needs is expected within a few days from D. Jackson Faustman of Sacramento, parking consultant.

McInnis agreed to start next Tuesday's supervisors' session at 9 a.m. with Morphy present to answer questions regarding the appraisal, and Bettini agreed to have the city represented there. Following that, another joint meeting of supervisors and councilmen will be scheduled.

Bootzin Judge Hears Funds Not Promised

A Marin attorney testified in Marin Superior Court today that octegenerian Max Bootzin told him there was never a promise of marriage involving him and either of two women to whom he gave property and cash.

William O. Weissich testified that Bootzin, at a meeting in the attorney's office Nov. 12, 1965, said the idea of a man his age marrying either of the younger women was outlandish.

Bootzin, Weissich said, further depicted as a "pack of lies" newspaper reports that promises of marriage were involved in the case.

In the non-jury trial, before Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson, Bootzin's heirs are attempting to regain property and money given by Bootzin to Charmaine Klenman, 31, and Joan Saylor, 22.

Weissich, former Marin County district attorney, testified Bootzin told him the two women had been kind and attentive to him and he was grateful.

However, three days after the office visit, Bootzin advised Weissich's secretary that he wanted the attorney to do nothing more in the way of contesting and executorship sought by his family because ". . . I will not do anything against my children. . . ."

Weissich said he had considered Bootzin competent, although he told the elderly man he would want a psychiatrist's report because of his age and the fact the case involved two much younger women.

High School Graduation, Yesterday And Today

Each year, as the time rolls around for our high schools to graduate another throng of students on the verge of manhood and womanhood, the urge is great upon editorial writers to compare the proceedings with their own graduations in an earlier generation. Sometimes the urge becomes overpowering.

This particular editorial writer was graduated from high school in 1930. The bottom had fallen out of the New York stock market just six months earlier, and the effects of the crash were beginning to be felt in the West. It was not an atmosphere conducive to great expectations.

Even without a stock market crash, times were tough in that little town, dependent largely on farming and livestock raising. Only a minority of that high school graduating class planned to go on to college; for most, the cost put further education out of the question.

IN THOSE DAYS, the valedictorian was not selected by a test to choose the best student speaker; the valedictorian was the student with the highest grades through four years of high school. The valedictorian of our class was among those who had no hope nor plan for college. Her father was a sheepherder. Her family was bedrock poor. (Nowadays, she would be assured of scholarships to continue on to college.)

What she said in her valedictory, and what the commencement speaker (a prominent out-of-town lawyer) said were not long remembered. But neither of them berated society as they found it. Neither of them denigrated their nation. Their talks may not have been particularly "relevant," but they were optimistic. The lawyer had faith in the young graduates; and the graduates had faith in themselves.

Each of those neatly tonsured and well scrubbed (though not necessarily well dressed) young people knew, as he or she was handed the diploma, what it meant: It meant the student had achieved, through his own efforts, a passing grade in every class taken to meet the requirements — all the way up from first grade (there was no kindergarten). No one had been passed on through high school because some psychologist suggested it would inhibit him to fall behind his "peer group." Every diploma was earned.

THIS WEEK'S graduates, however, have been offered educational opportunities far beyond anything in the high schools of 1930. They have gone to school in better buildings, better equipped, with better-educated teachers, better libraries, better textbooks.

Most of them can look forward confidently to going on to college. Despite the twin menaces of the draft and the bomb, they have much reason to view the future with hope and optimism. The specter of increasing want does not confront them. There appears little likelihood that they, like many of those graduated in 1930, will find themselves within a few years "on WPA."

We have faith in them, as that commencement speaker 39 years ago had in us. Some of them rail at "the system"; some of them wear their hair long and unkempt, smoke "pot," and have tried ways of life which were tried and found wanting countless generations ago. But these are merely new — though extreme — manifestations of the ever-renewing revolt of the younger generation.

We have given them the tools. We think they can do the job.

EDWARD S. MUSKIE SAYS:

Solution To Crime Not Easy, But Three Things All Can Do

Every responsible citizen is concerned with the epidemic of crime which grips our society. Between 1960 and 1967, the FBI index showed reported crimes to have risen 88 per cent, nine times the population increase. In 1968, the rate of violent crimes again increased dramatically. In too many of our urban centers citizens are afraid to enter parks, to walk at dusk, or to be in downtown areas at night.

Twice as many juveniles under age 18 are arrested for serious crimes as adults over 25. One out of every two persons arrested for burglary last year was under 18. Almost half the arrests for serious crimes, like murder, rape and robbery, were of juveniles under 18.

Those who commit a second crime average three convictions and two penal terms within 10 years.

While there was an increase in violent crime arrests in the cities in all age groups, the percentage increase was greater in the suburban areas.

SUCH FACTS shock and dishearten.

There are those who have the solution to crime: "impeach soft judges;" "give heavier sentences;" "make prisons more punitive;" "make more arrests;" "hire more police;" "establish a national police force," and "clean up TV programming."

But the solutions to problems of crime are not simple; they are as complicated as the vast range of behavior called criminal. Oversimplification must not be substituted for clarity, recklessness for courage, exaggeration for objective evidence.

Part of the answer must be the relief of the underlying causes of crime: unemployment, family breakdown, inadequate education, substandard housing, discrimination, frustration and despair.

THE FIRST DUTY of every American in contributing to a reduction in crime is to create an environment of respect for the law. This can only be done by those who show that respect in the conduct of their lives. Juvenile delinquents — and adult criminals as well — often justify their actions by saying that the only difference between them and "respectable citizens" is being caught.

The second duty is to support the administration of justice by better pay, training, equipment for police, insistence on discipline and respect for law and individual rights by police, and immunity of police administrations from political expediency.

The third duty of the concerned citizen is to help improve the administration of our court system. It may well be that the real failure of our courts in the criminal justice system stems not from decisions made, but from the cases which the courts have not decided as a result of backlog and delay. For example, in 1968, more than 4,000 cases had been pending over six months and almost 20 per cent had been pending for over a year in our nation's federal trial courts. Justice delayed is justice denied, to the community as well as to the defendant.

WHEN CRIMINAL justice systems begin to appear impotent, the public begins to believe that a criminal who can get a capable lawyer will get off in the end. To the criminal, the percentages will appear better. Under such circumstances citizens lose faith in justice. Loss of support follows close on the heels of loss of faith, and no system of justice can long endure without the support of the society it serves.

Many thanks for the nice editorial of May 2 on behalf of the Marin Music Chest. It was most kind of you.

Can't Stand Hearing Grown Man Cry

Your account of the arrest and detainment of R. W. Beban and Kimo Campbell is another typical example of the insidious attack on the police by the mass media while at the same time interviewing, lionizing and trying in every way to justify the acts of the agitators.

Your report started off with a matter-of-fact statement that the two young men were working for a radio station in Berkeley and that they were held by the police incommunicado in a state of terror for 38 hours. You stated this as the true facts and without qualification.

Your admission that Beban is a reporter for Ramparts magazine and the editor of Marin College Times should be enough to discredit anything he might have to report. Why is it you failed to tell us something of editor Robert Scheer and his magazine? Are we to judge the remainder of Beban's account of his "ordeal" by his claim that the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center was a former concentration camp for Japanese during World War II? The truth is that Santa Rita is the former U.S. Naval Camp Shoemaker. The understatement of the whole report was that of the deputy who reportedly said to Beban, "You've been causing trouble in Marin County."

If reporters choose to accompany and report the heroics of the revolutionaries then they should accept the hazards without snivelling the same as the reporters do who accompany the Army into battle. I never could stand to hear a grown man cry.

Different View On Foreign Policy

Regarding Senator Cranston's resolution that diplomatic recognition does not constitute approval which you praise so highly (editorial, June 3), it is doubtful whether it would have any effect at all on our foreign policy because the principal (sic) of recognition solely on the basis of approval has not been consistently followed. Your own editorial mentions many dictatorships as numerous exceptions. We have also recognized many Communist satellites whose governments do not meet with our approval. If we have adhered to any principal (sic), it has been that of recognizing governments only when it is practical and consistent with our interests to do so. Any foreign diplomats who, as you assert, regard this as "daft" have undoubtedly not manned the embassies in Peking which are repeatedly attacked and whose ministers are subjected to frequent physical indignities. Moreover, nonrecognition does not imply absence of diplomatic intercourse, since we have frequently met with Peking representatives in Poland and with North Korean representatives at Panmunjon. The diplomats of friendly or neutral powers have represented us in other countries, such as Cambodia. All Cranston is trying to say is that we ought to recognize certain Communist powers he is soft on. Would he also favor our recognizing the de facto government of Rhodesia? I think not!

Mill Valley View From Council Side

Mrs. Anne Bardwell's remarks concerning two recent events in Mill Valley ("Reporter's Notebook," May 23) require a few comments.

Budget sessions: I'll admit the meetings have been frustrating. The budget as presented called for a tax rate of $3.48 (illegal, but showing city needs) a 50 per cent increase from last year. Not included were some employee requests for salary and fringe benefits, which if granted would add another 25 cents. Resolving this and other budget items may take a little time. The democratic process is slow and has faults but is far superior to other alternatives.

City manager:

1. City ordinance 310 states: "The city manager shall be appointed by the city council solely on the basis of his executive and administrative qualifications." No mention is made of personal friendships or other amenities.

2. The new manager was chosen accordingly. Some 100 applications were screened — seven applicants were interviewed and the writer and one other councilmen spent a full day verifying opinions reached as above.

3. Knowing Mr. Bert Balmer and respecting his professional ability, I think he participated to the extend he felt necessary.

4. The last selection of a manager was made in accordance with Mrs. Bardwell's so-called "professional procedure," and probably caused the largest rift in community feelings in recent years.

If Mrs. Bardwell and some of her colleagues had more concern for the professionalism of reporting as opposed to that of selecting city managers there would be a tremendous decrease in the great "creditility gap." During the last five years I have often found little resemblance between news reports and the actual intent of a particular meeting. Issues are taken out of context or only one side presented. Fragments of facts are given which usually amplify the opinions of the reporter. We already have problems of air and water pollution, let's not add the news media to the list.

Social Service Found Cooperative

I recently had occasion to enlist the services of Marin County Social Services in connection with my mother.

I wish to commend this office in their efficiency in handling the matter with great ease. Julia, in particular, was most helpful and informative and saw that everything was taken care of immediately, and mother is well situated now.

This is a well organized and fine social service and a credit to the County of Marin.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Americans Growing Impatient With Nixon's Extreme Caution

WASHINGTON — Agreement on the withdrawal of some American troops from Vietnam in late summer, if that is the upshot of the Midway conference, will come just in the nick of time. Just in time, that is to say, for President Nixon.

The mood is hardening, as is evident to anyone moving about the country. The view among citizens of widely varying rank and age is turning from skepticism and doubt over the administration's approach to one of sour conviction that it is only more of the same.

Taking out only 40,000 to 50,000 troops, many of them part of the top-heavy support structure, should do a lot to satisfy the moderates on the college campuses and isolate the extremists. It will be proof that an end fo the war is in sight even though complete withdrawal is clouded by doubts.

ON THE CAMPUSES the war is closely linked to the draft. Passage of the Nixon draft plan — a lottery with vulnerability concentrated on the 19-year-olds as against the present seven-year period between the ages of 19 and 25 — would lessen tensions. Educators on several campuses expressed the view that such a change in the law would ease pressures, since numbers of so-called students are merely sheltering in the ivied halls from the long arm of the draft. With no real interest in education, they are restless recruits for the determined disrupters.

With the end of the first half-year of the Nixon administration at hand, the sticky gradualism of the approach to the war carries over into domestic policy. The preoccupation with a balanced budget is cutting into programs to rebuild the cities and train the jobless. This is in contrast with reports of growing anger and defiance in the ghettos and the very real peril of another summer of violence.

TO WHAT DEGREE is the President himself to blame? The American tradition is to zero in on the man at the center of the target. He wanted the job, didn't he?

Yet an objective look at the rigidities of the system itself and the condition of America and the world suggests it may not be that simple. What if Hubert Humphrey had been president during the past five months? What if the tiny fraction of votes in four or five states had gone the other way?

President Humphrey would have sizable majorities of his own in both the Senate and the House. How useful these majorities would be, with their balky southern components, is questionable. The drive for economy, coupled with a distaste for past solutions, such as the poverty program, is deeply rooted in the Congress.

Humphrey would almost certainly have moved more vigorously and rapidly toward a settlement of the Vietnam war, although he would have faced the same risk of collapse and rout with precipitate action.

ON ONE FRONT where the Nixon administration's sticky gradualism has meant delay and perhaps failure, Humphrey was prepared to move quickly. With his long experience in nursing the test-ban and the nuclear nonproliferation treaties, Humphrey would certainly have given preparation for arms limitation talks with the Russians first priority. He would have moved those preparations to the highest level with the prod of urgency.

Attitudes are hardening on the right as well as the left and a cautious, deliberate Nixon may well believe, as his two comencement addresses seemed to indicate, that he can count on a strong reaction to sustain him. But that reaction will not solve the nation's problems.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

Series Of Incidents Shows Moral Decay Of College

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
Professor of Education
San Jose State College

The general moral tone of a college or university is determined by the institution's president. He selects the administrators subordinate to the office he holds, and he approves appointments to the teaching faculty. He passes on faculty promotion and tenure recommendations. Through these powers he can control the quality of the faculty.

Few college or university presidents, however, exercise the powers delegated to them by boards of trustees.

TO SHOW HOW a college president's attitudes and actions may tend to influence the moral standards on a college campus, a series of related decisions made by one president are offered as illustrations. Similar incidents, no doubt, could be documented on almost any college or university campus.

When the president of San Jose State College overruled his dean of faculties in May 1966, and promoted a faculty member who had admitted to his involvement in an on-campus student-faculty drinking scandal, he established the moral climate which would prevail during his administration. And, when a second participant in the campus drinking episode was later elevated by the president to an administrative post, the moral tone established became further apparent.

ON AUG. 7, 1967, a San Jose State College professor entered a plea of guilty to a morals charge in municipal court for San Jose-Milpitas-Alviso Judicial District. With full knowledge of this conviction, the president of the college promoted this faculty member and announced his advancement to a full professorship three months after the conviction.

Currently, a student who on March 6, 1969, was convicted on two counts of grand theft in Santa Clara County Superior Court sits with faculty members and administrators as a voting member of the college's academic council which is advisory to the college president. As a condition of his probation, the student, Grady F. Robertson, is "committed to the custody of the sheriff of Santa Clara County to serve consecutive weekends . . . for six cllendar months. . . ." Robertson, whose weekend jail term is still being served, was re-elected recently to a seat on the college's academic council by a vote of 625, which represents election by about ½ of one per cent of the school's total enrollment.

With administrative actions that either directly or indirectly influenced these incidents, and with the recent rehiring of the striking faculty goons who disrupted the instructional program for 37 days this year, is it surprising that the current academic term has culminated with one of the worst scandals in the 110-year history of San Jose State College?

THOUGH HE MAY have been unaware of the consequences of the role he played, Dr. Winfield Salisbury II, an assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, set the stage for the scandal when he requested use of an athletic practice field for the week end of May 23-25 to hold what the press has since termed a "be-in." The college authorities approved use of the facility by Salisbury and a group with which he reportedly is affiliated, the Institute for Research and Understanding.

The "be-in," which attracted several thousand student and off-campus participants, turned into an orgy which some veteran policemen termed the worst they had ever seen. San Jose police filed the following "be-in" related crime reports: one attempted murder, seven assaults with deadly weapons, one mass rape, two strongarm robberies, one grand theft, 42 arrests for narcotics, two attempted rapes, 15 auto thefts, and numerous cases of malicious mischief and petty theft.

While the full extent of the physical damage of the "be-in" may eventually be determined, the extent of the moral erosion and damage to the reputation of San Jose State College will never be known.

Kentfield Surgeon Among New Breed

By PATRICK SULLIVAN

Their concern for healing transcends patient rosters and the borders of the towns and cities where they practice.

Burke, a quiet, unassuming six-footer late in April traveled 10,000 miles to the curving peninsula Federation of Malaysia, 300 miles southwest across the Gulf of Siam from South Vietnam.

His five-week visit, spent mostly at the Sungei Patani District Hospital, was busy. He performed an average of three operations a day.

And all around him the country was exploding in bitter racial rioting.

Native Malays and the minority Malaysian Chinese clashed in the streets following a general election early in May in which openly racist Chinese and Malay parties cut deeply into the coalition Alliance Party's majority in Parliament.

The Alliance Party declared it would not participate in the new cabinet, setting the stage for wild street parades which disintegrated into taunts, confrontations — and ultimately — an anti-Chinese rampage.

Machinegun-armed government troops — all native Malays — imposed a rigid curfew, restoring some order, but not before about 500 persons were killed, about 90 per cent Chinese.

"It is just the start," Burke said glumly in an interview last week. "It brought out the real racial hatred" between the Chinese and Malays.

Most of the violence was confined to the capitol of Kuala Lumpur, where Burke needed a curfew card to get past the armed troops during five days at the university medical center.

"The soldiers rather indiscriminately suppressed the

Some Chinese doctors on the hospital staff indicated they felt complelled to leave Malaysia because of the racial hatred, Burke added.

The government of Premier Tunku Abdul Rahman imposed strict censorship, suspending all newspapers and radio broadcasts except by the government station and banning Time and Newsweek magazines, the tanned physician said.

"You had no idea what was going on. It is a completely helpless feeling."

Putting the violence in the background for the moment, the journey, Burke said, was "very refreshing."

He worked in Sungei Patani with a team of six doctors, nurses and technicians in Malaysia on a two-year project for the CARE-Medico organization.

The surgery department there was established by the team earlier in its tour, due to end in November, ending years of a situation in which persons in need of operations had to travel 50 miles to the next hospital.

Burke found a great many parasitic diseases, including worms, and malaria among the Malaysians, who daily must face a wet, hot (95-degree) climate.

In Kuala Lumpur he worked with members of the second graduating class of the university medical school. The class of about 65 joins a similar number who became doctors last year.

More and more doctors are participating in such "working vacations" as his to nations such as Malaysia and elsewhere under the auspices of CARE-Medico, Burke said. Other doctors serve on the ship HOPE and in missionary hospitals.

In a few years, he said, he just might undertake another such mission himself.

$3 Billion Manned Lab Program Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department today announced cancellation of the Air Force's $3 billion Manned Orbiting Laboratory program because of "the continuing urgency of reducing federal defense spending."

Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard told reporters this means the Pentagon is giving up the idea of a military manned space mission "for the time being."

In addition to citing budget cutting pressure, Packard said the decision to cancel the project, was based on "advances in automated techniques for unmanned satellite systems in such fields as research, communications, navigation and meteorology."

He refused to discuss any spy mission the Manned Orbiting Laboratory would have had.

Packard estimated that, as a result of the cancellation, close to $300 million will be saved in spending during the coming fiscal year.

Cancellation will save about $1.5 billion over the next five years, Packard estimated.

It contemplated sending up two-man crews who would have lived and worked in a 30,000-pound, 72-foot-long spacecraft for 30 days.

The first manned flight would have been staged this coming December, according to the original plan, but a combination of factors have slipped the program objective to mid-1972.

Judiciary Warned Of Imposed Ethics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., told the U.S. Judicial Conference today that the judiciary faces congressionally-imposed ethical standards if it fails to put its own house in order.

Appearing at a closed session of the conference at the invitation of Chief Justice Earl Warren, Tydings said in a prepared text that pending legislation would create a commission of judicial disabilities and tenure and require full public disclosure of financial interests.

As chairman of the Senate subcommittee on improvements in judicial machinery, he said that a crisis in confidence in the courts must be resolved. He said that this was caused by the "judiciary's timidity in dealing with the rare instance of judicial misconduct and the more frequent of judicial disability."

"To be quite frank," he said, "the judicial councils have not done the job it was hoped they would do . . . "

Tyding did not mention the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas, who quit under fire of criticism of his acceptance of a yearly fee from the family of convicted financier Louis E. Wolfson. The Fortas case prompted Warren to call the judicial conference together to consider reforms.

Warren, due to retire with the court's adjournment later this month, is believed anxious to have a code of conduct worked out before then—and before Congress attempts to impose one from the outside.

The conference's 11-member committee on court administration met late into the evening yesterday at the court, presumably putting the finishing touches on proposed new standards.

Activities of the committee and of the conference itself have been secret.

The proposed code is expected to rule out most lecturing by federal judges, require extensive reporting of income and put strict limits on relations with nonjudicial organizations.

From 1844 to 1930, the Dominican Republic had 43 presidents and 56 revolutions.

Music Workshop Announced At Dominican College

The Dominican College Preparatory Department of Music will offer a summer workshop for elementary and high school students from June 23 to July 31.

The series of programs geared to different age and ability levels will include basic composition and theory, music appreciation, group singing, instrumental ensembles and private lessons.

The workshop for boys and girls from 7 to 12 years old will meet from 9:15 to 11 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays for 10 sessions under the direction of Tamara Robertson of the Eastman School of Music and a former student of concert pianist Istvan Nadas. She will also direct the classes in basic composition and theory for high school students from 11:10 a.m. to noon on the same days.

Classes in instrumental ensemble and chamber orchestra will meet one hour a week Wednesdays under the direction of Helen Jordan.

If Planning An Assassination, First Get A Literary Agent

NEWS ITEM: NBC TV Pays $11,500 for Exclusive Interview With Sirhan Sirhan.

"Well, I'm not one to blow my own horn."

"I've come to you for some advice. I am thinking of assassinating a major public figure, and I was wondering how much money I could make on it."

"It really depands on the victim. It it's a major-major public figure, there is quite a bit of money to be made. The families and lawyers of previous assassins have been paid hundreds of thousands of dollars."

"But I can't write."

"THAT'S NO problem. We can always find a writer to work with you. You sign an exclusive contract with him for your story and then we work out a split."

"Well, can you give me some idea of how much money we're talking about?"

"First, there are the book rights. I know several publishers who are willing to go to six figures for the exclusive story written by an assassin. We'll keep the magazine rights separate. I'm sure I could get some very energetic bidding going from the periodicals, and I would estimate we could get into six figures there as well.

"After we make a magazine deal, we'll go for newspaper syndication. I'm certain I can create some interest there."

"WHAT ABOUT television?"

"We'll make a deal for television, but it will have to be on an exclusive deal. I don't want you appearing on every network for free. If you see a TV camera, clam up. In this way we can get a lot more money for an interview."

"Do you think you can get any companies to bid for the movie rights?"

"I should hope so, particularly if there is an element of mystery involved in the assassination. I think what you have to do is make many contradictory statements at your trial as James Earl Ray did. In that way the script writers will be able to write it in more dramatic terms."

"What else?"

"Don't overlook the overseas publication rights, as well as all your personal letters, which will certainly have value.

"Then there's your wife's story which can be sold separately, your mother's story, and we could make another book from your family album."

"GOSH, I WOULDN'T have thought of half those things."

"Of course, I must warn you that you won't get all the money. Your defense attorney will demand a large percentage of it. Then there's my commission, the expenses of research for your collaborator, and money we must pay to other people who have to give us clearances for using their names in the movie version."

"Still, there will be a lot left over for myself and my family, won't there?"

"Of course. You and your family could come out of this very comfortably."

"I didn't realize there was this much money to be made in assassinating somebody."

"Only in America."

Woman Claims Misquotation

Mrs. Donald A. Travis of San Rafael reported today that she was misquoted in Saturday's Independent-Journal account of her husband's seizure Thursday in Sausalito and subsequent transfer to Napa State Hospital.

Mrs. Travis said she had not meant that her husband had taken LSD, as reported, but that she thought some might have been slipped into wine he was drinking before being found at 300 Bridgeway, unconscious, rigid and cold to the touch.

Mrs. Travis said she was distraught at the time and now believes her husband, who has been despondent, was actually suffering the after-effects of medication.

Conditions At Hospital Held Poor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Aid Retarded Children Inc. of San Francisco says it will seek state money later this month to remedy what it describes as overcrowding, understaffing and other deficiencies at Sonoma State Hospital.

In support of a request to the Assembly's Ways and Means Committee for more funds, the parents' organization will be armed with a report by Dr. Gunnar Dybwad of Brandeis University.

Dybwaa, former executive director of the National Association for Retarded Children, inspected Sonoma State Hospital last Nov. 18-19.

With him on the inspection team designated by the state Department of Mental Hygiene were Dr. Ivy Mooring, executive director of the Los Angeles County Council for Retarded Children, and Martha Adams of the University of California nursing school faculty.

Parts of their report were made public yesterday by attorney Quentin Kopp at a news conference called by Joseph Fogarty of San Francisco and Benton Siefert of Larkspur, who have children at the Sonoma hospital.

Kopp quoted Dybward's report as saying:

"Patients are herded into huge, barn-like wards bereft of any niceties of home and treated like and consequently behave like animals in a zoo...

"The principle of dignity of the individual is violated when he is stripped of all his clothes—when he has absolutely no vestige of privacy, even a shoe box which he can call his own...

"The wards that were visited at night were found to be poorly ventilated. They had the institution stuffiness and smell...

"There seemed to be a lack of funds to provide basic necessities for the care of patients. A deplorable situation existed in that there was a combination of inadequate linen supply and laundry service. This created a situation in which rags were used for drying material after patients' toileting, washing and bathing."

Kopp said that on behalf of the concerned parents he had to sue in San Francisco Superior Court to try to get Dybwad's report made public in time for use at the current session of the legislature.

Kopp said the report was promised March 31, but delayed for review by state authorities.

CREEK READIED FOR MORE CONCRETE

Tamalpais Creek was tightly corseted with reinforcing rods today as workmen prepared for the pouring of concrete walls to begin tomorrow. In the foreground the cement floor is smoothed by a workman, the industrious scene a contrast to past furor over the block-long section of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project. The creek has been the scene of demonstrations against concrete, the subject of court action and the victim of vandals who wrecked pumps and flooded the dried out creekbed. Teen Center Fund Plea Scrutinized

The San Anselmo City Council moved cautiously over portions of its preliminary budget for 1969-70 last night but in no case was it so careful as with a request from the Town Meeting for $500 for the Third Rail Coffee House.

Councilmen heard manager Norman Leach's itemized $6,195 budget for the teen center located in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church, then asked question after question in connection with the $500 the city was asked to contribute.

To Councilman Duane C. Ragan, Leach reported the regular hours are Friday and Satuday evenings from 8 p.m. to midnight; yes, it is supported by the church's board of deacons; spotlights and amplifiers are needed for the bands which perform; drug abuse information at the coffee house is needed to supplement that offered by local police; the public health service information on drugs is not always accurate.

Ragan said he opposes authorizing the $500 on the basis the coffee house is a private organization.

Councilman James F. Reed said he had reached no decision, that he would like to visit the coffee house and that the council has an obligation to help the teens.

To Councilman Robert M. Scott's questions, Leach said, yes, he feels marijuana should be legalized like alcohol; that it could be beneficial to certain people and no, he has not produced a paper on how to get high on different substances. Leach told Scott he has no antipathy toward the police and that the coffee house is not run by him but by policies and programs established by teenagers.

Answering Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson's queries, Leach said attendance averages 75 on Friday nights and 75 to 200 on Saturday nights.

The coffee house manager said he could not give the percentage of San Anselmans who are served because being a resident is not required.

Leach said that similar teen centers in Fairfax and Mill Valley had to close reportedly because of problems that came from the teens using drugs and alcohol.

Anderson said he, too, would like to visit the coffee house, "unannounced."

Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro said he felt the most important question was qhether the coffee house served San Anselmo teen-agers.

Reed asked Leach if the coffee house were getting very many teens that are presently experiencing drugs. "Yes, Leach replied.

Reed then asked if he was having any luck convincing them that there are other ways of fulfilling one's self other than the drug route. "This is very difficult to answer," Leach replied. He said he knows that some teens were using a lot of drugs when they first came to the center and are now using none.

Leach said those teens under the influence of alcohol or drugs are asked to leave the coffee house and anyone carrying either can have his parents notified.

No action was taken. The subject is expected to be reconsidered June 19 with other requests from the Town Meeting.

The council went over the proposed chamber of commerce budget request of $5,190, up $855 from the current figure. A city contribution of $3,500 was recommended by administrator-controller A. C. Kaeppel.

The library board requested an increase of 10 hours a week for one employee, $1,000 to replace a water line in the basement and rental of a copy machine at $480 a year for five years, and $10,000 for books, with Kaeppel suggesting $9,500.

Total library budget for 1969-70 is estimated at $59,109 as against the current $56,808.

The council discussed hiring one or two full-time maintenance men for the Parks Department.

Kaeppel had budgeted $8,000 in the budget for one added man, $5,200 for a parttime maintenance man and $4,560 for professional landscaping services of A. and J. Shooter for a total of about $18,000.

Other items in the proposed $52,599 parks budget include $2,347 for reconstruction of tennis courts, $5,000 for improvements including comfort stations at Robson-Harrington Park. The proposed $32,680 recreation budget includes $1,000 for senior citizen services.

The council will meet in regular session tonight at 8 o'clock. It meets next on the budget at 8 p.m. Thursday to discuss police, fire and general government. The meeting was adjourned in memory of Hans E. Fischel, San Anselmo's part-time city treasurer, who died Saturday in an auto accident.

Gift Wrap Button Kills Marin Baby

A 10-month-old San Rafael boy choked to death yesterday after swallowing a plastic button used to secure ribbon bows to gift packages.

The boy, Alexander Peter Laskoff II, was rushed to the family physician a short distance from the family home at 96 Oakridge Road, but failed to respond to the efforts of five doctors.

Deputy County Coroner Keith C. Craig said the boy loosened the button from a length of ribbon while playing in his home shortly after 1 p.m. His mother, Joyce, tried to grab the object before the boy swallowed it, but failed.

She rushed him in the family car several blocks to Dr. Williams S. Neal at 11 Professional Center Parkway. Five doctors worked on him to no avail. The button was describes as being about an inch long and about twice as wide as a pencil.

The boy's father, Alexander, is a salesman with Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. in San Francisco. Also surviving is a twin sister, Carol.

Graveside services will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael. Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, is in charge of arrangements.

$60 Taken

Martha O'Brien of 85 Montego Key, Bel Marin, reported to the sheriff's department Saturday that burglars had taken $60 cash from her home as well as a pair of silver candlesticks and a tape recorder, officers said today.

Filling Salt Ponds No Link To Pollution

Filling salt ponds to create land for housing development would in itself have little or no effect on San Francisco Bay air pollution, according to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's chief administrative officer. (See also BCDC Legislature story, page 1)

This finding, however, apparently was unknown to the smog district's director of information — though it was known to the executive director of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, which has recommended against such fill in its proposed master plan for the bay.

Paul E. Peterzell, in his "Golden Gate View" column in the Independent-Journal of May 27, reported that representatives of Leslie Salt Co., which proposes to fill some of the flooded shorelands it now uses for salt ponds, testified before legislative committees that smog district studies prove the salt ponds do not help reduce air pollution and "that water surface of any kind has no effect in reducing smog."

He then quoted the smog district's director of information, Edward W. McHugh, that "we never made such a finding," and that the statement was "not supportable."

However, on Feb. 15, 1966, D. J. Callghan, chief administrative officer of the smog district, wrote to Joseph E. Bodovitz, executive director of BCDC, as follows:

"The staff has reviewed and studied material available on possible effects of filling the bay, and it is our opinion that, unless all tideland areas are filled, there would be little or no effect on inversion of temperature, which affects the severity of air pollution episodes. A recent study conducted by San Jose State in the south bay area indicated that an 80 per cent fill would probably result in an increase of five degrees in summer temperature and a reduction of about four degrees in winter temperature. This would have only a slight effect on the formation of photochemical air pollution.

"The major effect, however, of bay fill on air pollution would result from the use of the new land created: more freeways, more residences, more industry and more commercial establishments. This would increase the amount of pollutants emitted to the air and would have a very direct effect on increasing the air pollution potential."

Charles Denton, director of public relations for Leslie Salt Co., commenting on this letter, remarked:

"If development is pushed farther and farther into the foothills and beyond to keep it away from the bay, travel time to and from the core area will be increased and, with it, the likelihood of even greater auto-generated air pollution, to say nothing of the need for more and larger freeways."

Thus, he suggested, the alternative would add to air pollution more than would developments along the bay shore on the "swamp and overflowed" lands, which are not actually part of the bay.

Attorney's Firing Delays Kidnap Trial

The trial of two men accused of kidnaping and robbing restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella last November came to a brief halt today when one of the defendants fired his attorney and decided to represent himself.

Daniel Thomas Stathos told Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in his chambers that there were "irreconcilable differences" between him and attorney Carleton Innis of Berkeley, who has been Stathos's lawyer for several years.

The prosecution has already presented several witnesses linking Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnel to the Sabella crime and Stathos alone to the robbing of the Greenbrae Lanes in October.

Friday a former confederate of the two men who is now serving a San Quentin prison term testified how he and Stathos and Harnal had planned and executed the Sabella affair and how he and Stathos held up the bowling alley.

Scheduled for this afternoon's court session was cross-examination of the convict, Walter John Hoefler, formerly of Lakrspur.

Harnal will continue to be represented by Public Defender Jerome C. Durham.

Displaying Works

Acrylic and collage paintings and pen and ink sketches of Mexico by Marin artist Irene Clark are currently on display through July 7 at the Palate Restaurant in Mill Valley.

Fairfax Faces 6-Cent Boost In Tax Rate

A 1969-70 budget of $539,403 — which would require a 6-cent tax rate increase — was proposed to the Fairfax City Council last night by City Administrator Frances R. Lestanguet. (Another Fairfax Council story, page 1.)

Buried in her budget message was a warning that the tax rate could be forced even higher, possibly up 11 cents.

The budget is up $77,491 from this fiscal year's $461,912 and would require hiking the tax rate from $1.74 to $1.80 per $100 valuation, the highest in seven years.

In her budget message, Mrs. Lestanguet said the 6-cent increase "will be considered by many to be high, but it will be easier to explain to those who complain that 4 cents of it is for retirement due to cost-of-living salary increases."

She added, "It is unfortunate that the retirement tax rate was not increased 2 cents last year . . ."

The proposed budget showed expected revenues of $269,023 from property taxes, up from $245,950 this year, $248,916 from other sources and $21,464 from reserves.

Mrs. Lestanguet warned that if the council's policy of keeping its general fund year-end balance at $150,000 or above is maintained, the council has two choices: It can cut the budget $16,000 or increase the tax rate 5 cents more to $1.85 (an 11-cent total boost) and still have to cut $7,922.

"Either of these two will be difficult to do," the message said. (The general fund, now only 20 days away from the end of the fiscal year, is well below the $150,000 level).

The budget requests are $63,463 less than asked by department heads, she said. Expenditures include $342,269 for personnel, $112,632 for materials and supplies and $84,502 for capital outlay.

The personnel money includes a 5 per cent increase for all full-time employees. It does not include funds for more police or an additional employee in the street department for which there is a definite need, Mrs. Lestanguet said.

The biggest capital improvement item is $40,000 for restoration of Forrest Avenue. Another $13,168 would go to the vehicle replacement fund and $12,000 for street resurfacing.

The $14,526 increase in materials and supplies expenditures would included added money for election services, ordinance codification required by a proposed zoning ordinance, street lighting and recreation day camp supplies.

The council set budget hearings for 8 p.m. on June 17, 20, 23, 24 and 27 at the Women's Club.

The Fairfax City Council also:

SEWER — At the request of Councilman Frank J. Egger demanded that the Ross Valley Sanitation District take immediate steps to stop dumping raw sewage into San Anselmo (Cascade) Creek. Egger said the pollution is coming from a broken main line which received a "Mickey Mouse" repair job when it burst in February.

STREETS — Accepted the $13,831 resurfacing of Forrest Avenue and other streets by the Brown-Ely Co. constrctors.

VARIANCE — Granted a request for a variance regarding fire protection from Robert L. Rose on Ridgeway Park under which he would install a low pressure pump to extend fire protection to his house.

PAY — Approved payment of $449.48 to retired Police Capt. Robert Cortelyou, who was forced to retire early with permanent disability after an accident Feb. 9.

College Trustees Set Closed Talks

Marin Junior College District trustees have canceled their adjourned meeting set for Thursday but instead will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in closed session to discuss hiring of a new president of the College of Marin. The meeting will be in room 72 of the Fine Arts Building.

The board is considering applications from three candidates to fill the post now being held by Louis H. Herkenhoff, acting president.

Courthouse Sale Discussion Revived

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Negotiations for sale of the courthouse square to the City of San Rafael were reopened last night at a joint meeting of county supervisors and city councilmen in the city hall.

Just before the meeting, supervisors and councilmen were presented with copies of an appraisal report made for the county by Edward P. Morphy. It valued the property at $750,000 with both courthouse and annex removed or $850,000 with annex intact. Demolition costs were estimated at $150,000 for both buildings or $110,000 for the courthouse only.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini at first suggested maybe the city, which a few months ago offered $500,000 for the property, should get its own appraisal. Later, however, he expressed doubt that would be necessary.

To show beyond doubt that they are serious about the city's acquiring the square, the three supervisors and three councilmen present extended a bid for any developer interested in the midtown block to deal directly with the city.

They approved unanimously a statement prepared on the spot by chairman John F. McInnis of the board of supervisors, declaring: "Redevelopment of downtown San Rafael is recognized as a paramount requirement by the City of San Rafael and the County of Marin. To this end, the county is interested in cooperating with San Rafael for the earliest possible transfer of ownership of the courthouse property to the city, so the city can entertain offers for the proper development immediately."

Supervisors and councilmen agreed Morphy's appraisal figures represented merely something from which to work in negotiating.

Robert A. Roumiguiere, a member of the citizen committee on the courthouse property appointed by the county, pointed out that Morphy estimated demolition of the courthouse would cost $110,000 and that of the annex, $40,000. Thus, he said, actual net to the county under his appraisal would be $600,000 with annex removed and $740,000 with it intact.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said there seemed to be a contradiction in the report, however, as in describing the developer's approach to the property, Morphy had included demolition costs as part of development.

The No. 1 question, left unanswered, was when the city could come up with the money — assuming agreement on price. Part of the corporation yard property which it had hoped to sell to finance purchase of the square was sold recently for a low down payment, giving the city little cash on hand.

Councilman Fred C. Robbins Jr., suggested title might be transferred to the city for a dollar, with an agreement for proceeds of city sale to a specified maximum to be paid to the county. This was promptly squelched, however, by chairman McInnis and Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

S. K. Herzog, in the audience, noted that "the day all those people move out of the courthouse to the Civic Center, the appraisal becomes obsolete" because of the effect of the move on downtown business.

Not mentioned in Morphy's appraisal report was provision of parking for redevelopment of the square, cost of which has loomed large in city discussions. City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said a report on the parking needs is expected within a few days from D. Jackson Faustman of Sacramento, parking consultant.

McInnis agreed to start next Tuesday's supervisors' session at 9 a.m. with Morphy present to answer questions regarding the appraisal, and Bettini agreed to have the city represented there. Following that, another joint meeting of supervisors and councilmen will be scheduled.

Bootzin Judge Hears Funds Not Promised

A Marin attorney testified in Marin Superior Court today that octegenerian Max Bootzin told him there was never a promise of marriage involving him and either of two women to whom he gave property and cash.

William O. Weissich testified that Bootzin, at a meeting in the attorney's office Nov. 12, 1965, said the idea of a man his age marrying either of the younger women was outlandish.

Bootzin, Weissich said, further depicted as a "pack of lies" newspaper reports that promises of marriage were involved in the case.

In the non-jury trial, before Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson, Bootzin's heirs are attempting to regain property and money given by Bootzin to Charmaine Klenman, 31, and Joan Saylor, 22.

Weissich, former Marin County district attorney, testified Bootzin told him the two women had been kind and attentive to him and he was grateful.

However, three days after the office visit, Bootzin advised Weissich's secretary that he wanted the attorney to do nothing more in the way of contesting and executorship sought by his family because ". . . I will not do anything against my children. . . ."

Weissich said he had considered Bootzin competent, although he told the elderly man he would want a psychiatrist's report because of his age and the fact the case involved two much younger women.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

High School Graduation, Yesterday And Today

Each year, as the time rolls around for our high schools to graduate another throng of students on the verge of manhood and womanhood, the urge is great upon editorial writers to compare the proceedings with their own graduations in an earlier generation. Sometimes the urge becomes overpowering.

This particular editorial writer was graduated from high school in 1930. The bottom had fallen out of the New York stock market just six months earlier, and the effects of the crash were beginning to be felt in the West. It was not an atmosphere conducive to great expectations.

Even without a stock market crash, times were tough in that little town, dependent largely on farming and livestock raising. Only a minority of that high school graduating class planned to go on to college; for most, the cost put further education out of the question.

IN THOSE DAYS, the valedictorian was not selected by a test to choose the best student speaker; the valedictorian was the student with the highest grades through four years of high school. The valedictorian of our class was among those who had no hope nor plan for college. Her father was a sheepherder. Her family was bedrock poor. (Nowadays, she would be assured of scholarships to continue on to college.)

What she said in her valedictory, and what the commencement speaker (a prominent out-of-town lawyer) said were not long remembered. But neither of them berated society as they found it. Neither of them denigrated their nation. Their talks may not have been particularly "relevant," but they were optimistic. The lawyer had faith in the young graduates; and the graduates had faith in themselves.

Each of those neatly tonsured and well scrubbed (though not necessarily well dressed) young people knew, as he or she was handed the diploma, what it meant: It meant the student had achieved, through his own efforts, a passing grade in every class taken to meet the requirements — all the way up from first grade (there was no kindergarten). No one had been passed on through high school because some psychologist suggested it would inhibit him to fall behind his "peer group." Every diploma was earned.

THIS WEEK'S graduates, however, have been offered educational opportunities far beyond anything in the high schools of 1930. They have gone to school in better buildings, better equipped, with better-educated teachers, better libraries, better textbooks.

Most of them can look forward confidently to going on to college. Despite the twin menaces of the draft and the bomb, they have much reason to view the future with hope and optimism. The specter of increasing want does not confront them. There appears little likelihood that they, like many of those graduated in 1930, will find themselves within a few years "on WPA."

We have faith in them, as that commencement speaker 39 years ago had in us. Some of them rail at "the system"; some of them wear their hair long and unkempt, smoke "pot," and have tried ways of life which were tried and found wanting countless generations ago. But these are merely new — though extreme — manifestations of the ever-renewing revolt of the younger generation.

We have given them the tools. We think they can do the job.

EDWARD S. MUSKIE SAYS:

Solution To Crime Not Easy, But Three Things All Can Do

Every responsible citizen is concerned with the epidemic of crime which grips our society. Between 1960 and 1967, the FBI index showed reported crimes to have risen 88 per cent, nine times the population increase. In 1968, the rate of violent crimes again increased dramatically. In too many of our urban centers citizens are afraid to enter parks, to walk at dusk, or to be in downtown areas at night.

Twice as many juveniles under age 18 are arrested for serious crimes as adults over 25.

One out of every two persons arrested for burglary last year was under 18. Almost half the arrests for serious crimes, like murder, rape and robbery, were of juveniles under 18.

Those who commit a second crime average three convictions and two penal terms within 10 years.

While there was an increase in violent crime arrests in the cities in all age groups, the percentage increase was greater in the suburban areas.

SUCH FACTS shock and dishearten.

There are those who have the solution to crime: "impeach soft judges;" "give heavier sentences;" "make prisons more punitive;" "make more arrests;" "hire more police;" "establish a national police force," and "clean up TV programming."

But the solutions to problems of crime are not simple; they are as complicated as the vast range of behavior called criminal. Oversimplification must not be substituted for clarity, recklessness for courage, exaggeration for objective evidence.

Part of the answer must be the relief of the underlying causes of crime: unemployment, family breakdown, inadequate education, substandard housing, discrimination, frustration and despair.

THE FIRST DUTY of every American in contributing to a reduction in crime is to create an environment of respect for the law. This can only be done by those who show that respect in the conduct of their lives. Juvenile delinquents — and adult criminals as well — often justify their actions by saying that the only difference between them and "respectable citizens" is being caught.

The second duty is to support the administration of justice by better pay, training, equipment for police, insistence on discipline and respect for law and individual rights by police, and immunity of police administrations from political expediency.

The third duty of the concerned citizen is to help improve the administration of our court system. It may well be that the real failure of our courts in the criminal justice system stems not from decisions made, but from the cases which the courts have not decided as a result of backlog and delay. For example, in 1968, more than 4,000 cases had been pending over six months and almost 20 per cent had been pending for over a year in our nation's federal trial courts. Justice delayed is justice denied, to the community as well as to the defendant.

WHEN CRIMINAL justice systems begin to appear impotent, the public begins to believe that a criminal who can get a capable lawyer will get off in the end. To the criminal, the percentages will appear better. Under such circumstances citizens lose faith in justice. Loss of support follows close on the heels of loss of faith, and no system of justice can long endure without the support of the society it serves.

Music Chest Needs More Memberships

Many thanks for the nice editorial of May 2 on behalf of the Marin Music Chest. It was most kind of you.

Programs have been chosen to appeal to the youth of our county and our big hope now is to increase attendance.

Can't Stand Hearing Grown Man Cry

Your account of the arrest and detainment of R. W. Beban and Kimo Campbell is another typical example of the insidious attack on the police by the mass media while at the same time interviewing, lionizing and trying in every way to justify the acts of the agitators.

Your report started off with a matter-of-fact statement that the two young men were working for a radio station in Berkeley and that they were held by the police incommunicado in a state of terror for 38 hours. You stated this as the true facts and without qualification.

Your admission that Beban is a reporter for Ramparts magazine and the editor of Marin College Times should be enough to discredit anything he might have to report. Why is it you failed to tell us something of editor Robert Scheer and his magazine? Are we to judge the remainder of Beban's account of his "ordeal" by his claim that the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center was a former concentration camp for Japanese during World War II? The truth is that Santa Rita is the former U.S. Naval Camp Shoemaker. The understatement of the whole report was that of the deputy who reportedly said to Beban, "You've been causing trouble in Marin County."

If reporters choose to accompany and report the heroics of the revolutionaries then they should accept the hazards without snivelling the same as the reporters do who accompany the Army into battle. I never could stand to hear a grown man cry.

Different View On Foreign Policy

Regarding Senator Cranston's resolution that diplomatic recognition does not constitute approval which you praise so highly (editorial, June 3), it is doubtful whether it would have any effect at all on our foreign policy because the principal (sic) of recognition solely on the basis of approval has not been consistently followed. Your own editorial mentions many dictatorships as numerous exceptions. We have also recognized many Communist satellites whose governments do not meet with our approval. If we have adhered to any principal (sic), it has been that of recognizing governments only when it is practical and consistent with our interests to do so. Any foreign diplomats who, as you assert, regard this as "daft" have undoubtedly not manned the embassies in Peking which are repeatedly attacked and whose ministers are subjected to frequent physical indignities. Moreover, nonrecognition does not imply absence of diplomatic intercourse, since we have frequently met with Peking representatives in Poland and with North Korean representatives at Panmunjon. The diplomats of friendly or neutral powers have represented us in other countries, such as Cambodia. All Cranston is trying to say is that we ought to recognize certain Communist powers he is soft on. Would he also favor our recognizing the de facto government of Rhodesia? I think not!

Mill Valley View From Council Side

Mrs. Anne Bardwell's remarks concerning two recent events in Mill Valley ("Reporter's Notebook," May 23) require a few comments.

Budget sessions: I'll admit the meetings have been frustrating. The budget as presented called for a tax rate of $3.48 (illegal, but showing city needs) a 50 per cent increase from last year. Not included were some employee requests for salary and fringe benefits, which if granted would add another 25 cents. Resolving this and other budget items may take a little time. The democratic process is slow and has faults but is far superior to other alternatives.

City manager:

1. City ordinance 310 states: "The city manager shall be appointed by the city council solely on the basis of his executive and administrative qualifications." No mention is made of personal friendships or other amenities.

2. The new manager was chosen accordingly. Some 100 applications were screened — seven applicants were interviewed and the writer and one other councilmen spent a full day verifying opinions reached as above.

3. Knowing Mr. Bert Balmer and respecting his professional ability, I think he participated to the extend he felt necessary.

4. The last selection of a manager was made in accordance with Mrs. Bardwell's so-called "professional procedure," and probably caused the largest rift in community feelings in recent years.

If Mrs. Bardwell and some of her colleagues had more concern for the professionalism of reporting as opposed to that of selecting city managers there would be a tremendous decrease in the great "creditility gap." During the last five years I have often found little resemblance between news reports and the actual intent of a particular meeting. Issues are taken out of context or only one side presented. Fragments of facts are given which usually amplify the opinions of the reporter. We already have problems of air and water pollution, let's not add the news media to the list.

Social Service Found Cooperative

I recently had occasion to enlist the services of Marin County Social Services in connection with my mother.

I wish to commend this office in their efficiency in handling the matter with great ease. Julia, in particular, was most helpful and informative and saw that everything was taken care of immediately, and mother is well situated now.

This is a well organized and fine social service and a credit to the County of Marin.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

FELLOW PRICED a parrot that had struck his fancy in a pet shop, and was dismayed when the purchase price was quoted at 60 bucks. "Is he such a wonderful talker?" asked the prospective purchaser. "Can't speak one durn word," the proprietor assured him cheerfully, "but he sure is one heck of a listener!"

Fellow who was elated when he was elected first vice president of a big TV network isn't so happy now that the meaning of the job has begun to sink in. When anything goes wrong — and how often it does! — he's the first vice president blamed.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Americans Growing Impatient With Nixon's Extreme Caution

WASHINGTON — Agreement on the withdrawal of some American troops from Vietnam in late summer, if that is the upshot of the Midway conference, will come just in the nick of time. Just in time, that is to say, for President Nixon.

The mood is hardening, as is evident to anyone moving about the country. The view among citizens of widely varying rank and age is turning from skepticism and doubt over the administration's approach to one of sour conviction that it is only more of the same.

Taking out only 40,000 to 50,000 troops, many of them part of the top-heavy support structure, should do a lot to satisfy the moderates on the college campuses and isolate the extremists. It will be proof that an end fo the war is in sight even though complete withdrawal is clouded by doubts.

ON THE CAMPUSES the war is closely linked to the draft. Passage of the Nixon draft plan — a lottery with vulnerability concentrated on the 19-year-olds as against the present seven-year period between the ages of 19 and 25 — would lessen tensions. Educators on several campuses expressed the view that such a change in the law would ease pressures, since numbers of so-called students are merely sheltering in the ivied halls from the long arm of the draft. With no real interest in education, they are restless recruits for the determined disrupters.

With the end of the first half-year of the Nixon administration at hand, the sticky gradualism of the approach to the war carries over into domestic policy. The preoccupation with a balanced budget is cutting into programs to rebuild the cities and train the jobless. This is in contrast with reports of growing anger and defiance in the ghettos and the very real peril of another summer of violence.

TO WHAT DEGREE is the President himself to blame? The American tradition is to zero in on the man at the center of the target. He wanted the job, didn't he?

Yet an objective look at the rigidities of the system itself and the condition of America and the world suggests it may not be that simple. What if Hubert Humphrey had been president during the past five months? What if the tiny fraction of votes in four or five states had gone the other way?

President Humphrey would have sizable majorities of his own in both the Senate and the House. How useful these majorities would be, with their balky southern components, is questionable. The drive for economy, coupled with a distaste for past solutions, such as the poverty program, is deeply rooted in the Congress.

Humphrey would almost certainly have moved more vigorously and rapidly toward a settlement of the Vietnam war, although he would have faced the same risk of collapse and rout with precipitate action.

ON ONE FRONT where the Nixon administration's sticky gradualism has meant delay and perhaps failure, Humphrey was prepared to move quickly. With his long experience in nursing the test-ban and the nuclear nonproliferation treaties, Humphrey would certainly have given preparation for arms limitation talks with the Russians first priority. He would have moved those preparations to the highest level with the prod of urgency.

Attitudes are harderning on the right as well as the left and a cautious, deliberate Nixon may well believe, as his two comencement addresses seemed to indicate, that he can count on a strong reaction to sustain him. But that reaction will not solve the nation's problems.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
Professor of Education
San Jose State College

The general moral tone of a college or university is determined by the institution's president. He selects the administrators subordinate to the office he holds, and he approves appointments to the teaching faculty. He passes on faculty promotion and tenure recommendations. Through these powers he can control the quality of the faculty.

Few college or university presidents, however, exercise the powers delegated to them by boards of trustees.

TO SHOW HOW a college president's attitudes and actions may tend to influence the moral standards on a college campus, a series of related decisions made by one president are offered as illustrations. Similar incidents, no doubt, could be documented on almost any college or university campus.

When the president of San Jose State College overruled his dean of faculties in May 1966, and promoted a faculty member who had admitted to his involvement in an on-campus student-faculty drinking scandal, he established the moral climate which would prevail during his administration. And, when a second participant in the campus drinking episode was later elevated by the president to an administrative post, the moral tone established became further apparent.

ON AUG. 7, 1967, a San Jose State College professor entered a plea of guilty to a morals charge in municipal court for San Jose-Milpitas-Alviso Judicial District. With full knowledge of this conviction, the president of the college promoted this faculty member and announced his advancement to a full professorship three months after the conviction.

Currently, a student who on March 6, 1969, was convicted on two counts of grand theft in Santa Clara County Superior Court sits with faculty members and administrators as a voting member of the college's academic council which is advisory to the college president. As a condition of his probation, the student, Grady F. Robertson, is "committed to the custody of the sheriff of Santa Clara County to serve consecutive weekends . . . for six cllendar months. . . ." Robertson, whose weekend jail term is still being served, was re-elected recently to a seat on the college's academic council by a vote of 625, which represents election by about ½ of one per cent of the school's total enrollment.

With administrative actions that either directly or indirectly influenced these incidents, and with the recent rehiring of the striking faculty goons who disrupted the instructional program for 37 days this year, is it surprising that the current academic term has culminated with one of the worst scandals in the 110-year history of San Jose State College?

THOUGH HE MAY have been unaware of the consequences of the role he played, Dr. Winfield Salisbury II, an assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, set the stage for the scandal when he requested use of an athletic practice field for the week end of May 23-25 to hold what the press has since termed a "be-in." The college authorities approved use of the facility by Salisbury and a group with which he reportedly is affiliated, the Institute for Research and Understanding.

The "be-in," which attracted several thousand student and off-campus participants, turned into an orgy which some veteran policemen termed the worst they had ever seen. San Jose police filed the following "be-in" related crime reports: one attempted murder, seven assaults with deadly weapons, one mass rape, two strongarm robberies, one grand theft, 42 arrests for narcotics, two attempted rapes, 15 auto thefts, and numerous cases of malicious mischief and petty theft.

While the full extent of the physical damage of the "be-in" may eventually be determined, the extent of the moral erosion and damage to the reputation of San Jose State College will never be known.

If Planning An Assassination, First Get A Literary Agent

NEWS ITEM: NBC TV Pays $11,500 for Exclusive Interview With Sirhan Sirhan.

"Well, I'm not one to blow my own horn."

"I've come to you for some advice. I am thinking of assassinating a major public figure, and I was wondering how much money I could make on it."

"It really depends on the victim. It it's a major-major public figure, there is quite a bit of money to be made. The families and lawyers of previous assassins have been paid hundreds of thousands of dollars."

"But I can't write."

"THAT'S NO problem. We can always find a writer to work with you. You sign an exclusive contract with him for your story and then we work out a split."

"Well, can you give me some idea of how much money we're talking about?"

"First, there are the book rights. I know several publishers who are willing to go to six figures for the exclusive story written by an assassin. We'll keep the magazine rights separate. I'm sure I could get some very energetic bidding going from the periodicals, and I would estimate we could get into six figures there as well.

"After we make a magazine deal, we'll go for newspaper syndication. I'm certain I can create some interest there."

"WHAT ABOUT television?"

"We'll make a deal for television, but it will have to be on an exclusive deal. I don't want you appearing on every network for free. If you see a TV camera, clam up. In this way we can get a lot more money for an interview."

"Do you think you can get any companies to bid for the movie rights?"

"I should hope so, particularly if there is an element of mystery involved in the assassination. I think what you have to do is make many contradictory statements at your trial as James Earl Ray did. In that way the script writers will be able to write it in more dramatic terms."

"What else?"

"Don't overlook the overseas publication rights, as well as all your personal letters, which will certainly have value.

"Then there's your wife's story which can be sold separately, your mother's story, and we could make another book from your family album."

"GOSH, I WOULDN'T have thought of half those things."

"Of course, I must warn you that you won't get all the money. Your defense attorney will demand a large percentage of it. Then there's my commission, the expenses of research for your collaborator, and money we must pay to other people who have to give us clearances for using their names in the movie version."

"Still, there will be a lot left over for myself and my family, won't there?"

"Of course. You and your family could come out of this very comfortably."

"I didn't realize there was this much money to be made in assassinating somebody."

"Only in America."

Woman Claims Misquotation

Mrs. Donald A. Travis of San Rafael reported today that she was misquoted in Saturday's Independent-Journal account of her husband's seizure Thursday in Sausalito and subsequent transfer to Napa State Hospital.

Mrs. Travis said she had not meant that her husband had taken LSD, as reported, but that she thought some might have been slipped into wine he was drinking before being found at 300 Bridgeway, unconscious, rigid and cold to the touch.

Mrs. Travis said she was distraught at the time and now believes her husband, who has been despondent, was actually suffering the after-effects of medication.

Conditions At Hospital Held Poor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Aid Retarded Children Inc. of San Francisco says it will seek state money later this month to remedy what it describes as overcrowding, understaffing and other deficiencies at Sonoma State Hospital.

In support of a request to the Assembly's Ways and Means Committee for more funds, the parents' organization will be armed with a report by Dr. Gunnar Dybwad of Brandeis University.

Dybwad, former executive director of the National Association for Retarded Children, inspected Sonoma State Hospital last Nov. 18-19.

With him on the inspection team designated by the state Department of Mental Hygiene were Dr. Ivy Mooring, executive director of the Los Angeles County Council for Retarded Children, and Martha Adams of the University of California nursing school faculty.

Parts of their report were made public yesterday by attorney Quentin Kopp at a news conference called by Joseph Fogarty of San Francisco and Benton Siefert of Larkspur, who have children at the Sonoma hospital.

Kopp quoted Dybward's report as saying:

"Patients are herded into huge, barn-like wards bereft of any niceties of home and treated like and consequently behave like animals in a zoo...

"The principle of dignity of the individual is violated when he is stripped of all his clothes—when he has absolutely no vestige of privacy, even a shoe box which he can call his own...

"The wards that were visited at night were found to be poorly ventilated. They had the institution stuffiness and smell...

"There seemed to be a lack of funds to provide basic necessities for the care of patients. A deplorable situation existed in that there was a combination of inadequate linen supply and laundry service. This created a situation in which rags were used for drying material after patients' toileting, washing and bathing."

Kopp said that on behalf of the concerned parents he had to sue in San Francisco Superior Court to try to get Dybwad's report made public in time for use at the current session of the legislature.

Kopp said the report was promised March 31, but delayed for review by state authorities.

AN IDEA
Are you reading the Want Ads every day, hoping to spot a good buy? Then consider for a moment another way of doing the same thing which we think may be better.

It is a fact that often OUR best buys never get advertised at all. We have over $13 million in Marin property listed for sale at any one time, and naturally we can't advertise all we have for sale every day. And furthermore, we call OUR buyers BEFORE a property gets to the papers, and if it is what they want, it is sold before it is advertised at all!

So our suggestion is that you tell us what it is that YOU are looking for in Marin. Chances are we have it listed now, or if not, that we will have it listed soon, because we have a continuous flow of new listings from a backlog of FIFTY-NINE YEARS of selling here (relistings) as well as from our complete coverage with SIX MARIN COUNTY OFFICES.

As soon as we spot what you are looking for, WE WILL CALL YOU FIRST, BEFORE WE ADVERTISE THE PROPERTY. Become one of our buyers . . . call

AN IDEA
Are you reading the Want Ads every day, hoping to spot a good buy? Then consider for a moment another way of doing the same thing which we think may be better.

It is a fact that often OUR best buys never get advertised at all. We have over $13 million in Marin property listed for sale at any one time, and naturally we can't advertise all we have for sale every day. And furthermore, we call OUR buyers BEFORE a property gets to the papers, and if it is what they want, it is sold before it is advertised at all!

So our suggestion is that you tell us what it is that YOU are looking for in Marin. Chances are we have it listed now, or if not, that we will have it listed soon, because we have a continuous flow of new listings from a backlog of FIFTY-NINE YEARS of selling here (relistings) as well as from our complete coverage with SIX MARIN COUNTY OFFICES.

As soon as we spot what you are looking for, WE WILL CALL YOU FIRST, BEFORE WE ADVERTISE THE PROPERTY. Become one of our buyers . . . call

Terra Linda Student Fund Aids Projects

It took the Student Body Association at Terra Linda High School three years to accumulate an excess of $5,500 in its reserve fund — but only a month to decide how to spend it.

The money piled up as a result of three prosperous football seasons. Early last month, James F. Plank, San Rafael schools superintendent, declared the excess had to be appropriated. Student body associations were not meant to be profitmaking organizations, he said.

The student council was swamped with suggestions on how to spend the money after asking the staff and students for ideas.

The council has decided to spend the money this way:

To the athletic department for the organization and outfitting of two new teams in soccer and boys' gymnastics, $1,850.

For campus beautification with details to be decided by a student-staff committee following completion of street work near the school, $1,650.

To the music department, $700.

For the school newspaper operations, $650.

To the drama department to enable equipment previously rented to be purchased, $500.

Principal Frank Stocking said a previously stated excess of $8,500 was revised to $5,500 upon further study.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Altitude Changes May Cause Pain In Inner Ear, Sinuses

VAN DELLEN

Gas, trapped in a balloon, expands at high altitudes because the pressure of the surrounding air lessens. The balloon may double in size and will break when the wall stretches beyond its capacity.

Gases trapped within the intestine also expand, and unless they escape, the bowel may overdistend and is in danger of rupturing or becoming gangrenous.

THIS DOES NOT HAPPEN to gas in the normal gastrointestinal tract because it escapes in one way or another. However, when the bowel is obstructed or a hernia has slipped out and is stuck in its sac, these gases are trapped.

Gas also is a problem during the first two weeks after an abdominal operation. These factors should be taken into consideration by the convalescent who plans to travel by air.

Air in the middle ear tends to pass in and out via the eustachian tube. So long as the structure is open, the gases will escape after expanding due to changes in pressure. The same takes place with expanding air in the sinuses that escapes on ascending to a high altitude.

TRY TO IMGAINE what happens at high altitudes when a person has a cold and the escape routes are blocked. The air in the ear or in one or more of the sinuses begins to expand creating considerable tension within the cavities.

The pain from these disorders is most marked on returning to ground level and persists so long as the air is trapped. Deafness may co-exist when the ears are involved.

IF THE EARS or sinuses do not open spontaneously, a nose or ear specialist is needed. By not flying when a respiratory infection exists, this can be avoided. However, if air travel is necessary, nose drops containing a decongestant will keep the passageways open. Chewing gum or yawning helps to open the eustachian tubes.

A small bubble of air under the filling of a tooth can also produce severe pain if it expands. In order to obtain relief, the filling must be removed.

BLEEDING WHILE PREGNANT

A reader writes: Even if a woman menstruates, is there still a possibility she may be pregnant?

REPLY

Some pregnant women bleed, but when the flow is profuse, the chances of their remaining pregnant are practically nil. The exception occurs in tubal pregnanacy when the spotting begins two to four weeks after the first period is missed and lower abdominal pain develops. In this case, a lifesaving operation usually is necessary.

A Petaluma youth wss injured in a two-car accident Saturday at 10:10 p.m. on Gossage Avenue, north of Magnolia Avenue, Petaluma.

Alan Waterman, 17, of 36 Greylawn Avenue, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for cuts of the face, knees and arms. The California Highway Patrol said he was a passenger in a car driven by Ross Wilcey, 17, of 16 Cochran Way, Petaluma, which collided with a car driven by Ronald Patterson, 17, of 14 Grossland Way, Petaluma.

Another Co-Ed Found Murdered

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A pretty, unidentified young woman, shot, stabbed and sexually abused, is the latest victim in a chain of six slayings near this college town in 22 months.

Her mutilated body was discovered yesterday on an abandoned farm. Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey said it seemed probable she had met her fate at the hands of the same killer as the others. He added that no likely suspect had been sighted.

Since Aug. 7, 1967, the bodies of five other girls have been found within a seven-mile radius of Ann Arbor, home of the University of Michigan. Two of the victims were co-eds at Eastern Michigan University in nearby Ypsilanti and one was a student at the University of Michigan.

Lions Club Will Seat Officers

San Rafael and Marinwood optometrist Dr. Howard A. Levenson will be installed as president of the San Rafael Lions Club at the club's installation dinner at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Also to be installed are: John McDermott of Corte Madera as District 4-C cabinet secretary; Clifford S. Lund, first vice president; George Lawrence, second vice president; Donald C. Barksdale, third vice president; Robert J. Brusatori, secretary; Arthur C. Latno, treasurer; Thomas A. Meisner, Lion Tamer, and Dr. Robert L. Pawlo, Lion Tail Twister.

Owners Backing Tax Proposal

The Marin Estates Homeowners Association board endorses the proposal that residents of cities and fire districts be relieved of the tax obligation for funding the county's fire department to unincorporated and non-districted areas, president George R. Hebberd has reported.

The board also supports a proposal that the fire areas in the county fire department's jurisdiction be reconstituted so that people would pay for the fire protection they actually get.

Hebberd reported that Nancy Riley was appointed to fill the directorship of Mary Jane Lindberg who resigned.

Hearing Set On Sanity

Proceedings in the case of a 25-year-old San Anselmo man who claimed that his "angel dust" was the coming thing in narcotics were halted yesterday while his sanity is investigated.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court appointed two psychiatrists to examine William Olaf Hendrickson before he is sentenced.

Hendrickson pleaded guilty last week to possessing cocaine and LSD.

When arrested May 18 Hendrickson claimed that his chemically treated parsley was 30 times as powerful as marijuana. Chemists have not yet determined what is in the "angel dust."

Graduation Set Tomorrow Night

Graduating student Castroma Dickens of Marin City and school district board chairman Bruce E. Woelfel will be the speakers when 81 candidates are graduated from Martin Luther King School in Sausalito at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the school multipurpose room.

The graduating class will go on from the ceremony to a graduation dance at the Manzanita Center in Marin City. The class picnic was held Friday at the Town and Country Club in Fairfax.

Doctors Appointed To Examine Youth

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday appointed two doctors to examine Terrence Scott Borrman, 19, of Mill Valley to determine if he is a narcotics addict or in danger of becoming one.

Borrman had earlier admitted running a highway patrolman off Lucas Valley Road on March 27 while driving a stolen car. His case was continued until June 23.

Chicken Barbecue Scheduled Sunday

The San Antonio Volunteer Fire Department will hold a chicken barbecue at noon Sunday on the Mazza-Pomi Ranch on the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, south of the Sonoma County line.

Elmo Garzelli, barbecue chairman, said food will be served all afternoon.

Restaurant Sign To Be Discussed

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee will consider an application from Alfred Barthel for a sign on the southeast corner of his restaurant, Senor Alfredo, at 115 San Anselmo Avenue at an 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow.

The committee will also review the design of a proposed roof for Mel R. Westenberg's parking deck at 36 Sunview Avenue.

To Observe Stars

The Star Observers of Marin will meet at the San Rafael Recreation Center Friday at 8 p.m. for an observing session. Sessions open to the public also are scheduled for June 26, at the recreation center, and July 3, when the group will travel to the East Bay.

Drive Launched For Sale Items

Switchboard of Marin has launched a drive for useable goods, furniture and antiques to be sold at a rummage sale and silent auction July 19 and 20.

Also sought for the sale are arts and crafts materials, paintings and other art objects.

The fund-raising event is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday July 19 and 20 at the San Rafael High School cafeteria.

Items may be donated before 5 p.m. daily at fire stations in Sausalito, Mill Valley, Tiburon, Kentfield, San Anselmo and Terra Linda. The stations should be called if particularly large items are involved. Pickups and deposits may be arranged in other areas by telephoning Switchboard.

Terra Linda Student Fund Aids Projects

It took the Student Body Association at Terra Linda High School three years to accumulate an excess of $5,500 in its reserve fund — but only a month to decide how to spend it.

The money piled up as a result of three prosperous football seasons. Early last month, James F. Plank, San Rafael schools superintendent, declared the excess had to be appropriated. Student body associations were not meant to be profit-making organizations, he said.

The student council was swamped with suggestions on how to spend the money after asking the staff and students for ideas.

The council has decided to spend the money this way:

To the athletic department for the organization and outfitting of two new teams in soccer and boys' gymnastics, $1,850.

For campus beautification with details to be decided by a student-staff committee following completion of street work near the school, $1,650.

To the music department, $700.

For the school newspaper operations, $650.

To the drama department to enable equipment previously rented to be purchased, $500.

Principal Frank Stocking said a previously stated excess of $8,500 was revised to $5,500 upon further study.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Altitude Changes May Cause Pain In Inner Ear, Sinuses

VAN DELLEN

Gas, trapped in a balloon, expands at high altitudes because the pressure of the surrounding air lessens. The balloon may double in size and will break when the wall stretches beyond its capacity.

Gases trapped within the intestine also expand, and unless they escape, the bowel may overdistend and is in danger of rupturing or becoming gangrenous.

THIS DOES NOT HAPPEN to gas in the normal gastrointestinal tract because it escapes in one way or another. However, when the bowel is obstructed or a hernia has slipped out and is stuck in its sac, these gases are trapped.

Gas also is a problem during the first two weeks after an abdominal operation. These factors should be taken into consideration by the convalescent who plans to travel by air.

Air in the middle ear tends to pass in and out via the eustachian tube. So long as the structure is open, the gases will escape after expanding due to changes in pressure. The same takes place with expanding air in the sinuses that escapes on ascending to a high altitude.

TRY TO IMGAINE what happens at high altitudes when a person has a cold and the escape routes are blocked. The air in the ear or in one or more of the sinuses begins to expand creating considerable tension within the cavities.

The pain from these disorders is most marked on returning to ground level and persists so long as the air is trapped. Deafness may co-exist when the ears are involved.

IF THE EARS or sinuses do not open spontaneously, a nose or ear specialist is needed. By not flying when a respiratory infection exists, this can be avoided. However, if air travel is necessary, nose drops containing a decongestant will keep the passageways open. Chewing gum or yawning helps to open the eustachian tubes.

A small bubble of air under the filling of a tooth can also produce severe pain if it expands. In order to obtain relief, the filling must be removed.

BLEEDING WHILE PREGNANT

A reader writes: Even if a woman menstruates, is there still a possibility she may be pregnant?

REPLY

Some pregnant women bleed, but when the flow is profuse, the chances of their remaining pregnant are practically nil. The exception occurs in tubal pregnanacy when the spotting begins two to four weeks after the first period is missed and lower abdominal pain develops. In this case, a lifesaving operation usually is necessary.

Namath Voices Disappointment With Jets Bosses

STATELINE, Nev. (AP)—Joe Namath says he is "a little disappointed" with the New York Jets, the team that gave him $400,000 to sign a pro football contract.

Namath is now out of pro football, at least he announced his retirement last Friday rather than sell his interest in a New York City tavern.

Pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle said gamblers frequent the Bachelors III and ordered Namath to sell his one-third interest in the place or retire.

Namath said yesterday the Jets supplied him with a list of unsavory characters who frequented the bar two months ago but had made "no attempt to help since."

"I was a little disappointed," added the hero of the Jets 16-7 Superbowl win over the Baltimore Colts.

Namath was sitting in a Lake Tahoe casino, surrounded by newsmen and gamblers. "I did not do anything wrong," he said at least twice.

Only two questions put to the Jets Quarterback drew "no comment" replies from him:

Would he be interested in buying into one of Nevada's legal gaming operations? Has he asked a Las Vegas bank for a loan to finance buying a casino?

There had been a report that Namath was looking for such a loan.

Namath is in Nevada to play in the eighth annual Harrah's Invitational Golf Tournament. The same Bill Harrah who runs the tournament runs the largest gambling operation in the state.

Hughes, in addition to other things, owns more Nevada casinos than any other man.

Namath played a rain-soaked practice round yesterday. He was on the 15th hole when a press conference with him was about to begin.

He arrived an hour later clad in a windbreaker and mod fashion wide striped pants, and twirled a drink in his hands as he answered questions.

Namath said he contacted the district attorney's office about hiring an off duty investigator to work at his New York bar after the Jets' report of gamblers seen there. He did not say whether they ever hired the investigator.

Rozelle first contacted him about the bar last Tuesday, Namath said, and gave him 24 hours to sell.

Rozelle reconsidered last Wednesday and gave him a couple of extra days, Namath said.

"The first feeling I had was to sell. I talked with friends and my lawyers and decided it was not fair, not right," said Namath.

"I just want to know what I did wrong," he said. "The big problem is that I want to play football."

Reports that his decision to quit pro football could cost him up to $5 million dollars were accurate, Namath said.

Nothing has transpired since last Friday that would cause him to change his mind, Namath said. He indicated his future plans extend only as far as a movie in July.

Although he said he would like to talk to Rozelle, Namath held little hope such conversation would be profitable. "I do not expect him to budge an inch," said Namath.

Namath said he had talked with many of his teammates and they supported his decision. He said he hoped some of them would reconsider their threats to quit if he does not return.

Russ Dillon May Pitch Against No. 1 Draftee

The selection of Russell King Dillon to the Northern California All-Star squad will place the talented Novato High southpaw pitcher in some pretty talented company at the North-South Cal High School baseball classic at Candlestick Park June 21.

Of course, you can turn that around by saying the other graduating senior all-stars from throughout the state will be in some pretty talented company in Mr. Dillon whose credentials speak for themselves. The stylish Novatan won 13 of 14 decisions this spring, was 8-0 without yielding an earned run in pitching Novato to the Marin County Athletic League championship and, while working eight innings for runner-up Novato in the recent Tournament of Champions, struck out 19 batters, again without a run against him. A switch hitter, he also bats with authority.

Scouted By Ted Williams

At Candlestick, Dillon will have the opportunity to test his slants against America's premier prep, outfielder Jeffrey Burroughs of Long Beach, the number one choice in last week's major league player draft. The Washington Senators, getting the first shot at the more than 1,170 draftees, tabbed Master Burroughs who was scouted personally by none other than Manager Ted Williams.

The North team, to be managed by Al Endriss of Redwood High School and Jim Keating of St. Ignatius in San Francisco, will have a pair of high draft choices in Len Baxley of Anderson, near Redding, No. 1 Detroit pick, and Stan Tapi of Fresno, a No. 2 selection.

In American Legion Ball

Meanwhile, Dillon is keeping in shape for the North-South game by playing for the Novato American Legion Post in junior league competition and will be on the mound this Saturday in a game against Napa at Novato High, 5 p.m.

Over the weekend, playing outfield, Dillon cracked five hits in a pair of Novato victories over Dixon and Vallejo. Other Novato stars were pitchers Steve McNally and Mike Timmel, supported by strong hitting from Mark Newson, Dee Fedrick, Barry Berringer, Gary Trono and Glenn Holsclaw. The team is managed by Gene Ferretti.

Willard Batting Only .238

OUTFIELDER Nick Willard of Novato, playing for the Bakersfield Dodgers in the California League, is batting .238 at last report while southpaw Bill Lee of Terra Linda is now 4-2 won-lost for the Pittsfield, Mass. Red Sox of the Double A Eastern League, losing his latest outing. Still, Lee has a great 1.89 earned run average in 57 innings on the mound, having yielded 39 hits while walking 26 and striking out 37.

THOMAS W. THOMAS IV, who went from Novato High to Menlo J.C., is now ticketed for Washington State University where he should help the Cougar baseball team.

Hurler Chris Short Out For The Season

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pitcher Chris Short of the Philadelphia Phillies will undergo surgery here this week and will be out for the remainder of the season, a spokesman for the National Baseball League Club said today.

A club spokesman said the 31-year-old lefthander who led the team with a 19-13 record last season would enter Temple University Hospital Thursday or Friday for removal of a herniated disc in the lumbar region of his back.

Dr. Frederick Murtagh, a neurosurgeon who operated on the Phillies Bobby Wine last May for the same problem, was to perform the operation.

Short, who has been on the disabled list since April 21, pitched twice this season but was not involved in a decision.

He had entered the hospital May 9 for therapy and was discharged May 30. He re-entered the hospital for two days last week and was to have made the West Coast trip with the team June 5. However, his back continued to give him trouble and he remained in Philadelphia.

Giants Vs. Mets Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie McCovey and his aching right hip have had one day to rest up and the San Francisco Giants now hope their big first baseman is ready to help them gain a measure of revenge on the New York Mets.

The Mets, working on a club record winning streak of 10 straight, open a two-game series tonight in Candlestick Park. Three of those victories came over the unsuspecting Giants recently in New York.

FIVE STRAIGHT

Since then the Giants have put together a five-game winning streak of their own, one that has carried them to within three games of the Atlanta Braves, who lead the National League's West Division.

While McCovey took yesterday off, the Giants journeyed down the Peninsula to Santa Clara where they beat the University of Santa Clara Broncos 6-4 in an exhibition game.

HOME RUNS

Dave Marshall and Ken Kenderson both hit homers of about 370 feet to right field against the Broncos and Rich Robertson, who went seven innings, was the winning pitcher.

Catcher Dick Dietz raised a few eyebrows when he pitched in the eighth inning for the Giants. Joe Gibbon finished up. Vince Bigone, Alvin Strain and Jim Silvestrini drove in runs for Santa Clara.

Shuffling A's Up Against Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Oakland Athletics, who have players coming and going all the time, open a three-game series against the Washington Senators here tonight .

Joining the club here today was Joe Rudi, who has been hitting .395 with 59 runs batted in at the A's Des Moines, Iowa, American Association farm team.

TO BIRMINGHAM

Optioned back to Birmingham of the Southern League, where he came from less than two weeks earlier, was rookie catcher Gene Tenace, who had managed just two hits in 15 trips to the plate with the A's.

Rejoining the Athletics over the weekend was Ramon Webster, who was sent down to the minors in favor of Jose Tartabull. Manager Hank Bauer decided to take another look at Webster when Tartabull failed to hit in nine trips to the plate, most of them as a pinch hitter.

HOTTEST RUMOR

Hottest rumor in the A's camp at the moment is the one that would have pitcher Lew Krausse traded to another club, perhaps for a relief pitcher.

Krausse, 0-3, has appeared almost entirely in relief this year, despite the fact that he is probably more effective as a starter.

Hunter, 4-3, pitches against the Athletics tonight while Joe Coleman, 3-5, goes for Washington.

Recreation Softball

Cal's Steak House defeated Wright's 6-1, Cliff's Chevron routed the Harding Gophers 16-2 and the Doves edged Pepsi Cola 7-3 last night in the San Rafael Recreation Department Softball League at Albert Field.

A TIP FROM THE TOP

New York Mets outfielder, Cleon Jones, whose .353 batting average is second in the National League, gave some batting tips to 14-year-old Chubby Hall of Marin City yesterday during a visit to the Boys Club of Southern Marin. Looking on is Manny Chandler, director of the club. Jones, whose torrid hitting has sparked the Mets to 10 consecutive victories, will lead the New Yorkers against the Giants tonight in Candlestick Park in the opening of a two-game series. North Prep Stars Roster Announced

A 16-man roster that includes southpaw pitcher Russ Dillon of Novato was announced today to represent the North against the South in the first California High School All-Star Baseball Game at San Francisco's Candlestick Park June 21.

The squad, selected by co-managers Al Endriss of Redwood High School in Larkspur and Jim Keating of San Francisco's St. Ignatius High School from nominations submitted by sports writers throughout the area, includes four pitchers, six infielders, four outfielders and two catchers. All the players are graduating seniors in the game sponsored by the California Police Activities League and patterned after the annual North-South football classic in Los Angeles.

The North roster:

PITCHERS — Russ Dillon, Novato; John Burgess, Terra Nova (Pacifica); Mike Rusk, Gunn (Los Altos Hills); Chris Sorensen, Santa Cruz.

OUTFIELDERS — Fred Cardiel, Balboa (San Francisco); Ed Siracusa, Los Gatos; Bob Vera, Antioch; Elgin Williams, Vallejo.

Bert Yancey Declares He's Ready This Time

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Bert Yancey, who blows the big ones, says it's just a matter of growing up and he believes he's mature enough now to win the Open.

"I've changed a lot since last year," the tall, blond ex-West Pointer added today in recalling how he led through the first three rounds of the U.S. Open Golf championship a year ago at Oak Hill in Rochester, N.Y., only to finish third, six strokes back of the winner, Lee Trevino.

GIVEAWAY

"Lee wanted to win more than I did," he added. "I have a strange feeling out on the course in that final round. I didn't think I was worthy to be Open champion. So you might say I gave it away."

The year before, in 1967, Yancey opened with a 67 in the Masters for a three-stroke lead, still led by a shot after the second round and tied after 54. He shot a final round 73 and finished third behind the late-charging Gay Brewer, Jr.

"It was the same thing," Yancey explained while tuning up for the Open starting Thursday over the Champions Club's Cypress Creek Course. "I just couldn't visualize myself being in a class with the greats who had won the event. I talked myself out of it."

IN AWE

The 30-year-old Floridian acknowledged that he had been in awe of such giants as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Bill Casper—but no more.

"I've won five tournaments on the tour now," he said. "This year I've already won around $50,000, my best year yet, and have a tournament title (Atlanta). Palmer and Nicklaus aren't playing as well. So my attitude has changed.

"I have convinced myself that if anyone can win this Open, I can.

"I'm over that feeling of unworthiness. I think a lot of the fellows on the tour are. That's

AVERY OVERRULED

There'll Still Be Olympics Skiing

WARSAW (AP) — New rules created by the International Ski Federation (FIS) that allow skiers to receive expense money and appear in advertisements under certain conditions have been endorsed by the International Olympic Committee.

In a statement issued yesterday after its annual meeting, the IOC said it "welcomed" recent steps taken by the FIS to control eligibility of skiers in the Winter Games.

EXPENSE MONEY

The new FIS rules ban skiers from competing for money but permit them to receive expense money and pay for time lost from work. They also allow skiers to appear in advertisements if they receive permission from their national federations.

The IOC also rebuffed Avery Brundage, its 82-year-old president from Chicago, by shelving his demands that two Winter Games champions return their gold medals.

Brundage had demanded the return of all Alpine skiing medals won in the 1968 games because of alleged commercialism. He specifically mentioned Canada's Nancy Greene Raine and Jean-Claude Killy of France.

In Montreal, Mrs. Raine, former World Cup skiing champion, said she thought the new rule to permit financial aid was good. She said the action to shelve demands for return of the gold medals did not affect her. She said her name was used by Brundage but the IOC never named her officially.

The nine-page IOC report recommended:

—That the Winter Games be continued.

—That the Winter Games be limited to 10 days, plus opening day.

--That opening and closing ceremonies be simplified.

—That no new events be added and that no sports be transferred from the Summer Games.

ADDITIONAL DAY

Munich was given 16 days to stage the 1972 Summer Games, one more than normally allowed. Slalom canoeing was approved as a new event.

Under the new FIS rules, each nation's ski federation will make its own rules, including a decision on the type and make of skis to be used by all its competitors.

IOC members privately voiced their opinion that "Warsaw has not brought to an end yet the skiing question. It looks like we will have to deal with it for a long time."

Gene's Agent Calls 49er Offer 'Insult'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Flanker Gene Washington of Stanford has hired an agent to conduct contract talks with the San Francisco 49ers.

Agent Chuck DeKeado of Los Angeles said yesterday he has turned down an $80,000 package over three years for Washington, second draft choice of the 49ers.

"They want a $50 receiver for a million dollar quarterback (John Brodie," said DeKeado. "This is an insult to Gene."

Jack White, general manager of the 49ers said, "We feel we have made Gene a fair and reasonable offer. We feel negotiations will be consummated to everyone's satisfaction."

If Washington fails to sign a contract with San Francisco, DeKeado said he probably would ink a one-year pact with entertainer Bill Cosby for filming commercials for Cosby's company.

Junior Lacrosse

Danny Millikin Scored two goals and goalie Bill Busig turned in a fine performance to lead the Novato Parks and Recreation Department team to a 5-1 victory over the Church of the Latter Day Saints last night in a junior lacrosse game at Hill Junior High School, Novato.

Owners Backing Tax Proposal

The Marin Estates Homeowners Association board endorses the proposal that residents of cities and fire districts be relieved of the tax obligation for funding the county's fire department to unincorporated and non-districted areas, president George R. Hebberd has reported.

The board also supports a proposal that the fire areas in the county fire department's jurisdiction be reconstituted so that people would pay for the fire protection they actually get.

Hebberd reported that Nancy Riley was appointed to fill the directorship of Mary Jane Lindberg who resigned.

Hearing Set On Sanity

Proceedings in the case of a 25-year-old San Anselmo man who claimed that his "angel dust" was the coming thing in narcotics were halted yesterday while his sanity is investigated.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court appointed two psychiatrists to examine William Olaf Hendrickson before he is sentenced.

Hendrickson pleaded guilty last week to possessing cocaine and LSD.

When arrested May 18 Hendrickson claimed that his chemically treated parsley was 30 times as powerful as marijuana. Chemists have not yet determined what is in the "angel dust."

Graduation Set Tomorrow Night

Graduating student Castroma Dickens of Marin City and school district board chairman Bruce E. Woelfel will be the speakers when 81 candidates are graduated from Martin Luther King School in Sausalito at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the school multipurpose room.

The graduating class will go on from the ceremony to a graduation dance at the Manzanita Center in Marin City. The class picnic was held Friday at the Town and Country Club in Fairfax.

Doctors Appointed To Examine Youth

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday appointed two doctors to examine Terrence Scott Borrman, 19, of Mill Valley to determine if he is a narcotics addict or in danger of becoming one.

Borrman had earlier admitted running a highway patrolman off Lucas Valley Road on March 27 while driving a stolen car. His case was continued until June 23.

Chicken Barbecue Scheduled Sunday

The San Antonio Volunteer Fire Department will hold a chicken barbecue at noon Sunday on the Mazza-Pomi Ranch on the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, south of the Sonoma County line.

Elmo Garzelli, barbecue chairman, said food will be served all afternoon.

Restaurant Sign To Be Discussed

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee will consider an application from Alfred Barthel for a sign on the southeast corner of his restaurant, Senor Alfredo, at 115 San Anselmo Avenue at an 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow.

The committee will also review the design of a proposed roof for Mel R. Westenberg's parking deck at 36 Sunview Avenue.

To Observe Stars

The Star Observers of Marin will meet at the San Rafael Recreation Center Friday at 8 p.m. for an observing session. Sessions open to the public also are scheduled for June 26, at the recreation center, and July 3, when the group will travel to the East Bay.

Drive Launched For Sale Items

Switchboard of Marin has launched a drive for useable goods, furniture and antiques to be sold at a rummage sale and silent auction July 19 and 20.

Items may be donated before 5 p.m. daily at fire stations in Sausalito, Mill Valley, Tiburon, Kentfield, San Anselmo and Terra Linda. The stations should be called if particularly large items are involved. Pickups and deposits may be arranged in other areas by telephoning Switchboard.

A New Puppet Show In Oakland Coliseum

OAKLAND — The incessant puppet show with A's personnel these past two weeks proves that owner Charles O. Finley (1) is convinced hurry-up patchwork here and there will ultimately bring a 1969 pennant, or (2) is panicked because the club isn't playing much better than .500 ball, or (3) both.

In a two-week period, the Oakland front office dumped three fellows to the minors, cut one completely and sold a fifth to Seattle. To replace them,five lads were promoted from the pastures of Des Moines and Birmingham.

THERE IS GOOD reason to believe that manager Hank Bauer knew nothing about at least two of these personnel shifts—although he'll say nothing about what he knew or didn't know. But Bauer has worked for Finley before and is aware that the owner operated with remote independence. It would be nice, though, at least for handshaking purposes, for the manager to hear about new faces before seeing them.

In all of 1968, save for the arrival of the kids in the final few weeks of the season, the A's made few changes in personnel. Finley stodd pat with his kids, who were judged to be in a learning year.

NOT SO IN '69. The owner is certain he has a pennant contender and is not abiding stand-patness.

Yet, the juggling act seems odd. Ramon Webster was sent down earlier in the year for Jose Tartabull — both to be used, ostensibly, as left-handed pinch hitters. Webster had been performing nicely in that task but was farmed to Iowa anyway. Tartabull contributed little and, ovcr the weekend, was sent to Iowa. Whom should he meet in mid-flight but Webster.

WHILE AT Des Moines, one-time first baseman Webster worked in the outfield with the notion he'd have a better chance of playing with the A's in the outfield than behind durable Danny Cater at first. So much for the mitigating circumstances of that strange shuttling act.

How about the grabbing of a fourth catcher, one Federico Velazquez, whom the A's dumped on the expansion draft only a few months previously? Even Seattle didn't want Velazquez. But Finley may be planning to form an all-catcher bridge team.

HE ALSO YEARNS to rehire Diego Segui, another draft expendable last fall. Segui is a more consistent reliever than anyone in the A's bullpen now but was considered too old by management and grabbed by Seattle.

George Lauzerique was excellent in spring training but farmed out the day before the season opened to make room for ex-Athletic John Wyatt, who's as ancient as Segui but may have represented a Segui substitute in Finley's eyes.

And so who is given an outright release when Lauzerique is finally recalled? John Wyatt of course.

why there have been so many winners. This is a beautiful course. I think I have a good chance."

OPEN WITH 67

Last year at Rochester, Yancey opened with a 67, followed with a 68 and, after a 70, had a one-stroke lead going into the last round. Trevino shot his fourth straight sub-70 round—the first time ever in the Open—and won with 69-68-69-69—275. Nicklaus was second with 279 and Yancey, with a 76, followed with 281.

Yancey grew up in Jacksonville, Fla., started playing golf at five, won the national pee wee championship at 13. He entered West Point but suffered a nervous breakdown and later enrolled at Florida State, turning pro in 1961 before finishing college.

The best riding performance in the long history of Pimlico was turned in by Joe Guerra, a 20-year-old Cuban jockey, in 1931. He rode five winners on Preakness Day that year.

Casper Vaults Into Fourth Spot On Golf's Money List

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Casper, winner of the Western Open Golf Championship Sunday, has vaulted into fourth place among money winners on the pro tour, according to figures released today by the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players Division.

Littler sat out the Western Open but still leads with $101,638, followed by Trevino at $83,442 and Player at $79,241.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Profitable Fishing Trip And Rooms Get Painted

Did you ever go fishing to get your house painted? Well, daughter Marylu said she wanted to paint our kitchen and living room, and for us to go for a trip. So spouse Mary and I took off for the Sierra's.

We decided to first try Webber Lake in Sierra County for old times sake! I guess I've fished Webber for 30 years. Upon arrival, lots of discussion took place with Bob and Aileen Wise who run the resort on the lake. Before the discussion was over, we had bought some "special" Webber Lake salmon eggs and some nite crawlers.

I SAID WE wanted some fish for a dinner because I had talked Norman and Georgia Quadros of Mill Valley into coming up, but mostly I had guaranteed Georgia that she would catch her first trout for sure. She's been fishing Rodeo Lagoon in Southern Marin County for a month, and I felt she deserved something better! Anyway, it would be good to have a string of fish to show them upon their arrival.

As we left Bob's cabin, he said, "Dont worry if you don't catch any. I brought you up a Mackinaw from Tahoe." That shook me — if he had to give us a fish then things might be bad around here.

WELL, MARY and I tried different spots around the lake without even a hit. About 6 p.m. we came in and had dinner, and we were still so sure we'd get some fish for the Quadroses that we fileted the Mackinaw and ate it. It was excellent!

The wind had been blowing during the afternoon, but in the evening it stopped, so I tried fishing in front of the cabin. The first darned hit broke my two-pound test line, but I finally caught about a nine-inch brook. That was it for the evening. Bob trolled around and caught a 14-inch rainbow, so I had two fish as a starter.

The next morning, Mary and I drove over to Davis Lake in Piumas County, about 50 miles from Webber. I guess we got there about 11 a.m. Most of the people there had near-limits by this time. They all said it was best to fish early before the wind came up at noon. The lake is about three miles long and one mile wide, and boats are permitted.

IT IS DEEP off the shoreline and most people use salmon eggs fishing from the banks. There is no charge, and you are pretty much on your own. Mary and I caught six rainbows from 10 to 14 inches. The fish were red meated, and in top shape, and put up a good fight. We fished casually about three hours, and then drove back to Webber.

We now had eight respectable fish, and waited for the Quadroses to arrive. Saturday morning all four of us tried Webber using bait, and finally Georgia caught an eight-inch rainbow. You know what she said? "Okay now. Take me in!" I'm beginning to believe she's the dutiful wife type. Norm, Mary and I finished out the day catching three limits of mixed trout, three browns, five brooks, and the remainder rainbows. The limit on trout at Webber is five. Saturday night we went to Reno, and won a little. We arrived home at Woodacre Sunday with 14 trout, and a painted house interior that looked professionally done. I think we've got it made!

BEFORE LEAVING Webber, I asked Bob Wise how he fished Lake Tahoe. It sounded interesting! For Machinaws, he used a rod with roller guides and tip, and over 1000 feet of monel line trolling on the bottom which is 300 feet deep at the hot spots. The baits used are six to eight-inch rough fish from the lake, usually chubs or suckers. Mackinaws run from two to 30 pounds.

The rainbows are taken at the dropoffs at the edge of the green water where the blue begins to show. Troll with 200 yards of line out, usually monofiliment, no sinker, and a flatfish, rebel, etc. as the lure. The rainbows are all about 18 inches long, and really put up a fight. The reason for the 200 yards of line is that the clearness of the water causes the fish to spook from the boat.

Lolich Fans 16, Tigers Lose Game

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mickey Lolich passed out cigars to his Detroit teammates to celebrate the birth of his second daughter, then gave the Seattle Pilots practically nothing. But the Pilots still got the last laugh.

Joyce Lolich presented the Tiger left-hander with daughter No. 2 yesterday morning. Lolich gave Seattle 16 strikeouts last night, but the Pilots spoiled things by handing Detroit a 3-2 loss in 10 innings.

Lolich did give Seattle something, and it was costly—a leadoff homer to Dick Simpson. He then struck out 16 through seven innings and yielded just three more hits, through nine, but the Tigers could get only one run off Seattle's Marty Pattin—and that came on Lolich's RBI single in the fifth.

OFF DOBSON

Seattle won it off Pat Dobson, who came on after Lolich was lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth.

In other action, Boston topped Minnesota 5-3, Kansas City trounced the New York Yankees 7-1 and Cleveland took the Chicago White Sox 5-1 in the American League while Cincinnati downed the Chicago Cubs 4-1 in the only National League contest.

It was the second 16-strikeout performance, high in the majors this year and Detroit record, for Lolich, who was making his first start since being hit on his left, or pitching, forearm by a line drive in a game against Oakland May 27. He struck out 16 in a 6-3 victory over California May 23.

TIES RECORD

Pattin, 6-4, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the Seattle 10th, struck out nine and the total of 25 for nine innings tied the record for an American League night game.

Boston built up a 5-1 lead, mainly on the strength of a two-run homer by Carl Yastrzemski, his 14th, and a solo shot by Rico Petrocelli, his 20th.

Joe Pepitone's 17th homer in the second inning gave the Yankees an early lead, but Kansas City, which had lost four straight and 10-of-11, wrapped up the victory with five runs in the fifth.

KEY HIT

The big inning was keyed by ex-Yank Ellie Rodriquez' three-run homer.

Cincinnati snapped the Cubs' seven-game winning streak as Bob Tolan doubled twice and scored twice. One of his doubles was a drag bunt which got between first baseman Ernie Banks and second baseman Nate Oliver.

Joe Yancey To Coach U.S. Spikers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joe Yancey, cofounder of the New York Pioneer Club, was named yesterday as head coach of the U.S. track and field team that will meet Russia and the British Commonwealth.

That international competition will be held at the Los angeles Memorial Coliseum July 18-19.

28 YEARS

Selection of Yancey, a Negro, was announced at a meeting of the Southern California Track Writers Association by Hilmer Lodge, chairman of the track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Yancey, 56, organized the Pioneer Club 28 years ago and has been its coach ever since. He has also coached many national teams including those of Jamaica, Trinidad, Ceylon and the Bahamas.

PROTEGES

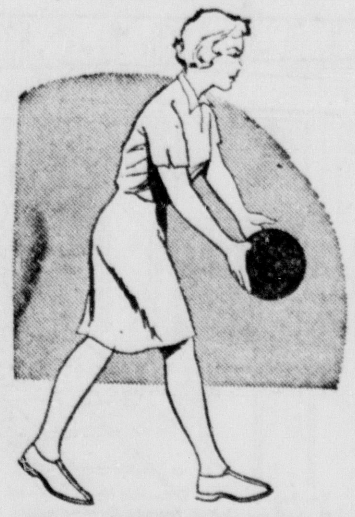
Two of his recent proteges are sprinter John Carlos and world long jump record-holder Bob Beamon. Both went to New York city schools and trained with the Pioneer club.

In 1952, Yancey coached the Jamaican 1,600-meter relay team of Arthur Wint, Les Laing, Herb McKenley and George Rhoden that set an Olympic record of 3 minutes 3.9 seconds.

Yancey has worked for the U.S. Internal Revenue Service for 28 years.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



When the thumb comes out of the ball first and the fingers "lift" the ball slightly, count on plenty of ball spin. If the fingers are to be in a proper position to deliver this spin, they must stay behind the ball throughout the backswing and downswing.

Cooper Captures Boxing Title

Cooper floored McCoy with a left hook to the chin in the 12th round for the only knockdown of the fight. McCoy arose at the count of eight.

Referee Tony Bosnich scored it 10-2 while Judge Elmer Costa voted 8-3 and Judge Johnny Lotsey 9-2.

BRITISH AMATEUR

16-Year-Old Phenom Could Provide Upset

HOYLAKE, England (AP) — Dale Hayes, 16-year-old South African whom Gary Player rates one of the finest up and coming amateurs in the business, went into the second round of the British Amateur Golf Championship today and said:

"I hope I do well because Gary has arranged for me to play in an American junior tournament at San Diego in August."

The 6-foot-3, 201-pound South African from Pretoria defeated Ralph Schlicht of Madison, Wis., 5 and 4, yesterday.

Many experts at these links on the edge of the Irish Sea think that Hayes, who hits the ball a mile, could provide the big upset of the week in this championship first played over this 6,950-yard, par 36-36—72 layout in 1885.

Twenty-five Americans are still chasing the title, including former American Walker Cuppers Bill Hyndman III of Philadelphia, Bob Gardnerof Beverly Hills and Dale Morey of High Point, N.C.

Morey, 50, won his opening match yesterday with a 9 and 8 victory over Bill Castleman of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., and Gardner, 48, defeated Ivor Thomas, England, 4 and 2.

Hyndman, Gardner and Morey—plus other Americans in the field—hope to do well here in the hope of grabbing a spot on the U.S. Walker Cup team.

Namath Voices Disappointment With Jets Bosses

STATELINE, Nev. (AP)—Joe Namath says he is "a little disappointed" with the New York Jets, the team that gave him $400,000 to sign a pro football contract.

Namath is now out of pro football, at least he announced his retirement last Friday rather than sell his interest in a New York City tavern.

Pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle said gamblers frequent the Bachelors III and ordered Namath to sell his one-third interest in the place or retire.

Namath said yesterday the Jets supplied him with a list of unsavory characters who frequented the bar two months ago but had made "no attempt to help since."

"I was a little disappointed," added the hero of the Jets 16-7 Superbowl win over the Baltimore Colts.

Namath was sitting in a Lake Tahoe casino, surrounded by newsmen and gamblers. "I did not do anything wrong," he said at least twice.

Only two questions put to the Jets Quarterback drew "no comment" replies from him:

Would he be interested in buying into one of Nevada's legal gaming operations? Has he asked a Las Vegas bank for a loan to finance buying a casino?

There had been a report that Namath was looking for such a loan.

Namath is in Nevada to play in the eighth annual Harrah's Invitational Golf Tournament. The same Bill Harrah who runs the tournament runs the largest gambling operation in the state.

Namath's partners for the tournament include a vice president of Harrah's, Bob Ring, and one of Howard Hughes' top aides, Ed Nigro.

Hughes, in addition to other things, owns more Nevada casinos than any other man.

Namath played a rain-soaked practice round yesterday. He was on the 15th hole when a press conference with him was about to begin.

He arrived an hour later clad in a windbreaker and mod fashion wide striped pants, and twirled a drink in his hands as he answered questions.

Namath said he contacted the district attorney's office about hiring an off duty investigator to work at his New York bar after the Jets' report of gamblers seen there. He did not say whether they ever hired the investigator.

Rozelle first contacted him about the bar last Tuesday, Namath said, and gave him 24 hours to sell.

Rozelle reconsidered last Wednesday and gave him a couple of extra days, Namath said.

"The first feeling I had was to sell. I talked with friends and my lawyers and decided it was not fair, not right," said Namath.

"I just want to know what I did wrong," he said. "The big problem is that I want to play football."

Reports that his decision to quit pro football could cost him up to $5 million dollars were accurate, Namath said.

Nothing has transpired since last Friday that would cause him to change his mind, Namath said. He indicated his future plans extend only as far as a movie in July.

Although he said he would like to talk to Rozelle, Namath held little hope such conversation would be profitable. "I do not expect him to budge an inch," said Namath.

Namath said he had talked with many of his teammates and they supported his decision. He said he hoped some of them would reconsider their threats to quit if he does not return.

Russ Dillon May Pitch Against No. 1 Draftee

The selection of Russell King Dillon to the Northern California All-Star squad will place the talented Novato High southpaw pitcher in some pretty talented company at the North-South Cal High School baseball classic at Candlestick Park June 21.

Of course, you can turn that around by saying the other graduating senior all-stars from throughout the state will be in some pretty talented company in Mr. Dillon whose credentials speak for themselves. The stylish Novatan won 13 of 14 decisions this spring, was 8-0 without yielding an earned run in pitching Novato to the Marin County Athletic League championship and, while working eight innings for runner-up Novato in the recent Tournament of Champions, struck out 19 batters, again without a run against him. A switch hitter, he also bats with authority.

Scouted By Ted Williams

At Candlestick, Dillon will have the opportunity to test his slants against America's premier prep, outfielder Jeffrey Burroughs of Long Beach, the number one choice in last week's major league player draft. The Washington Senators, getting the first shot at the more than 1,170 draftees, tabbed Master Burroughs who was scouted personally by none other than Manager Ted Williams.

The North team, to be managed by Al Endriss of Redwood High School and Jim Keating of St. Ignatius in San Francisco, will have a pair of high draft choices in Len Baxley of Anderson, near Redding, No. 1 Detroit pick, and Stan Tapi of Fresno, a No. 2 selection.

In American Legion Ball

Meanwhile, Dillon is keeping in shape for the North-South game by playing for the Novato American Legion Post in junior league competition and will be on the mound this Saturday in a game against Napa at Novato High, 5 p.m.

Over the weekend, playing outfield, Dillon cracked five hits in a pair of Novato victories over Dixon and Vallejo. Other Novato stars were pitchers Steve McNally and Mike Timmel, supported by strong hitting from Mark Newson, Dee Fedrick, Barry Berringer, Gary Trono and Glenn Holsclaw. The team is managed by Gene Ferretti.

Willard Batting Only .238

OUTFIELDER Nick Willard of Novato, playing for the Bakersfield Dodgers in the California League, is batting .238 at last report while southpaw Bill Lee of Terra Linda is now 4-2 won-lost for the Pittsfield, Mass. Red Sox of the Double A Eastern League, losing his latest outing. Still, Lee has a great 1.89 earned run average in 57 innings on the mound, having yielded 39 hits while walking 26 and striking out 37.

THOMAS W. THOMAS IV, who went from Novato High to Menlo J.C., is now ticketed for Washington State University where he should help the Cougar baseball team.

Giants Vs. Mets Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie McCovey and his aching right hip have had one day to rest up and the San Francisco Giants now hope their big first baseman is ready to help them gain a measure of revenge on the New York Mets.

The Mets, working on a club record winning streak of 10 straight, open a two-game series tonight in Candlestick Park. Three of those victories came over the unsuspecting Giants recently in New York.

FIVE STRAIGHT

Since then the Giants have put together a five-game winning streak of their own, one that has carried them to within three games of the Atlanta Braves, who lead the National League's West Division.

While McCovey took yesterday off, the Giants journeyed down the Peninsula to Santa Clara where they beat the University of Santa Clara Broncos 6-4 in an exhibition game.

HOME RUNS

Dave Marshall and Ken Kenderson both hit homers of about 370 feet to right field against the Broncos and Rich Robertson, who went seven innings, was the winning pitcher.

Catcher Dick Dietz raised a few eyebrows when he pitched in the eighth inning for the Giants. Joe Gibbon finished up. Vince Bigone, Alvin Strain and Jim Silvestrini drove in runs for Santa Clara.

A TIP FROM THE TOP

New York Mets outfielder, Cleon Jones, whose .353 batting average is second in the National League, gave some batting tips to 14-year-old Chubby Hall of Marin City yesterday during a visit to the Boys Club of Southern Marin. Looking on is Manny Chandler, director of the club. Jones, whose torrid hitting has sparked the Mets to 10 consecutive victories, will lead the New Yorkers against the Giants tonight in Candlestick Park in the opening of a two-game series. Shuffling A's Up Against Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Oakland Athletics, who have players coming and going all the time, open a three-game series against the Washington Senators here tonight .

Joining the club here today was Joe Rudi, who has been hitting .395 with 59 runs batted in at the A's Des Moines, Iowa, American Association farm team.

TO BIRMINGHAM

Optioned back to Birmingham of the Southern League, where he came from less than two weeks earlier, was rookie catcher Gene Tenace, who had managed just two hits in 15 trips to the plate with the A's.

Rejoining the Athletics over the weekend was Ramon Webster, who was sent down to the minors in favor of Jose Tartabull. Manager Hank Bauer decided to take another look at Webster when Tartabull failed to hit in nine trips to the plate, most of them as a pinch hitter.

HOTTEST RUMOR

Hottest rumor in the A's camp at the moment is the one that would have pitcher Lew Krausse traded to another club, perhaps for a relief pitcher.

Krausse, 0-3, has appeared almost entirely in relief this year, despite the fact that he is probably more effective as a starter.

Hunter, 4-3, pitches against the Athletics tonight while Joe Coleman, 3-5, goes for Washington.

Hurler Chris Short Out For The Season

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pitcher Chris Short of the Philadelphia Phillies will undergo surgery here this week and will be out for the remainder of the season, a spokesman for the National Baseball League Club said today.

A club spokesman said the 31-year-old lefthander who led the team with a 19-13 record last season would enter Temple University Hospital Thursday or Friday for removal of a herniated disc in the lumbar region of his back.

Dr. Frederick Murtagh, a neurosurgeon who operated on the Phillies Bobby Wine last May for the same problem, was to perform the operation.

Short, who has been on the disabled list since April 21, pitched twice this season but was not involved in a decision.

He had entered the hospital May 9 for therapy and was discharged May 30. He re-entered the hospital for two days last week and was to have made the West Coast trip with the team June 5. However, his back continued to give him trouble and he remained in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Johnson Wins In Golf

Mrs Bo Johnson used only 35 putts, low for the field, to win Class A honors ysterday in a medal handicap tournament played by the Oakview Rovers Women's Golf Club of Terra Linda at the Peacock Gap Golf Course, San Rafael.

Low net scores:

Class B — Mmes. C. E. Christison, 109-36—73; Ted Steiger, 117-36—81.

Bert Yancey Declares He's Ready This Time

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Bert Yancey, who blows the big ones, says it's just a matter of growing up and he believes he's mature enough now to win the Open.

"I've changed a lot since last year," the tall, blond ex-West Pointer added today in recalling how he led through the first three rounds of the U.S. Open Golf championship a year ago at Oak Hill in Rochester, N.Y., only to finish third, six strokes back of the winner, Lee Trevino.

GIVEAWAY

"Lee wanted to win more than I did," he added. "I have a strange feeling out on the course in that final round. I didn't think I was worthy to be Open champion. So you might say I gave it away."

The year before, in 1967, Yancey opened with a 67 in the Masters for a three-stroke lead, still led by a shot after the second round and tied after 54. He shot a final round 73 and finished third behind the late-charging Gay Brewer, Jr.

"It was the same thing," Yancey explained while tuning up for the Open starting Thursday over the Champions Club's Cypress Creek Course. "I just couldn't visualize myself being in a class with the greats who had won the event. I talked myself out of it."

IN AWE

The 30-year-old Floridian acknowledged that he had been in awe of such giants as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Bill Casper—but no more.

"I've won five tournaments on the tour now," he said. "This year I've already won around $50,000, my best year yet, and have a tournament title (Atlanta). Palmer and Nicklaus aren't playing as well. So my attitude has changed.

"I have convinced myself that if anyone can win this Open, I can.

"I'm over that feeling of unworthiness. I think a lot of the fellows on the tour are. That's

AVERY OVERRULED

There'll Still Be Olympics Skiing

WARSAW (AP) — New rules created by the International Ski Federation (FIS) that allow skiers to receive expense money and appear in advertisements under certain conditions have been endorsed by the International Olympic Committee.

In a statement issued yesterday after its annual meeting, the IOC said it "welcomed" recent steps taken by the FIS to control eligibility of skiers in the Winter Games.

EXPENSE MONEY

The new FIS rules ban skiers from competing for money but permit them to receive expense money and pay for time lost from work. They also allow skiers to appear in advertisements if they receive permission from their national federations.

The IOC also rebuffed Avery Brundage, its 82-year-old president from Chicago, by shelving his demands that two Winter Games champions return their gold medals.

Brundage had demanded the return of all Alpine skiing medals won in the 1968 games because of alleged commercialism. He specifically mentioned Canada's Nancy Greene Raine and Jean-Claude Killy of France.

In Montreal, Mrs. Raine, former World Cup skiing champion, said she thought the new rule to permit financial aid was good. She said the action to shelve demands for return of the gold medals did not affect her. She said her name was used by Brundage but the IOC never named her officially.

The nine-page IOC report recommended:

—That the Winter Games be continued.

—That the Winter Games be limited to 10 days, plus opening day.

—That opening and closing ceremonies be simplified.

—That no new events be added and that no sports be transferred from the Summer Games.

ADDITIONAL DAY

Munich was given 16 days to stage the 1972 Summer Games, one more than normally allowed. Slalom canoeing was approved as a new event.

Under the new FIS rules, each nation's ski federation will make its own rules, including a decision on the type and make of skis to be used by all its competitors.

IOC members privately voiced their opinion that "Warsaw has not brought to an end yet the skiing question. It looks like we will have to deal with it for a long time."

Gene's Agent Calls 49er Offer 'Insult'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Flanker Gene Washington of Stanford has hired an agent to conduct contract talks with the San Francisco 49ers.

Agent Chuck DeKeado of Los Angeles said yesterday he has turned down an $80,000 package over three years for Washington, second draft choice of the 49ers.

"They want a $50 receiver for a million dollar quarterback (John Brodie," said DeKeado. "This is an insult to Gene."

Jack White, general manager of the 49ers said, "We feel we have made Gene a fair and reasonable offer. We feel negotiations will be consummated to everyone's satisfaction."

If Washington fails to sign a contract with San Francisco, DeKeado said he probably would ink a one-year pact with entertainer Bill Cosby for filming commercials for Cosby's company.

Junior Lacrosse

Danny Millikin Scored two goals and goalie Bill Busig turned in a fine performance to lead the Novato Parks and Recreation Department team to a 5-1 victory over the Church of the Latter Day Saints last night in a junior lacrosse game at Hill Junior High School, Novato.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes It Takes Transfer For Key Ruff In The Dummy

In some hands you have a loser in dummy's short suit and therefore plan to ruff that loser with one of dummy's trumps. In other hands, however, you must transfer dummy's shortage from one suit to another before you can gain anything by ruffing in the dummy.

GAIN NOTHING

You win today's first trick with the ace of hearts, noting that you gain nothing by ruffing your third heart in dummy because all of your hearts are natural winners. But if you abandon the idea of ruffing anything in dummy you will eventually lose three diamonds and one club.

Your best course iy to run the three winning hearts at once in order to discard a diamond from the dummy. Then you can plan to ruff a diamond instead of a heart in the dummy.

FEEL NERVOUS?

You feel nervous about taking the three hearts before drawing trumps, but it is even more dangerous to draw trumps first. If you couldn't ruff a diamond in dummy your contract would depend on winning a trick with the king of diamonds. Your chances would be poor since West almost surely has the ace of diamonds as side strength for his overcall on a topless heart suit.

WRONG SIDE

After you have taken your three hearts you would dearly like to begin the diamonds by leading from the dummy toward your king, but you cannot afford to get to dummy with a trump for this purpose. The opponents would win the first diamond and lead a second trump; and then West would win the second diamond to lead a third trump, thus removing the last trump from the dummy.

After you have won the first three heart tricks, you must lead a low diamond from your own hand. If the opponents return a trump, you give up another diamond. They return a second trump, but now you can lead your last diamond, ruffing in the dummy.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not quite worth an opening bid. If you had a sixth heart instead of one of the low cards in spades or diamonds, you could open the bidding with one heart.

Budget Is Due Another Hearing

The board also will discuss whether continued weekly meetings on the two topics are still needed.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, June 10, the 161st day of 1969 with 204 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars ar Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1898 United Statse Marines began the invasion of Cuba in the Spanish-American War.

In 1942 the German Gestapo burned the tiny Czechoslovakian village of Lidice after shooting 173 men and deporting women and children to concentration camps.

In 1967 the Soviet Union broke diplomatic relations with Israel after Israel announced a major victory over Syria as both Mideast nations accepted a United Nations ceasefire.

A thought for the day: Aesop said: "Self conceit may lead to self-destruction."

A CLOUD OF DUST AND A HEARTY HI-HO PLYMOUTH

HERB MICHELSON

A New Puppet Show In Oakland Coliseum

OAKLAND — The incessant puppet show with A's personnel these past two weeks proves that owner Charles O. Finley (1) is convinced hurry-up patchwork here and there will ultimately bring a 1969 pennant, or (2) is panicked because the club isn't playing much better than .500 ball, or (3) both.

In a two-week period, the Oakland front office dumped three fellows to the minors, cut one completely and sold a fifth to Seattle. To replace them,five lads were promoted from the pastures of Des Moines and Birmingham.

THERE IS GOOD reason to believe that manager Hank Bauer knew nothing about at least two of these personnel shifts—although he'll say nothing about what he knew or didn't know. But Bauer has worked for Finley before and is aware that the owner operated with remote independence. It would be nice, though, at least for handshaking purposes, for the manager to hear about new faces before seeing them.

In all of 1968, save for the arrival of the kids in the final few weeks of the season, the A's made few changes in personnel. Finley stodd pat with his kids, who were judged to be in a learning year.

NOT SO IN '69. The owner is certain he has a pennant contender and is not abiding stand-patness.

Yet, the juggling act seems odd. Ramon Webster was sent down earlier in the year for Jose Tartabull — both to be used, ostensibly, as left-handed pinch hitters. Webster had been performing nicely in that task but was farmed to Iowa anyway. Tartabull contributed little and, over the weekend, was sent to Iowa. Whom should he meet in mid-flight but Webster.

WHILE AT Des Moines, onetime first baseman Webster worked in the outfield with the notion he'd have a better chance of playing with the A's in the outfield than behind durable Danny Cater at first. So much for the mitigating circumstances of that strange shuttling act.

How about the grabbing of a fourth catcher, one Federico Velazquez, whom the A's dumped on the expansion draft only a few months previously? Even Seattle didn't want Velazquez. But Finley may be planning to form an all-catcher bridge team.

HE ALSO YEARNS to rehire Diego Segui, another draft expendable last fall. Segui is a more consistent reliever than anyone in the A's bullpen now but was considered too old by management and grabbed by Seattle.

George Lauzerique was excellent in spring training but farmed out the day before the season opened to make room for ex-Athletic John Wyatt, who's as ancient as Segui but may have represented a Segui substitute in Finley's eyes.

And so who is given an outright release when Lauzerique is finally recalled? John Wyatt of course.

OPEN WITH 67

Last year at Rochester, Yancey opened with a 67, followed with a 68 and, after a 70, had a one-stroke lead going into the last round. Trevino shot his fourth straight sub-70 round—the first time ever in the Open—and won with 69-68-69-69—275. Nicklaus was second with 279 and Yancey, with a 76, followed with 281.

Yancey grew up in Jacksonville, Fla., started playing golf at five, won the national pee wee championship at 13. He entered West Point but suffered a nervous breakdown and later enrolled at Florida State, turning pro in 1961 before finishing college.

The best riding performance in the long history of Pimlico was turned in by Joe Guerra, a 20-year-old Cuban jockey, in 1931. He rode five winners on Preakness Day that year.

Casper Vaults Into Fourth Spot On Golf's Money List

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Casper, winner of the Western Open Golf Championship Sunday, has vaulted into fourth place among money winners on the pro tour, according to figures released today by the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players Division.

Littler sat out the Western Open but still leads with $101,638, followed by Trevino at $83,442 and Player at $79,241.

Stocks Hit Again With Big Decline

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks tumbled again today with the major losses coming in the final half hour after Treasury Secretary David Kennedy warned that the Nixon administration will have to consider price and wage controls if Congress fails to renew the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

The market opened with prices easier in moderate trading and were narrow down to the final half hour. Gold mining shares were strong during the early trading on news of higher gold prices in London and Paris. Drug company shares were up, too, with Merck advancing on the announcement it had obtained the first license to make a new vaccine against German measles.

Among the blue chips, Sohio made a big mid-day gain. The stock rose more than 20 last week as traders figured Sohio shareholders stood to get the best bargain out of the proposed merger with BP Oil.

The gold mining shares, led by American South African, Campbell Red Lake and Homestake remained strong in the late afternoon decline. But most other sections of the list declined substantially. In the specialties and electronics morning fractional losses were extended to 1 to 4 points. Early losses in oils also deepened.

Steels, motors, chemicals, rails, airlines and aircrafts remained narrow pretty much to the final bell, mostly off fractions with a few plus signs.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Family-Run Firms Have Good Records

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have $35,000 in the bank at 5 per cent, am 70 years old and working. I am worried about what inflation is doing to my savings. Should I switch my savings into stocks? — E. N.

A. You are right in worrying about your capital; inflation is eating it up at a 4 per cent annual rate. While I would not advise liquidating all your savings, a modest commitment — amounting to 25 per cent of your capital — in common stocks would be a very wise move. Two lesser-known companies which have commendable growth records, Reece Corp. and Taylor Wine, should continue to move ahead with the economy.

Reece, a Massachusetts-based manufacturer, serves the apparel industry. The company produces buttonhole, pocket-making and other specialized sewing machines which are leased and sold to foreign and domestic clothing makers. In the first quarter of 1969 earnings rose 36 per cent to 44 cents a share on a 24 per cent increase in sales.

Taylor, a New York wine maker, sells under its name as well as the Great Western label. In spite of increased taxes, both federal and state, equal to 29 cents a share, nine months earnings through March rose 10 per cent to $2.32 a share.

Both companies are family-run and in the latter case the Taylor family controls 49 per cent of the stock.

Q. I bought Grove Press at 13 and it went to 35. Should I hold? — N. N.

A. Grove Press has been a speculative favorite ever since the shares went public at $7 in 1967. The company publishes a diversified list of books including textbooks, mass circulation paperbacks and quality paperbacks. Movie distribution rights, a book club and a monthly literature review are other areas of operation. Several flamboyant book and movie titles have proved to be lucrative and created a strong specualtive interest in the shares. First-quarter earnings jumped to 16 cents a share from 4 cents in 1968. Sales were up 40 per cent to $2.3 million. Hold.

Profitable Fishing Trip And Rooms Get Painted

Did you ever go fishing to get your house painted? Well, daughter Marylu said she wanted to paint our kitchen and living room, and for us to go for a trip. So spouse Mary and I took off for the Sierra's.

We decided to first try Webber Lake in Sierra County for old times sake! I guess I've fished Webber for 30 years. Upon arrival, lots of discussion took place with Bob and Aileen Wise who run the resort on the lake. Before the discussion was over, we had bought some "special" Webber Lake salmon eggs and some nite crawlers.

I SAID WE wanted some fish for a dinner because I had talked Norman and Georgia Quadros of Mill Valley into coming up, but mostly I had guaranteed Georgia that she would catch her first trout for sure. She's been fishing Rodeo Lagoon in Southern Marin County for a month, and I felt she deserved something better! Anyway, it would be good to have a string of fish to show them upon their arrival.

As we left Bob's cabin, he said, "Dont worry if you don't catch any. I brought you up a Mackinaw from Tahoe." That shook me — if he had to give us a fish then things might be bad around here.

WELL, MARY and I tried different spots around the lake without even a hit. About 6 p.m. we came in and had dinner, and we were still so sure we'd get some fish for the Quadroses that we fileted the Mackinaw and ate it. It was excellent!

The wind had been blowing during the afternoon, but in the evening it stopped, so I tried fishing in front of the cabin. The first darned hit broke my two-pound test line, but I finally caught about a nine-inch brook. That was it for the evening. Bob trolled around and caught a 14-inch rainbow, so I had two fish as a starter.

The next morning, Mary and I drove over to Davis Lake in Piumas County, about 50 miles from Webber. I guess we got there about 11 a.m. Most of the people there had near-limits by this time. They all said it was best to fish early before the wind came up at noon. The lake is about three miles long and one mile wide, and boats are permitted.

IT IS DEEP off the shoreline and most people use salmon eggs fishing from the banks. There is no charge, and you are pretty much on your own. Mary and I caught six rainbows from 10 to 14 inches. The fish were red meated, and in top shape, and put up a good fight. We fished casually about three hours, and then drove back to Webber.

We now had eight respectable fish, and waited for the Quadroses to arrive. Saturday morning all four of us tried Webber using bait, and finally Georgia caught an eight-inch rainbow. You know what she said? "Okay now. Take me in!" I'm beginning to believe she's the dutiful wife type. Norm, Mary and I finished out the day catching three limits of mixed trout, three browns, five brooks, and the remainder rainbows. The limit on trout at Webber is five. Saturday night we went to Reno, and won a little. We arrived home at Woodacre Sunday with 14 trout, and a painted house interior that looked professionally done. I think we've got it made!

BEFORE LEAVING Webber, I asked Bob Wise how he fished Lake Tahoe. It sounded interesting! For Machinaws, he used a rod with roller guides and tip, and over 1000 feet of monel line trolling on the bottom which is 300 feet deep at the hot spots. The baits used are six to eight-inch rough fish from the lake, usually chubs or suckers. Mackinaws run from two to 30 pounds.

The rainbows are taken at the dropoffs at the edge of the green water where the blue begins to show. Troll with 200 yards of line out, usually monofiliment, no sinker, and a flatfish, rebel, etc. as the lure. The rainbows are all about 18 inches long, and really put up a fight. The reason for the 200 yards of line is that the clearness of the water causes the fish to spook from the boat.

Lolich Fans 16, Tigers Lose Game

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mickey Lolich passed out cigars to his Detroit teammates to celebrate the birth of his second daughter, then gave the Seattle Pilots practically nothing. But the Pilots still got the last laugh.

Joyce Lolich presented the Tiger left-hander with daughter No. 2 yesterday morning. Lolich gave Seattle 16 strikeouts last night, but the Pilots spoiled things by handing Detroit a 3-2 loss in 10 innings.

Lolich did give Seattle something, and it was costly—a leadoff homer to Dick Simpson. He then struck out 16 through seven innings and yielded just three more hits, through nine, but the Tigers could get only one run off Seattle's Marty Pattin—and that came on Lolich's RBI single in the fifth.

OFF DOBSON

Seattle won it off Pat Dobson, who came on after Lolich was lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth.

In other action, Boston topped Minnesota 5-3, Kansas City trounced the New York Yankees 7-1 and Cleveland took the Chicago White Sox 5-1 in the American League while Cincinnati downed the Chicago Cubs 4-1 in the only National League contest.

It was the second 16-strikeout performance, high in the majors this year and Detroit record, for Lolich, who was making his first start since being hit on his left, or pitching, forearm by a line drive in a game against Oakland May 27. He struck out 16 in a 6-3 victory over California May 23.

TIES RECORD

Pattin, 6-4, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the Seattle 10th, struck out nine and the total of 25 for nine innings tied the record for an American League night game.

Boston built up a 5-1 lead, mainly on the strength of a two-run homer by Carl Yastrzemski, his 14th, and a solo shot by Rico Petrocelli, his 20th.

Joe Pepitone's 17th homer in the second inning gave the Yankees an early lead, but Kansas City, which had lost four straight and 10-of-11, wrapped up the victory with five runs in the fifth.

KEY HIT

The big inning was keyed by ex-Yank Ellie Rodriquez' three-run homer.

Cincinnati snapped the Cubs' seven-game winning streak as Bob Tolan doubled twice and scored twice. One of his doubles was a drag bunt which got between first baseman Ernie Banks and second baseman Nate Oliver.

Joe Yancey To Coach U.S. Spikers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joe Yancey, cofounder of the New York Pioneer Club, was named yesterday as head coach of the U.S. track and field team that will meet Russia and the British Commonwealth.

That international competition will be held at the Los angeles Memorial Coliseum July 18-19.

28 YEARS

Selection of Yancey, a Negro, was announced at a meeting of the Southern California Track Writers Association by Hilmer Lodge, chairman of the track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Yancey, 56, organized the Pioneer Club 28 years ago and has been its coach ever since. He has also coached many national teams including those of Jamaica, Trinidad, Ceylon and the Bahamas.

PROTEGES

Two of his recent proteges are sprinter John Carlos and world long jump record-holder Bob Beamon. Both went to New York city schools and trained with the Pioneer club.

In 1952, Yancey coached the Jamaican 1,600-meter relay team of Arthur Wint, Les Laing, Herb McKenley and George Rhoden that set an Olympic record of 3 minutes 3.9 seconds.

Yancey has worked for the U.S. Internal Revenue Service for 28 years.

BOWLING TIPS

When the thumb comes out of the ball first and the fingers "lift" the ball slightly, count on plenty of ball spin. If the fingers are to be in a proper position to deliver this spin, they must stay behind the ball throughout the backswing and downswing.

Cooper Captures Boxing Title

Cooper floored McCoy with a left hook to the chin in the 12th round for the only knockdown of the fight. McCoy arose at the count of eight.

Referee Tony Bosnich scored it 10-2 while Judge Elmer Costa voted 8-3 and Judge Johnny Lotsey 9-2.

Cooper's record is now 14-1-1 while McCoy is 11-3.

BRITISH AMATEUR

16-Year-Old Phenom Could Provide Upset

HOYLAKE, England (AP) — Dale Hayes, 16-year-old South African whom Gary Player rates one of the finest up and coming amateurs in the business, went into the second round of the British Amateur Golf Championship today and said:

"I hope I do well because Gary has arranged for me to play in an American junior tournament at San Diego in August."

The 6-foot-3, 201-pound South African from Pretoria defeated Ralph Schlicht of Madison, Wis., 5 and 4, yesterday.

Many experts at these links on the edge of the Irish Sea think that Hayes, who hits the ball a mile, could provide the big upset of the week in this championship first played over this 6,950-yard, par 36-36—72 layout in 1885.

Twenty-five Americans are still chasing the title, including former American Walker Cuppers Bill Hyndman III of Philadelphia, Bob Gardnerof Beverly Hills and Dale Morey of High Point, N.C.

Morey, 50, won his opening match yesterday with a 9 and 8 victory over Bill Castleman of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., and Gardner, 48, defeated Ivor Thomas, England, 4 and 2.

Hyndman, Gardner and Morey—plus other Americans in the field—hope to do well here in the hope of grabbing a spot on the U.S. Walker Cup team.

Senior Citizens Win Help At Budget Talks

Marin Senior Coordinating Council won a $15,579 county appropriation yesterday by unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, as County Administrator Alan Bruce, who had been hewing the hard line, threw in the towel.

An imposing array of speakers pleaded for the $15,000 county aid to support a $40,000 volunteer program for senior citizens in Marin County. Speakers Ernest N. Kettenhofen, president of the Senior Coordinating Council; vice president Vera L. Schultz; executive director Edwin T. Ryken, and secretary Lucille Hodgen were backed by a delegation of elderly citizens, who argued that the program would die without the funds for coordination and leadership.

Veteran Supervisor William A. Gnoss warned that "it will be the greatest mistake" if the request were denied.

Administrator Bruce, who had recommended that the amount be cut to $1,400, the same as this year, ducked his head slightly and announced: "I yield on this one."

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, said "I am happy that Mr. Bruce has decided to give up."

Looking down at Bruce and his staff, Chairman John F. McInnis chuckled: "That heart of stone sitting out there has melted."

The appropriation brought resounding applause from the audience, and the supervisors looked pleased, even though at that point the indicated tax rate rose to a new high of $2.504.

The other requests yesterday did not fare as well, and by nightfall, the anticipated tax rate for next year had dropped one mill, to $2.503.

Fair-Marin Incorporated, which will operate the Veterans Memorial Auditorium and 80-acre fairground, took a trimming.

Fair-Marin president Harold Stockstad and directors asked for a 1969-70 budget of $98,280, which the administrator had cut to $88,780.

Supervisors cut the $7,500 vehicle and equipment maintenance replacement fund and other items. They agreed with Bruce that $4,500 for dedication of the auditorium should be dropped. Total appropriation for Fair-Marin came to $75,250.

A coordinator for youth activities, sought by both the Youth Commission Formation Committee and the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission, brought supervisors agreement. They asked the county administrator to come back with specific recommendations tomorrow or Thursday.

Other Budget Actions By The Supervisors:

PARKS AND RECREATION — Granted two new employees of four requested and approved a total budget of $711,166, as compared with $553,144 this year. Of the total, $232,871 is a carryover from capital outlay funds unspent this year. A $25,000 outlay for a bicycle trail from the Golden Gate Bridge into Sausalito was left in the budget.

GENERAL INSURANCE — Net cost for next year will be $119,017, compared with this year's $64,517. Most of the increase is for the new Hall of Justice, and $3,100 is to insure huge glass windows above the entrance to the Hall of Justice. The administrator said one big glass would cost $900 to $1,000 to replace.

PURCHASING DEPARTMENT — $35,976, compared with this year's $32,603.

CENTRAL MAIL — $100,433, compared with this year's $92,046. The new budget includes a $7,500 increase because of the expected raise in first class mail postage from 6 cents to 7 cents next year.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT — $67,500, compared with $67,838 this year, with the bulk going to the County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and for regional, cultural and special events.

MISCELLANEOUS — $95,500, compared with $53,218 this year. Most of the increase is in overtime costs, and $19,300 to assume financial commitments of the Bolinas Harbor District, which is in the process of dissolution. Supervisors rejected a $42,706 request by the Sausalito School District, which sought the subsidy because the district serves a low-rent government housing project in Marin City.

Annual Reports

The Marin County Comprehensive Health Planning Council, Inc. will receive reports from its nominating, finance, by-laws and planning committees at its 8 p.m. meeting Thursday in the Coral Room of Marin General Hospital.

Home Looted Of Stereo, Jewels

Three burglaries were reported during the weekend, San Rafael police said yesterday.

Shirley Ann Avner of 9 Esmeyer Street, San Rafael, told police someone took a stereo, jewelry, and a clock radio, valued at $630, from her home at approximately 3:30 p... Saturday.

A clock, pictures and two stereo speakers, valued at $144, were taken from the apartment of William G. Banghart, 45 Woodland Avenue, sometime during the night Saturday, police said.

Burglars took a portable television, a portable radio, food and several blue chip stamp books, valued at $170, from the home of Virginia W. Schuyten, 204 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael, between 8 p.m. Saturday and 12:45 p.m. yesterday, police said.

Reactionary Teens Studied

NEW YORK (UPI)—A survey in the current issue of Fortune magazine reveals that young adults who are critical of society are most likely to be the children of permissive, college-educated, upper-income parents.

However the survey conducted by pollster Daniel Yankelovich shows that only 1 per cent of young Americans are revolutionaries and only 10 per cent could be classified as radical dissidents.

Reporting that almost 90 per cent of America's youth believe that reform should be sought through legitimate channels before they are sought through disruptions, the survey rated 23 per cent as reformers; 48 per cent as moderates, and 19 per cent as conservatives.

Leg Is Broken In Auto Accident

A Petaluma youth was injured jured Saturday at 3:30 p.m. when the car in which she was riding overturned on Highway 1, south of Bodega.

Karen Hughes, 21, of 205 Sunnyslope Avenue, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a broken right leg. The California Highway Patrol said the car, driven by her husband, Leonard Hughes, 22, overturned when the trailer it was pulling began to whip.

Planning Criticized But Budget Unscathed

Marin County Planning Department's $419,200 budget for next year, up from this year's $410,097, survived unscathed a withering blast from two supervisors yesterday.

On a motion by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and a second by Supervisor Michael Wornum, the planning department budget won unanimous approval, with the understanding that Planning Director Paul C. Zucker would define his planning programs more specifically and set up a completion timetable for the programs.

The supervisors also approved another $58,331, up from this year's $39,921, for the balanced transportation program administered by the planning department.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who tried to fire Zucker earlier this year, levelled the strongest criticism against the planning department budget.

"I feel that the budget is too high and there's too much personnel," said Baar. He charged that the departent has spent a half million dollars on advance planning during the past three years. "For a half million dollars, what has been accomplished?" he asked.

Zucker listed the various general plans such as the West Marin Plan, San Geronimo Plan, Fairfax Plan, Novato and North Novato Plan, and other studies like Route 17 and transportation.

Barr said the planning department's plans are too vague, and the results cannot be pinned down.

Zucker in turn charged that Baar's mention of the half million dollars for advance planning is vague, and if the amount were broken down into components, he would be able to justify each component. Zucker said most of the planning programs were undertaken at the request of the supervisors, planning commission and the City-County Planning Council.

Chairman John F. McInnis acknowledged that planning is important, but he wanted the planning department to show, with specific definition of programs the time schedules, why it is worth $400,000.

County Administrator Alan Bruce suggested that the planning department could come back with a report on specific projects and timetables, and the supervisors could then set up priorities.

Baar said he would go for the budget under conditions outlined by Bruce.

Human Rights Commission Gets Police Work Grant

The Marin County Human Rights Commission has recieved a $57,000 grant from the San Francisco Foundation to launch a police-community relations program, Austin J. Thompson, executive director of the commission, announced yesterday.

The grant, which is contingent upon approval of a $173,691 grant to the commission under the federal Safe Streets and Crime Control Act of 1968, is for one year and represents the county's "in-kind" contribution to the first year of the program.

The regional criminal justice advisory board of the Association of Bay Area Governments is due to take up the Marin commission's grant application at a special meeting in Berkeley on June 26.

Thompson, in announcing the grant, said the proposed three-stage community relations program would "make police-community relations in Marin County an example for the rest of the nation."

The program would provide in-service training for police, recruitment and training of police cadets for ancillary duties and community education programs.

Pleads Innocent

Daniel Alan Wynns, 18, of Novato pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of possessing marijuana and having an open can of beer in his car when arrested March 18 on Highway 101. A jury trial was set for the week of Sept. 22 in Marin Superior Court.

In 1898 United Statse Marines began the invasion of Cuba in the Spanish-American War.

In 1942 the German Gestapo burned the tiny Czechoslovakian village of Lidice after shooting 173 men and deporting women and children to concentration camps.

In 1967 the Soviet Union broke diplomatic relations with Israel after Israel announced a major victory over Syria as both Mideast nations accepted a United Nations ceasefire.

A thought for the day: Aesop said: "Self conceit may lead to self-destruction."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes It Takes Transfer For Key Ruff In The Dummy

In some hands you have a loser in dummy's short suit and therefore plan to ruff that loser with one of dummy's trumps. In other hands, however, you must transfer dummy's shortage from one suit to another before you can gain anything by ruffing in the dummy.

GAIN NOTHING

You win today's first trick with the ace of hearts, noting that you gain nothing by ruffing your third heart in dummy because all of your hearts are natural winners. But if you abandon the idea of ruffing anything in dummy you will eventually lose three diamonds and one club.

Your best course iy to run the three winning hearts at once in order to discard a diamond from the dummy. Then you can plan to ruff a diamond instead of a heart in the dummy.

FEEL NERVOUS?

You feel nervous about taking the three hearts before drawing trumps, but it is even more dangerous to draw trumps first. If you couldn't ruff a diamond in dummy your contract would depend on winning a trick with the king of diamonds. Your chances would be poor since West almost surely has the ace of diamonds as side strength for his overcall on a topless heart suit.

WRONG SIDE

After you have taken your three hearts you would dearly like to begin the diamonds by leading from the dummy toward your king, but you cannot afford to get to dummy with a trump for this purpose. The opponents would win the first diamond and lead a second trump; and then West would win the second diamond to lead a third trump, thus removing the last trump from the dummy.

After you have won the first three heart tricks, you must lead a low diamond from your own hand. If the opponents return a trump, you give up another diamond. They return a second trump, but now you can lead your last diamond, ruffing in the dummy.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not quite worth an opening bid. If you had a sixth heart instead of one of the low cards in spades or diamonds, you could open the bidding with one heart.

Stocks Hit Again With Big Decline

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks tumbled again today with the major losses coming in the final half hour after Treasury Secretary David Kennedy warned that the Nixon administration will have to consider price and wage controls if Congress fails to renew the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

The market opened with prices easier in moderate trading and were narrow down to the final half hour. Gold mining shares were strong during the early trading on news of higher gold prices in London and Paris. Drug company shares were up, too, with Merck advancing on the announcement it had obtained the first license to make a new vaccine against German measles.

Among the blue chips, Sohio made a big mid-day gain. The stock rose more than 20 last week as traders figured Sohio shareholders stood to get the best bargain out of the proposed merger with BP Oil.

The gold mining shares, led by American South African, Campbell Red Lake and Homestake remained strong in the late afternoon decline. But most other sections of the list declined substantially. In the specialties and electronics morning fractional losses were extended to 1 to 4 points. Early losses in oils also deepened.

Steels, motors, chemicals, rails, airlines and aircrafts remained narrow pretty much to the final bell, mostly off fractions with a few plus signs.

SILVER SPRING, Md. (UPI) — Computer Applications, Inc., has obtained two contracts totaling $5 million from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) for three years of programming services.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Family-Run Firms Have Good Records

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have $35,000 in the bank at 5 per cent, am 70 years old and working. I am worried about what inflation is doing to my savings. Should I switch my savings into stocks? — E. N.

A. You are right in worrying about your capital; inflation is eating it up at a 4 per cent annual rate. While I would not advise liquidating all your savings, a modest commitment — amounting to 25 per cent of your capital — in common stocks would be a very wise move. Two lesser-known companies which have commendable growth records, Reece Corp. and Taylor Wine, should continue to move ahead with the economy.

Reece, a Massachusetts-based manufacturer, serves the apparel industry. The company produces buttonhole, pocket-making and other specialized sewing machines which are leased and sold to foreign and domestic clothing makers. In the first quarter of 1969 earnings rose 36 per cent to 44 cents a share on a 24 per cent increase in sales.

Taylor, a New York wine maker, sells under its name as well as the Great Western label. In spite of increased taxes, both federal and state, equal to 29 cents a share, nine months earnings through March rose 10 per cent to $2.32 a share.

Both companies are family-run and in the latter case the Taylor family controls 49 per cent of the stock.

Q. I bought Grove Press at 13 and it went to 35. Should I hold? — N. N.

A. Grove Press has been a speculative favorite ever since the shares went public at $7 in 1967. The company publishes a diversified list of books including textbooks, mass circulation paperbacks and quality paperbacks. Movie distribution rights, a book club and a monthly literature review are other areas of operation. Several flamboyant book and movie titles have proved to be lucrative and created a strong specualtive interest in the shares. First-quarter earnings jumped to 16 cents a share from 4 cents in 1968. Sales were up 40 per cent to $2.3 million. Hold.

Senior Citizens Win Help At Budget Talks

Marin Senior Coordinating Council won a $15,579 county appropriation yesterday by unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, as County Administrator Alan Bruce, who had been hewing the hard line, threw in the towel.

An imposing array of speakers pleaded for the $15,000 county aid to support a $40,000 volunteer program for senior citizens in Marin County. Speakers Ernest N. Kettenhofen, president of the Senior Coordinating Council; vice president Vera L. Schultz; executive director Edwin T. Ryken, and secretary Lucille Hodgen were backed by a delegation of elderly citizens, who argued that the program would die without the funds for coordination and leadership.

Veteran Supervisor William A. Gnoss warned that "it will be the greatest mistake" if the request were denied.

Administrator Bruce, who had recommended that the amount be cut to $1,400, the same as this year, ducked his head slightly and announced: "I yield on this one."

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, said "I am happy that Mr. Bruce has decided to give up."

Looking down at Bruce and his staff, Chairman John F. McInnis chuckled: "That heart of stone sitting out there has melted."

The appropriation brought resounding applause from the audience, and the supervisors looked pleased, even though at that point the indicated tax rate rose to a new high of $2.504.

The other requests yesterday did not fare as well, and by nightfall, the anticipated tax rate for next year had dropped one mill, to $2.503.

Fair-Marin Incorporated, which will operate the Veterans Memorial Auditorium and 80-acre fairground, took a trimming.

Fair-Marin president Harold Stockstad and directors asked for a 1969-70 budget of $98,280, which the administrator had cut to $88,780.

Supervisors cut the $7,500 vehicle and equipment maintenance replacement fund and other items. They agreed with Bruce that $4,500 for dedication of the auditorium should be dropped. Total appropriation for Fair-Marin came to $75,250.

A coordinator for youth activities, sought by both the Youth Commission Formation Committee and the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission, brought supervisors agreement. They asked the county administrator to come back with specific recommendations tomorrow or Thursday.

Other Budget Actions By The Supervisors:

PARKS AND RECREATION — Granted two new employees of four requested and approved a total budget of $711,166, as compared with $553,144 this year. Of the total, $232,871 is a carryover from capital outlay funds unspent this year. A $25,000 outlay for a bicycle trail from the Golden Gate Bridge into Sausalito was left in the budget.

GENERAL INSURANCE — Net cost for next year will be $119,017, compared with this year's $64,517. Most of the increase is for the new Hall of Justice, and $3,100 is to insure huge glass windows above the entrance to the Hall of Justice. The administrator said one big glass would cost $900 to $1,000 to replace.

PURCHASING DEPARTMENT — $35,976, compared with this year's $32,603.

CENTRAL MAIL — $100,433, compared with this year's $92,046. The new budget includes a $7,500 increase because of the expected raise in first class mail postage from 6 cents to 7 cents next year.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT — $67,500, compared with $67,838 this year, with the bulk going to the County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and for regional, cultural and special events.

MISCELLANEOUS — $95,500, compared with $53,218 this year. Most of the increase is in overtime costs, and $19,300 to assume financial commitments of the Bolinas Harbor District, which is in the process of dissolution. Supervisors rejected a $42,706 request by the Sausalito School District, which sought the subsidy because the district serves a low-rent government housing project in Marin City.

Annual Reports

The Marin County Comprehensive Health Planning Council, Inc. will receive reports from its nominating, finance, by-laws and planning committees at its 8 p.m. meeting Thursday in the Coral Room of Marin General Hospital.

Home Looted Of Stereo, Jewels

Three burglaries were reported during the weekend, San Rafael police said yesterday.

Shirley Ann Avner of 9 Esmeyer Street, San Rafael, told police someone took a stereo, jewelry, and a clock radio, valued at $630, from her home at approximately 3:30 p... Saturday.

A clock, pictures and two stereo speakers, valued at $144, were taken from the apartment of William G. Banghart, 45 Woodland Avenue, sometime during the night Saturday, police said.

Burglars took a portable television, a portable radio, food and several blue chip stamp books, valued at $170, from the home of Virginia W. Schuyten, 204 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael, between 8 p.m. Saturday and 12:45 p.m. yesterday, police said.

Reactionary Teens Studied

NEW YORK (UPI)—A survey in the current issue of Fortune magazine reveals that young adults who are critical of society are most likely to be the children of permissive, college-educated, upper-income parents.

However the survey conducted by pollster Daniel Yankelovich shows that only 1 per cent of young Americans are revolutionaries and only 10 per cent could be classified as radical dissidents.

Reporting that almost 90 per cent of America's youth believe that reform should be sought through legitimate channels before they are sought through disruptions, the survey rated 23 per cent as reformers; 48 per cent as moderates, and 19 per cent as conservatives.

Leg Is Broken In Auto Accident

A Petaluma youth was injured jured Saturday at 3:30 p.m. when the car in which she was riding overturned on Highway 1, south of Bodega.

Karen Hughes, 21, of 205 Sunnyslope Avenue, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a broken right leg. The California Highway Patrol said the car, driven by her husband, Leonard Hughes, 22, overturned when the trailer it was pulling began to whip.

Planning Criticized But Budget Unscathed

Marin County Planning Department's $419,200 budget for next year, up from this year's $410,097, survived unscathed a withering blast from two supervisors yesterday.

On a motion by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and a second by Supervisor Michael Wornum, the planning department budget won unanimous approval, with the understanding that Planning Director Paul C. Zucker would define his planning programs more specifically and set up a completion timetable for the programs.

The supervisors also approved another $58,331, up from this year's $39,921, for the balanced transportation program administered by the planning department.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who tried to fire Zucker earlier this year, levelled the strongest criticism against the planning department budget.

"I feel that the budget is too high and there's too much personnel," said Baar. He charged that the departent has spent a half million dollars on advance planning during the past three years. "For a half million dollars, what has been accomplished?" he asked.

Zucker listed the various general plans such as the West Marin Plan, San Geronimo Plan, Fairfax Plan, Novato and North Novato Plan, and other studies like Route 17 and transportation.

Barr said the planning department's plans are too vague, and the results cannot be pinned down.

Zucker in turn charged that Baar's mention of the half million dollars for advance planning is vague, and if the amount were broken down into components, he would be able to justify each component. Zucker said most of the planning programs were undertaken at the request of the supervisors, planning commission and the City-County Planning Council.

Chairman John F. McInnis acknowledged that planning is important, but he wanted the planning department to show, with specific definition of programs the time schedules, why it is worth $400,000.

County Administrator Alan Bruce suggested that the planning department could come back with a report on specific projects and timetables, and the supervisors could then set up priorities.

Baar said he would go for the budget under conditions outlined by Bruce.

Human Rights Commission Gets Police Work Grant

The Marin County Human Rights Commission has recieved a $57,000 grant from the San Francisco Foundation to launch a police-community relations program, Austin J. Thompson, executive director of the commission, announced yesterday.

The grant, which is contingent upon approval of a $173,691 grant to the commission under the federal Safe Streets and Crime Control Act of 1968, is for one year and represents the county's "in-kind" contribution to the first year of the program.

The regional criminal justice advisory board of the Association of Bay Area Governments is due to take up the Marin commission's grant application at a special meeting in Berkeley on June 26.

Thompson, in announcing the grant, said the proposed three-stage community relations program would "make police-community relations in Marin County an example for the rest of the nation."

The program would provide in-service training for police, recruitment and training of police cadets for ancillary duties and community education programs.

Pleads Innocent

Daniel Alan Wynns, 18, of Novato pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of possessing marijuana and having an open can of beer in his car when arrested March 18 on Highway 101. A jury trial was set for the week of Sept. 22 in Marin Superior Court.

Conservers Set Visit To Duxbury Reef

A field trip to examine the potential of Duxbury Reef as a marine reserve will begin at 6 a.m. Saturday on the reef, led by Gordon C. Cahn and Alfonzo Molina and the Bolinas-Stinson unit of the Marin Conservation League.

Following the field trip, there will be reports on logging and Bolinas Lagoon legislation.

Session Reset

The regular meeting of the West Marin School board, set for 8 p.m. yesterday, was postponed until 8 p.m. next Monday because of a lack of a quorum.

NARROW ROAD—This curve, tight and blind, on San Pedro Road near Oak Drive is typical of conditions that have home owners along the road up in arms. Fearing they may have to live with the narrow road another five to 10 years if the Marin County Board of Supervisors cut funds for the widening project under way, the home owners plan to appear in force at tomorrow's budget session in Civic Center. (Independent-Journal photo)

EAST SAN RARAEL BOTTLENECK

Homeowners Battle For San Pedro Funds

Residents of East San Rafael organized last night to fight a proposed county budget cut which would delay the next phase of widening of San Pedro Road.

Some 400 were on hand at Peacock Gap Country Club for a joint meeting of Bayside Acres, Loch Lomond, Glenwood and Peacock Gap homeowner organizations, according to John Shiner, who presided.

Petitions in opposition to the fund cut were passed out at the meeting and were being circulated today. Residents plan a mass appearance at the county supervisors' budget hearing at 9 a.m. tomorrow, when public works projects will come under scrutiny.

County Administrator Alan Bruce has proposed that $200,000 be cut from the proposed $500,000 joint city-county appropriation for acquiring property for widening San Pedro Road from Lochinvar Road to Main Drive, next-to-last phase of the five-year widening project.

This would result in further delay of at least a year in the project, already one year behind schedule. Homeowners fear the delay might prove to be as much as five to 10 years, declared Shiner, who is president of the Peacock Gap Homeowners Association.

Norris M. Rawles, San Rafael public works director, assured last night's meeting that the City of San Rafael is ready to put up its half of the $500,000 proposed for property acquisition. The city and county agreed in 1965 to each contribute half of the road widening project, to be completed in five stages. San Pedro Road winds in and out of city limits.

Speakers at the meeting, Sheldon Bowers, Glenwood Homeowners Association president; Eugene Wallace, manager of Peacock Gap Country Club, and Bernard Heare, Bayside Acres Homeowners Association president, stressed and safety hazard at the end of third-phase widening, now being completed. The widening ends just west of where it is intersected by Bayview Drive, with trees and shrubbery partially hiding the intersection and the sudden bottleneck. San Pedro Road makes a sharp curve just east of Bayview Drive.

Rawles told the meeting that 7,000 vehicles per day travel San Pedro Road.

Police Foes Silenced In Fairfax

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

Fairfax Mayor Francis J. O'Connell, stubbornly insisting that nobody was going to talk about it, last night presided over a generally raucous, frequently formless, and ultimately pointless debate over police brutality in Fairfax. (Another Fairfax council story, page 19.)

At the same time, O'Connell and the council, with few in the audience of 270 realizing what happened, neatly buried its once-explosive proposal for a so-called antihippie law.

The police brutality debate, which lasted 41 minutes, centered on an incident outside a Memorial Day teen-age dance at the Fairfax Pavilion during which a black youth claimed to have been beaten by Orr and other police. The matter is being investigated by the U.S. Attorney's office in San Francisco.

Last night's debate, which at one point seemed on the verge of violence, started when one youth, representing "the people," demanded the council discuss the "police attack on a black brother (David E. Pratt, 17)."

O'Connell interrupted to say the matter was under investigation and would not be discussed by the council. "We're not going to have a kangaroo court here, let's make that clear," the mayor said to hoots from Pratt's supporters and return jeers from propolice elements.

The exchange sparked the first of several yelling matches during which a burly, crewcut Fairfax resident shouted for the microphone to be taken away from an antipolice speaker.

O'Connell then cutoff a female "taxpayer" who said Fairfax "taxpayers and residents are very happy" with the police department. The matter before the council, the mayor said, was not the Pavilion incident but whether to accept a Parks and Recreation Commission recommendation to continue teen-age dances at the Pavilion.

The council later unanimously backed the recommendation after O'Connell had turned off the microphones. He announced the vote to the audience, which was unable to hear any of the vote, nine minutes later.

At one point during the angry debate, two women faced off and yelled epithets at each other while O'Connell pounded for order. One of the women, Betty Huddleston of San Anselmo, a leader of a move to set up a group to watchdog police in Marin, previously had ignored

Strike Fails To Halt Bus Operations

Mechanics Reject Pact; Commute Runs Continue

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — About 350 mechanics struck Greyhound's bus repair depot today, but commuter service was reported unaffected.

The strike, which was called at 12:01 a.m., came after members of Local 1305 of the International Association of Machinists "overwhelmingly rejected" a tentative contract agreement, according to Fred Martin, business agent for the local.

The mechanics had hoped that drivers would join the walkout and help spread it throughout the West. But Kenneth B. Satrom, director of agency relations for Greyhound, said operations were normal.

"We have experienced no difficulties so far and will operate normally as long as maintenance will permit," he said.

Satron said long distance service was uninterrupted because buses in 11 western states involved were refueled at cities not affected by the strike, including Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle and Redding.

Supervisory personnel were refueling buses that carry some 23,000 Bay Area commuters — including some 4,000 from Marin — that commute on Greyhound.

Machinists picketed the Greyhound depot on Seventh Street here, but the terminal in San Rafael was quiet. A spokesman reported no pickets in Marin and all buses on time.

"We expect every laboring man to respect a bona fide picket line," Martin said late last night after the machinists had rejected company offers for a two and three-year contract.

Tentative agreement had been reached by negotiators Friday night. Details of the proposed contract were not disclosed.

Mechanics, now $5.09 an hour, had demanded a new three-year contract that would raise pay $1.50 an hour and improve benefits.

Key Demo Threatens Tax Reform Proposal

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Chances for agreement on tax reform worsened today when a top Assembly Democratic leader raised major objections to a $1 billion compromise tax revision plan.

George Zenovich of Fresno, chairman of the Assembly Democratic caucus said, "I don't know whether I can live with" three key sections of the program — an income tax hike, a sales tax boost and a local levy on utility services, such as gas and the telephone.

The House is 40-39 Republican and a two-thirds majority of 54 is needed for passage of a comprehensive tax bill.

It would raise the income and sales taxes and other levies by about $1 billion, to provide funds for $1 billion in property tax cuts.

The plan would also impose withholding of personal income taxes — a feature that makes it the No. 1 rival of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax relief package.

Reagan's proposal, which also boosts some taxes to finance property tax cuts, calls for a voluntary system of withholding for most workers. It is before the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, headed by Bagley.

Zenovich said he would be reluctant to support a one-half cent sales tax hike advocated by the Bagley committee unless the $108 million in revenue is specifically set aside for additional aid to local school districts.

"I don't know whether I can live with an income tax increase at this point," Zenovich said. He predicted, however, eventual agreement on a plan, "maybe by the end of the month."

The Bagley committee's bill proposes a 10 per cent across-the-board increase in income taxes. If your tax is 1 per

San Rafael Voting Brisk

Voting ranged from slow to brisk today as the San Rafael Elementary School District sought approval of a $2.1 million bond issue to finance a new middle school and improvements at other schools.

The measure is virtually the same one closely rejected by voters in February.

Polls were to remain open until 8 p.m for 16,619 eligible voters in the district.

Voting was reported brisk at Oliver Hartzell School, where 85 had cast ballots out of about 400 registered by 11:30 a.m., at Glenwood school, 300 voters had cast ballots out of about 1,400 registered.

Voting Heavy In Petaluma

Voting in today's Petaluma municipal election was reported as heavy with most polling places swamped by mid-morning.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen said she expects a large majority of the 9,218 registered voters to cast ballots. Polls will be open until 8 p.m.

Voters are selecting a mayor, three city councilmen and three board of education members and deciding on five bond issues and two charter amendments.

Voting was reportedly a little slower outside the city where voters are choosing only board of education members.

Bay Fill Bill Tougher After Committee Nod

The Senate Local Government Committee approved 8-2 last night as amended version of the Assembly-approved bill extending jurisdiction of the Bay Area Conservation and Development Commission (BCDC) to salt ponds and managed wetlands.

The measure by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, and Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, now goes to the Senate Finance Committee where it faces a sterner test.

The bill now continues BCDC's jurisdiction over bay fill projects, extends its authority to a strip of shoreline 100 to 1,000 feet wide around the bay and includes all the salt ponds, marshes and wetlands along the bay.

The committee rejected two attempts to cut back BCDC authority to just waters of the bay and to a strip of shoreline 100 feet wide.

Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, lost in his effort to limit BCDC to its present authority over waters of the scenic bay. And a proposal by the League of California Cities to limit shoreline control to a strip 100 feet wide was defeated.

About 60,000 acres of salt ponds and marshlands along the southern and northern reaches of the bay were placed under BCDC control over objections of the Leslie Salt Co.

Its counsel, Harry Jackson, condemned the amendment as a declaration by conservationists "we must preserve this bay and private property rights be damned." Leslie owns about 46,000 acres at the southern end of the bay.

Jackson disputed testimony by Dr. H. Thomas Harvey, professor of biology and ecology at San Jose State College that filling of salt ponds would increase the temperatures in the Bay Area and result in an increases in smog.

"I have seen no evidence," Jackson said. "Salt ponds have

NEW ROSS IDEA

Opinions Vary On Creek Plan

The Ross Citizens Committee's proposal for an underground channel for Corte Madera Creek flood control instead of a concrete ditch was supported and opposed last night.

The plan, which rests on residents granting rights-of-way, which were estimated to be worth $1,000,000, was presented at a meeting of about 175 persons at Ross School auditorium. One speaker, however, said the Army Corps of Engineers estimated an underground channel at $1.25 million more than an open ditch.

Critics viewed it as economically unfeasible and called it a last-minute movement that would delay start of flood control construction.

The committee will present its plan to the corps tomorrow at the office of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, in San Francisco.

Robert L. Shearn of 153 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, representing Residents for Flood Control, said he had signatures of 130 persons for proceeding with the corps' plan and would be "in Mailliard's office" with 150 signatures.

Under fire by the committee is the corps plan for an open concrete ditch, 33 feet wide, 13 feet deep and topped by a six-foot fence, which they feel will destroy the beauty of the creek.

Their proposal is for an underground channel beneath the abandoned Northwestern Pacific Railroaf Co. right-of-way, west of the creek. It would extend the length of Phase III of the project, from College Avenue in Kentfield, through Ross to near the San Anselmo line.

The creek would continue to carry its normal flow of water, and there would be an intake at

Pope Visits Citadel Of Protestantism

GENEVA (AP) — Pope Paul VI, on a flying visit to this traditional citadel of Protestantism, made an historic appearance today before the World Council of Churches but raised no immediate hope of linking the Roman Catholic Church to its membership.

"In fraternal frankness," he said, "we do not consider that the question of membership of the Catholic Church in the world council is so mature that a positive answer could or should be given . . . But this does not prevent us from assuring you of our great respect and deep affection. . ."

In a preliminary to his pronouncement to the most influential of the Protestant church groupings, he expressed concern for the working man in a speech to the International Labor Organization.

The widely-traveled pontiff found a calm and somewhat restrained welcome on his arrival in this diplomatic capital, which has grown accustomed to appearances of world figures. Security measures were tight.

The Pope's 12-hour visit had been threatened with demonstrations from anti-Catholic extremists. But Swiss police intercepted and sent back to Britain one of their leaders, Rev. Ian Paisley, militant anti-Catholic from Northern Ireland. He got no farther than the airport.

In his eagerly awaited pro-

Stiff Battles After Lull In Viet War

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 400 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in heavy ground fighting yesterday after a brief lull in the Vietnam War, military spokesmen reported today.

The 5th Marine Regiment reported killing 186 North Vietnamese soldiers in a two-day battle 22 miles southwest of Da Nang, and the U.S. Command said 137 enemy troops were killed in four other clashes involving American forces. South Vietnamese headquarters claimed 70 enemy killed in two fights in Tay Ninh Province.

American losses were 18 killed and 95 wounded. Six Saigon government troops were reported killed, and 16 were wounded.

A Marine spokesman at Da Nang said North Vietnamese troops attacked a platoon of the 5th Regiment Sunday night, "we called in artillery, and then the big battle started."

Heavy air strikes and artillery pounded fortified enemy positions during the night, and about 500 Marines attacked yesterday morning.

The fighting raged on the outskirts of An Hoa, the Marines' regimental headquarters, and through the rich lowlands rice area until 3 o'clock this morning.

"Traditionally, since 1965, the enemy has been putting pressure on this area," a Marine spokesman said.

The Marines said they counted 186 enemy dead, compared to six of their own men killed and 38 wounded.

U.S. headquarters said American soldiers riding tanks and armored personnel carriers clashed with the North Vietnamese in four fights on old familiar battlegrounds 32 to 65 miles northwest of Saigon.

Spokesmen said 137 enemy troops and 12 Americans were killed. Fifty-seven Americans were reported wounded.

"There were no ground attacks by the enemy," an American military spokesman said. "In most cases we found him in fortified positions . . .

"It fits in with his tactics." He's sitting in fortified positions until he's ready to move out and attack somebody.

"We're continually out looking for him. Yesterday, we found him."

TEL AVIV (AP) — Gunners in Jordan fired light weapons at an Israeli army patrol today, wounding a border guard, the army said.

The fire was returned, a spokesman said. The incident occurred near Neve Ur in the Beisan Valley south of the Sea of Galilee.

Inspect Carrier

SINGAPORE (AP) — The joint U.S.- Australian naval board investigating the collision of the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne and the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans, inspected the Melbourne today in the drydock where she is being repaired.

Rear Adm. Jerome H. King Jr. of the U.S. Navy led the six-member team on a four-hour tour of the Australian flagship in a drydock at the Sembawang shipyard.

The board members refused to speak to newsmen.

Nixon Freeway

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A stretch of new highway near Whittier, President Richard M. Nixon's hometown, has been named the Richard M. Nixon Freeway in a resolution passed by the Assembly.

Arrive Home

LONG BEACH (AP) — Three quarters of the survivors of the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans arrived in their home port by airplane yesterday and promptly headed for their homes.

As the 153 men stepped from a jetliner carrying them from the Philippines, they were handed leave papers. About two dozen families were on hand to extend welcomes. Navy buses sped away with those not greeted by home folks.

Divorce Action

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Actress Claire Bloom has filed suit for a divorce from actor Rod Steiger.

Miss Bloom and a companion registered as H. Elkins checked out of a Juarez hotel after the filing yesterday. There has been published gossip that she plans to marry Hillard Elkins, producer of the new off-Broadway play "Oh, Calcutta."

Steiger and Miss Bloom were married in 1959 and are the parents of a 9-year-old daughter.

Prison Sentence

NEW YORK (AP) — Valerie Solanis, former actress in underground films produced by pop artist Andy Warhol, has been sentenced to three years in prison for shooting and seriously wounding Warhol last June.

Miss Solanis, 28, was sentenced yesterday after a plea of guilty to first degree assault. She said, "I didn't intend to kill him. I just wanted him to pay attention to me."

San Francisco May Decide On Bus Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A controversial integration plan involving busing of pupils out of their neighborhoods is scheduled to be voted on tonight by the board of education.

Laurel Glass, board president, said discussion will be limited to board members and school district employes. He noted that the public spoke at length a week ago in a six-hour meeting.

Senate Confirms Burger To Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, moving with polished efficiency against a tiny, ineffectual group of dissenters, has overwhelmingly confirmed Warren E. Burger to be the nation's 15th chief justice.

WARREN E. BURGER
New chief justice

After the few vocal critics failed to win a delay yesterday the Senate by a 74-3 vote put its stamp of approval on the 61-year-old Burger, nominated by President Richard M. Nixon to succeed Earl Warren, who retires later this month.

The dissenters claimed consideration of the nomination should have been prolonged in order to hold a more careful and extensive look into the appointment, particularly in view of the Abe Fortas affair.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., asked at one point during the rambling three-hour debate, "Why vote today?" When Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said there had been nearly no opposition to the appointment, Fulbright retorted: "There wasn't any opposition to Fortas, either."

The Arkansas senator said he knew of no reason to oppose Burger, a 14-year veteran of the federal Court of Appeals, but he thought the Fortas incident demanded a close look at any new Supreme Court appointment.

Fortas quit the court last month following disclosures that he had agreed to accept $20,000 a year from Louis E. Wolfson, a Florida industrialist now in jail.

The Burger success leaves Nixon with another court position to fill—the seat left vacant by Fortas' resignation. The President has indicated he will move quickly to bring the high court to full strength.

Most of the appointment supporters pointed to Burger as a tough man on law violators who won't go along with the activist and social-liberal nature of the court under Warren.

They indicated hope Burger and the next appointee will swing the court into another orbit following the more conservative pre-Warren positions.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said he voted no "for reasons somewhat personal and political." Burger, a former Republican party official in Minnesota, was active against McCarthy in the 1952 congressional campaign. McCarthy said Burger misrepresented his position and appealed to emotionalism.

Wisconsin Democrat Gaylord Nelson, said he cast a nay vote because he simply didn't know enough about Burger. I was "mistaken last time," Nelson said about his yes vote for Fortas.

The third naysayer, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, also protesting the confirmation process and noted the Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Eastland, had heard not a single opposition witness in its brief hour and 40 minute hearing.

Fulbright, after voicing his objections, declined to take either a yes or no position. He had himself listed only as present.

Longshore Jobs Draw Unruly Mob

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—In a scene reminiscent of the Great Depression, the lure of 400 longshoremen's jobs brought an unruly crowd of nearly 10,000 to the Ferry Building yesterday.

Pacific Maritime Association officials gave up trying to pass out job application at 10 a.m. and said they hoped that applicants would get the message today that the jobs are not on a first-come, first-served basis.

Only 250 applications were passed out as men vied with one another to reach signup windows.

Men have until June 26 to apply for 400 Class B longshoremen jobs. It is the first time in two years that new jobs have been opened by the PMA and the International Warehouemen's and Longshoremen's Union.

Three 7-block-long lines stretched from the PMA office on Pier 16 when the office opened at 7:45 a.m. Some of the men had sleeping bags and stools and had been waiting all night.

If the mob scene occurs again, PMA officials said, applicants will have to get their forms by mail.

In 1967, the union and employers asked for 700 men and got 21,000 applicants.

The new men will receive between $35 and $48 a day—an average of $8.000 a year—plus lucrative fringe benefits.

Pilots Superjet

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has piloted the new C5 Galaxy cargo plane, world's biggest operational aircraft, and says it is surprisingly easy to handle.

Escape Plot Unlikely, Marin Attorney Says

Roger Garety of Greenbrae summed up his defense case for Larry Taylor, 24, of Santa Rosa yesterday.

He told the court in his two-hour final argument that the sheriff's radio room was the busiest place in the Lakeport courthouse and that three armed deputies guarded the three handcuffed prisoners as they awaited arraignment across the hall on a previous escape attempt charge.

The prosecution summing up was set for today.

Garety said there was no evidence to link his client physically with Deputy William Hoyt, the man who was shot during the escape try.

Garety also noted that much of the state's case came from two convicted felons, Carol Jolley and Stephen Garcia Tovar, who were jailmates at Lakeport with the defendants.

Garety hit the improbability of the radio room as a promising escape setting in his effort to disprove the prosecution's attempt to convict the two on trial of conspiracy to escape.

Owen Woodruff, defense attorney for the other defendant, John Lynn, 24, of Ventura, also spent two hours yesterday trying to show that no one would plot to escape from a sheriff's radio room.

The third man in the escape, Raymond Pettis, was found hanged in his San Quentin cell later.

The case was moved here after the Lake County judge and district attorney, who helped halt the escape, disqualified themselves.

General Dies

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Defense Ministry today announced the death of retired Maj. Gen. Fyodor Kharchevin, 69. It said he died after a long illness.

The announcement was the first report of the death of a Soviet general in several weeks after a rash of such announcements in April and May.

Health Insurance Change Is Sought

City employees of San Anselmo will ask the San Anselmo City Council to change their health insurance program from the present Blue Cross-Blue Shield to the state plan at the council's 8 p.m. meeting today.

Other subjects on the agenda include the proposed adoption of an amended animal control ordinance, discussion of a proposed public safety building site and a request from the City of Fairfax to participate in cost of repairs to Forest Avenue, damaged by slides in last winter's rains.

U.C. Offered Building Bonds

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Reagan administration acknowledged today it has tried to sell some of its out-of-favor construction bonds to the University of California.

No sale so far, Finance Director Caspar W. Wienberger said. But he added: "It's a splendid investment."

The money raised would be used to build badly needed U.C. buildings.

Bankers won't buy state voter-bonds under present high interest rate conditions because they can make more on their money elsewhere. The state Constitution limits the interest rate on such state bonds to 5 per cent.

Wienberger said he asked U.C. President Charles Hitch in late March to defer at least $29.4 million in planned construction because of the state's inability to sell bonds.

Then he added: "The university may also want to consider buying a sufficient quantity of our state bonds to guarantee the financing of your remaining bond projects."

There would be no need to interrupt the university's building program if that happened, he said. Money would come from U.S. funds which normally are placed in investments.

The proposal was brought to light yesterday by Republican Chairman William T. Bagley, of San Rafael, of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee as he outlined a new tax reform program. He called it "bootstrap financing.'

Wienberger said, "That's a new plan we devised to meet the emergency. It's perfectly feasible."

He said the owner of land the state is buying for a college site may accept payment in state bonds even though he might be able to make more interest in other investments.

Bill Aimed At News 'Creation' Is Stalled

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee has stalled a bill designed to prevent newsmen from creating news by urging the commission of crimes or staging them.

Sen. John L. Harmer, R-Glendale, says his measure is motivated by some newsmen whom, he contends, have staged news to sell newspapers or draw viewers. But a television station official said it was "ill conceived and would do great harm if enacted."

Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, without asking for a vote, took Harmer's bill under submission yesterday.

Harmer said that, for a newsman to be subject to a misdemeanor penalty, he would have to:

Willfully publish or broadcast any statement which he knew or should know was false or misleading and which resulted in the commission or threatened commission of certain crimes.

Urge the commission of simulation of certain illegal acts for the purpose of willfully reporting them as actual news events when such action could lead to the actual commission of such crimes.

Harmer insisted there have been increased instances recently of newsmen triggering or intensifying violence by asking demonstrators to throw rocks, feign injuries and picket certain places in certain ways.

He said legislative counsel termed the bill constitutional and not unduly vague and argued that the measure "clearly, completely protects the mass media."

But general manager Ray Beindorf of Los Angeles television station KNXT said Harmer was "unaware of the realities of news gathering" with newsmen forced to make immediate decisions on the validity of reports based on a wide range of source material.

The bill, Beindorf said, would "subject newsmen to second-guessing by prosecutors" and result in "play-it-safe" coverage of news events.

Such laws are vehicles of repression," he said.

Mike Dorais of the California Newspaper Publishers Association added that urging the commission of a crime was already covered by existing law.

He called the bill "a potential source of harassment of news media" and said it was "unnecessary and dangerous. The best source of regulation," he said, "is the free marketplace" of self-regulation.

Guilty Plea In Dope Arrest

Thomas Edward Mitchell, 25, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to possessing methedrine and marijuana on July 15, 1968.

Counts of possessing a hypodermic syringe and a loaded weapon were dismissed.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson declared the marijuana offense to be a misdemeanor because of the small amount of the drug involved, over the objection of the district attorney's office.

Judge Wilson set June 30 for sentencing.

DDT Fighter Is Drafting Compromise

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The author of a controversial bill banning the bug killer DDT in California says he is drafting compromise amendments to reduce opposition to the measure.

Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, said yesterday the changes he is "seriously" considering" making would not substantially weaken the proposal, which also outlaws other pesticides that fail to break down after application.

Under the amendments, the state agriculture director could allow limited use of DDT if a farmer could prove there was no other way to keep his crops healthy. But the pesticide would have to be used under a strict phaseout program.

"This could eliminate much of the bill's opposition," Nejedly said. "I feel it absolutely essential we get a strong DDT bill out of the Legislature this year."

The bill is set for its first committee hearing June 19 before the Senate Agriculture Committee.

200 Freed After Berkeley Arrests

Asst. Alameda County District Attorney David Dutton said yesterday that the 200 are "weeded out" in conference with police before his office filed formal charges.

The Berkeley City Council meanwhile meets tonight to hear accusations of police vandalism during a sweep of the people's park annex, which was raided last Friday night.

Berkeley police also have promised action on 150 complaints about alleged officer misconduct lodged with the department. Most deal with complaints over use of shotguns and teargas by authorities.

$750,000 For Guard At U.C.

SACRAMENTO (AP)— About $750,000 has been appropriated by the Assembly to pay the costs of sending California National Guard troops to Berkeley because of the University of California-People's Park crisis.

The money was included in a $1.3- million emergency appropriation bill which passed the lower house 60-1 yesterday and now is in the Senate.

Also in the bill was $300,000 to replace money used to fight last winter's floods and to maintain levee patrols throughout the spring runoff season.

Treasury Boss Sees No 'Credit Crunch'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy said today the sort of "credit crunch" that developed in 1966 can be avoided despite the present high inflation.

"We're in a credit stringency," Kennedy said at a news conference, "and the markets are not good but they are not in the state of disorder that they were in 1966."

Kennedy added, however, that the grip of inflation is such that it could develop into a runaway condition.

Meanwhile, Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, urged President Richard M. Nixon to withdraw government deposits from banks that raised their prime interest rate to an unprecedented 8.5 per cent.

Kennedy and Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin who also appeared at the news conference, placed top priority on extension of the income tax surcharge, currently scheduled to die June 20.

Asked if the government might resort to wage and price control if inflation worsens, Kennedy answered: "There's a possibility of a lot of things."

The treasury secretary noted that wage-price controls are not a policy the government is contemplating and that he is personally against them. They would be turned to only as a last resort, he said.

"We cannot allow a runaway inflation to develop in this country" Kennedy said. "We could be very close to that now."

Kennedy said he neither endorsed nor condemned Monday's increase in the prime rate charge their best credit risks—from 7.5 per cent to 8.5 per cent.

The higher rates will to some extent serve to ration credit, a desirable objective, but rising interest rates cause "distortion" in the economy, Kennedy said.

In a letter to the President, Patman, D-Tex., charged the 1 per cent boost announced by the banks yesterday was a conspiracy that threatens to force the country into a severe recession.

"Mr. President," Patman wrote, "your office has great powers to end these high interest rates and to prevent monetary policy from forcing the country into a severe recession. I respectfully urge you to exercise this power in the public interest."

Patman also called on the administration to instruct the Federal Reserve Board to cut off the discount privilege from the interest-raising banks, which enables them to raise ready money.

Although some banks promised not to up their rates to their smaller borrowers, Patman and other congressmen weren't buying.

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., said the increase will disrupt the housing market. "It's now impossible for a family earning less than $12,000 a year to buy a home," he said.

Wholesale Food Price Index Jumps

WASHINGTON (AP) — A big jump in food prices pushed the government's wholesale price index up eight-tenths of 1 per cent in May, the Labor Department reported today.

Farm product prices rose 4.6 per cent and processed foods and feeds were up 1.8 per cent in May, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The other major sector of the wholesale index—industrial raw materials — rose one-tenth of 1 per cent.

The over-all rise brought the wholesale index to 112.8. This means that it cost $112.80 last month to buy what would have been $100 worth of wholesale goods during the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

Major price increases included 18.6 per cent for fruits and vegetables, 8.1 per cent for livestock, 6.1 per cent for processed meats, poultry and fish, and 2.1 per cent for sugar.

The May increase pushed the wholesale price index to 4 per cent above those at a year earlier. Retail prices have been running more than 5 per cent above those a year ago.

TAX

cent of net income, the committee would boost it to 1.1 per cent.

Reagan advocates an average 50 per cent hike for Californians.

Zenovich also said a Bagley committee plan to permit cities and counties to tax utilities would not sit well with farmers in his Central Valley district who use natural gas.

Reagan withheld comment on the Bagley committee plan, presented at a news conference yesterday.

But Bagley indicated to newsmen he expected the withholding dispute to cause difficulties with the governor.

Without referring to Reagan by name, Bagley accused him of raising a false issue by saying withholding will collect too much tax revenue from some people.

"It's a scare tactic used by those who are uncompromisingly against withholding," said Bagley. And he declared "if we do not have total withholding, we do not have a chance of putting this through the legislature."

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, called the committee compromise "generally a good plan. I would hope something of this magnitude would pass."

Assembly Democratic Leader Jesse M. Unruh of Inglewood, said his position on the plan "is very flexible." He said "we're willing to look at anything that is reasonable."

Most of the outlines of the Bagley plan were unveiled last week. But yesterday he disclosed a new feature — a limit on tax increases for school districts.

It would be done, he said, by limiting the amount each district can spend for a pupil, "while making sufficient funds available so that the Education Committee could finance $307 million in additional state support for schools."

Zenovich, meanwhile, urged Speaker Monagan to delay action on taxes until the Senate studies the Bagley plan and gives informal indication of whether it will support the program.

But Peter Behr, of Mill Valley, former Marin County supervisor, said a University of California at Davis study showed filling of 10,000 acreas of salt ponds on the Napa County shore would destroy by raising temperatures the vintage grapes grown in the Napa-Solano area.

Bradley, backed by Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, said extending BCDC authority to the shoreline was giving "a single - purpose, multi - power agency jurisdiction beyond authority of city and county governments around the bay."

Knox rejected the argument that his bill would result in zoning conflicts. He said BCDC authority would be "not superior but co-equal" with local governments.

Earlier yesterday, supporters of the Knox-Petris bill were heartened by a statement Gov. Ronald Reagan made to a water quality control symposium at U.C. Davis.

"That bay is one of California's most priceless natural assets. The extension of BCDC is essential to continued protection of the bay," Reagan said.

The governor listed six criteria an anti-bay fill measure must meet for his signature. The Knox-Petris measure appears to meet all those conditions—and goes farther.

Reagan did not touch on BCDC control of shoreline, salt ponds and marshes, apparently remaining uncommitted on that subject.

ROSS

the confluence of Ross and Corte Madera creeks to carry off storm waters, leaving the creek untouched, under the plan.

An unofficial check after the meeting showed that 257 residents have signed petitions supporting the committee's position opposing the corps' plan.

County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker said the corps' plan is a disaster from an environment viewpoint, but "something to be desired" from the viewpoint of flood control.

Zucker, who recently retained his post by a 3-2 vote of Marin County supervisors, carefully prefaced his remarks by noting: "I am not against the county position or pushing for any particular position."

After comment that changing to an underground system would delay construction, scheduled to get under way next April, for one year, residents of flood areas objected.

Joseph D. Bernat of 145 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard said the project has been in the planning for many years and should be resolved.

"I'm interested in ecology, but if we have floods, we'll be living in slums," Bernat said.

Mrs. F. William Mosden of 27 Southwood Avenue said no one wanted a project which would split the town, and she urged residents "to get and work together," and there was applause.

One of the key issues in the discussion was whether the land donation by property owners would offset the additional costs involved in constructing an underground channel.

Daniel Shillinger of 433 Lagunitas Road, an engineer with Underground Construction Co. and a committee member, said the proposed channel, possibly 20 feet wide and 10 feet high, would provide the same flood control as the corps' plan.

He felt the savings in right-of-way costs would offset the additional construction costs.

William C. Bricca, committee chairman, said the plan is to have $1 million in donated right-of-way applied to construction costs.

Zucker said it was his understanding that $2.5 million was allocated for Phase III construction, $1 million for land acquisition and $250,000 for utility relocation and miscellaneous expenses, for a total of $3.75 million.

Zucker said it would be politically effective if residents took $1 million to a public agency saying they would finance $1 million for a different plan.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. commended the committee's efforts for an alternate plan and said he would support any attempt "for the same amount of flood control in the bounds of costs of the current projects."

Asked how much more the underground plan would cost, Bricca said the committee couldn't handle the engineering details, but would seek to have the corps makes "the nickels and dimes estimate."

Architect Edward Elliott, a director of the Ross Property Owners Association, said he recently got an estimate from the corps that an additional $1,250,000 would be needed for an underground channel.

"Our only problem is how to fund it," he said. "We need at least $1.25 million."

Donald R. Frost, county public works director,said if the additional construction costs were higher than the right-of-way savings, there would have to be an application to Congress for more funds.

Marin County supervisors will have a hearing on Phase III of the flood control project at 4 p.m. June 24 at the Marin Civic Center.

Proposed New Restaurant's Design Backed

The Corte Madera Planning Commission last night approved design review for the proposed Denny's restaurant at 5839 Paradise Drive, secretary Betty Long reported today.

It set 8 p.m. July 14 for a public hearing on proposed sign ordinance amendments and approved the updating of an ordinance pertaining to conditional uses in residential districts.

The commission denied an appeal from Amy M. Farrin who requested a variance to permit two lots at 23 Grove Avenue to become legal, nonconforming single family building sites.

A Marin County plan for bicycle paths in Corte Madera was approved.

John W. Gates was reappointed for a one year term to the Board of Adjustments of the town and C. William Thomas and James W. McClintock were re-elected planning commission chairman and vice chairman, respectively.

Contractor Gets Threat On Ark Job

A San Rafael contractor has been threatened with destruction of his equipment if he even bids on a contract to clean up houseboats and debris from county streets at Waldo Point.

Mario Ghilotti, general manager of Ghilotti Brothers reported the anonymous threat at this morning's session of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Public Works Director Ronald R. Frost has called for bids on the contract to clear underwater county streets at Donlan J. Arques' property on Richardson Bay. The bids are to be opened on June 23.

"I think most people there are law abiding and will conform," said Supervisor Michael Wornum. "But I think government has to act. If anything, it makes it more mandatory that we act when we get this type of threat."

The unsigned letter, postmarked in Larkspur, said in part:

" . . . We have a right to our homes just as you do to yours. If you contract this job and attempt to demolish our homes, every bulldozer, truck and piece of equipment you own will be destroyed, not only the machines used at this job site, but also those in your yard and at other job locations will be destroyed. Is it worth it? . . . "

Frost said at least one other contractor in the East Bay also received a similar letter.

POLICE

O'Connell's demands to relinquish the mike.

She said Pratt's case was "a people's struggle" and told shouting Fairfax residents, "You people have negated your rights."

At another point, a member of the audience told the council Pratt's case was one "of police brutality and racism and you'd better discuss it."

Flushing red and shouting "Watch it" into the microphone, O'Connell cut him off and again tried to end the discussion. A press by both sides from the back of the stuffy Women's Club towards the council at the front seemed then to subside.

The crowd further relaxed when a gray-haired 40-year resident of Fairfax took the microphone. Speaking to a now quiet crowd, she said folk dances for young people were held in the Pavilion 25 years ago without police and she hoped they still could be. She was applauded by both sides.

The debate sputtered out while O'Connell fiddled with the sound system and the council voted to continue the dances.

The council also voted to tell-Switchboard of Marin to resubmit its application — turned down by the Recreation Commission — to hold a dance at the Pavilion after a review of dance regulations is completed.

Earlier, O'Connell had announced that a subcommittee had decided that the so-called antihippie measure, which would have regulated all conduct on public property, was unnecessary because most of the restrictions suggested by the proposal were already law.

The action quietly defused the issue which had sparked another debate by a hostile crowd at the council's May 12 meeting when the council backed off from taking action on the ordinance.

San Rafael Library Asks Larger Budget

The San Rafael Library board last night agreed to submit a proposed 1969-70 budget of $151,000 to the city council, librarian Vivian R. Smith reported.

This represents a $5,000 increase over the current $146,000 budget and includes $2,000 for the proposed remodeling of the children's room and a $1,000 increase in the book budget.

nouncement on Catholic Church relations with the World Council of Churches, Pope Paul left the question of Vatican membership about where it was when the first assembly of the council was held in Amsterdam 21 years ago. On that occasion the Catholics, under Pope Pius XII, remained aloof.

Nine Presbyterian ministers with protest placards hanging around their necks appeared before the World Council headquarters an hour before the scheduled arrival of Pope Paul. Police dispersed them without incident. The placards said, "No peace with Rome," and "The Pope is anti-Christ." The group leader was identified as the Rev. Alan Cearns, of Ulstershire.

The group demanded to see Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, the council secretary-general. They read a handwritten letter to a council aide which said, "This visit is not but a betrayal of true Protestanism. It repudiates all that Calvin stood for in his hisotirac setting.

In their zeal for organization of unity by the World Council the word of God has been forgotten. The testimony of the reformist has been rejected."

Plans for the pontiff to ride in an open car were abandoned and he rode about Geneva in a closed limousine, occasionally waving an arm out an open window.

A senior police official disputed a claim by Northern Ireland Protestant extremists that thousands of leaflets had been distributed in protest against the papal visit. "I have no knowledge of this," the police official said, "and if there had been thousands of leaflets distributed I would know about it."

Police set up wooden stake fences along parts of the route to City Hall, but so few spectators turned out that they were hardly necessary.

Papal aides and newsmen who accompanied the Pope on his trips to the Holy Land, India, New York, Portugal, Turkey and Colombia called this the smallest turnout the Pope had ever seen.

Tentative Budget Of $382,700

A budget of $382,700 for next school year—down $4,258 from this year—was tentatively adopted by the Lagunitas School District board in a meeting last night at Lagunitas School.

Supt. Marshall J. McGunniff attributed the drop in expenditurse to staff reduction.

He also said the budget does not yet include salaries of the handicapped teachers since the board is uncertain as to the amount which will be provided from state funds.

The board adopted a resolution which will enable it to adjust teachers' salaries after July 1 if additional state money becomes available. The provision of the resolution also applies to administrative and classified salaries.

The Lagunitas School District board also:

VISION—Discussed establishing an early vision screening test program for the school district. The San Geronimo Valley Lions Club voted to donate $100 toward this project with the school district to pay the remaining cost.

Teachers Lower Pay Request 1 Per Cent

Tamalpais High School District teachers — rebuffed last week in their bid for a 10 per cent across-the-board salary schedule raise — submitted a second proposal last night asking for a 9 per cent hike.

The new proposal — which includes cuts in some fringe benefits — would cost the district $437,482 rather than the $592,000 which was the price tag on the teacher's first proposal.

Trustees, meeting in special session at Redwood High School, took the proposal under study and agreed to meet with the district's auditor tomorrow night along with members of the teacher's negotiating committee to see if funds are available to meet the pay requests, which are in addition to the automatic annual step increase.

The trustees last week offered the teachers what averaged out to be a 4.2 per cent salary schedule hike, but this was rejected by the teachers.

None of the trustees seemed to think that the money was available for what the teachers want.

Trustee David D. Ring told the teachers that he felt ". . . there is about $200,000 available for teachers salary raises and that's the amount we reflected in our offer."

An audience of about 50 persons — most of them teachers — sat quietly through the three-hour meeting silently, letting negotiating chairman William B. Wilkinson do most of the talking.

Through Wilkinson, the teachers again asked for health and welfare benefits costing the district $54,683, which would have to be financed through the tax override.

In their second proposal, the teachers did somewhat soften other fringe benefit requests. They had originally asked for an increase to $8.50 per hour for summer school teaching, but dropped that to $7.25 in the second proposal.

The trustees made no commitment to the teachers that they would grant the 9 per cent raise, even if the auditor's check of the district's financial condition indicated that the funds could be found.

Jury Trial Set In Weapons Case

A jury trial for Patricia Ann Fusiliereia, 18, of Marin City, accused of two counts of assault with a deadly weapon, was set yesterday for the week of July 21 in Marin Superior Court.

Mrs. Fusiliereia is accused of stabbing one supermarket employee with a hunting knife while aiming at another one with whom she got into an argument May 23 in Sausalito.

Bussing To West Marin Facing Cuts

Curtailment or outright discontinuation of bus service from the Bolinas-Stinson Beach and Nicasio-Lagunitas areas to Tamalpais High School District schools is being quietly — but seriously — considered by district trustees.

Bus service from these areas may well become one of the casualties in the trustee's effort to trim back the 1969-70 budget, with cancellation or cutback of the service recommended as one way to save $2,500.

The trustees are awaiting a report expected in two weeks, from a transportation committee headed by trustee David D. Ring before making a final decision. Serving with Ring on the committee are Jerrold Ladar of Mill Valley and Francis Compton of Kentfield.

Trustees, although making no official statement, indicated that the current bus service from Marin City to Tamalpais High School would be retained, at a cost of $20,000 to the district. The service started this year, partially funded by a grant of $10,000 with the remainder being funded by the district. Next year the district is going to have to pick up the full tab, trustees said.

The students from the Bolinas-Stinson Beach and Nicasio-Lagunitas are the only ones who rode to school free this year. Other students arrive at schools on specially chartered buses. The district's bussing program was drastically cut back several years ago.

An informal poll of the trustees indicated that while none of them wanted to see bus service curtailed or withdrawn, all felt that the Marin City service was more important than the other two.

The trustees agreed that the Marin City bus service was necessary because of the economic level of that community.

Acting in the same vein, trustees last night did act to trim $5,000 from the field and athletic trips budget, knocking it down from $31,000 to $26,000 and trustee Gloria Melbostad said that she felt "this is one area that might even stand more cutting."

"I think it's more important to get the kids to school than send them on field trips and athletics trips," she said.

The cutback in travel funds for athletics will affect only practice games, not league commitments, the trustees decided.

Library Friends Elect Officers

Dr. Harvey Z. Klein has been elected to serve a second year as president of the Friends of the Sausalito Library.

Also reelected were Mrs. Elisa Stinson, first vice president; Gordon McColl, second vice president, and Mrs. Richard L. Whitaker, secretary.

Elected treasurer to replace Dr. Burton Wise was Charles F. Lester.

San Anselman, 15, Booked In Theft

William John Thompson, 18, of 131 Woodside Drive, San Anselmo, was booked into Marin County jail Sunday on a citizen's arrest on suspicion of shoplifting a coil spring, valued at $1.97 from Disco Wonderland, 555 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael.

Thomson posted $315 bail to appear at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court. Thompson's two companions were reprimanded and released, police said.

Novato Planners Give Permit To Car Wash

Cloudburst Car Wash Inc. last night was granted a use permit to construct and run an automatic car wash with gasoline sales on Ford Way west of Highway 101 south of Novato Creek by the Novato Planning Commission.

The planning commission set the requirement that the building be located 35 feet from the Highway 101 frontage instead of the 25 feet requested. The company originally had applied for the car wash to be located on the east side of Seventh Street south of Lee Brothers Market. It was denied gasoline sales there and asked for the new location.

The Novato Planning Commission Also:

NURSERY SCHOOL — Approved the application of the Novato Parents Nursery School Inc. for a use permit for two years to operate at the Methodist Church at 1485 South Novato Boulevard. The school operated there last year on a one-year use permit.

IMPROVEMENTS — Gave its approval to the capital improvement program which the public works department has submitted in the fiscal 1969-70 budget. This program still needs approval of the city council.

UTILITIES — Continued indefinitely discussion of the underground utilities ordinance.

Three Hurt In Two-Car Crash

Three persons were injured at 1:20 p.m. yesterday when two cars collided at the entry to a College of Marin parking lot, the California Highway Patrol said.

Mary Fee, 16, of the Presidio of San Francisco, had head bruises and was taken to Letterman Hospital in San Francisco for observation.

Yvonne Murphy, 17, of San Francisco, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a broken ankle and Hans-Bernd Baerthel, 20, of 26 Laurelwood Court, San Rafael, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut chin.

Skylight Is Used To Enter School

Thieves opened a skylight over the girls' gymnasium to enter Davidson Junior High School, San Rafael, during the weekend, and broke into a snack bar and several gymnasium offices, police said today.

School officials were to determine if anything was stolen. While in the snack bar, thieves helped themselves to food and drink.

Dr. Peale Is Elected Church Chief

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, known to millions through his book "The Power of Positive Thinking," his newspaper column and his close ties with the Nixon family, was elected president of the Reformed Church in America last night.

Peale won on the third ballot to head the 232,000-member denomination.

One of the first problems Peale faces is occupation of the group's New York City headquarters by James Forman and other militant blacks who are demanding $500 million in "reparations" from white churches and synagogues in America.

The offices have been occupied since Thursday.

Peale, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York, where he married Julie Nixon to David Eisenhower late last year, was elected at the church group's general synod in Douglass College.

Children Accused Of Killing 10 In Blaze

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Warrants charging murder were issued by the Wood County prosecutor's office today against two young children whose parents and 10 brothers and sisters perished in a house fire Sunday.

Prosecutor Bruce White said the warrants were issued against Roger Bailey, 13, and his sister Susan, 15. He said this followed an investigation which produced evidence of arson in the house blaze.

White said the children were only being charged with murder of their father, Charles Bailey, 41.

"We obviously wouldn't set forth charges in all the deaths, so at random we settled on the father's name," White told The Associated Press.

He said arraignment was scheduled for later in the day.

The predawn fire whipped through the family's small frame home here Sunday. The only occupant to flee the flames was the children's grandfather, Obie, 63.

Emmett C. Rousch, assistant state fire marshall, said earlier that two persons had admitted intentionally setting the fire. However, he declined at that time to identify those involved.

Following the fire, Roger and Susan told authorities they escaped the flames because they were sleeping in a two-room structure behind the family's eight-room house.

They said they watched helplessly as the flames engulfed the house.

Probation Allowed In Car Theft Case

John Lowell Massengale, 27, of Larkspur, was placed on two years probation yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court on the condition that he continue in an alcoholism treatment program at Mendocino State Hospital.

Massengale had earlier pleaded guilty of taking a car Sept. 15 in Larkspur.

Bay Strike Spreads To Tugboats

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A walkout of sightseeing and ferryboat engineers spread yesterday to tugboats on San Francisco Bay.

The Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, which struck ferry and sightseeing boat operators last Wednesday, called a separate strike yesterday against the Shipowners and Merchants Tug Boat Co., idling about 100 men.

No negotiation sessions have been set in either strike.

The week - old walkout against Harbor Tours and other firms has forced about 200 Marinites who normally commute by ferryboats to find other means of transportation.

In that strike, ferry engineers (captains) are seeking raises from $690 to $1,000 a month over three years.

The tug strike has forced ships to berth themselves. No major problems have been reported.

Novato Youth Denies Statutory Offense

Larry Donald Healon, 22, of Novato pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of statutory rape. A jury trial was set for the week of Sept. 29.

Three Hurt In Three-Car Crash

Three persons were injured this morning when a car spun on rain-wet Highway 101 near the Richardson Bay Bridge, triggering a three-car accident, the California Highway Patrol said.

The patrol said the accident occurred at 2:30 a.m. when Nancy L. Weidauer, 35, of 61 Lambert Way, Novato, lost control of her car and spun. A following car driven by George K. Papas, 48, of 164 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, swerved into the center rail dodging the Wiedauer car, then was hit by a car driven by Andre J. Desmedt, 34, of 203 Bridgeway, Sausalito.

Mrs. Weidauer was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital, San Francisco, for cuts of the head and pelvis. Papas was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital, San Rafael, for head and knee cuts, and a passenger in his car, Theodore Papaiôannou, 28, of the same address, was treated there for a possible broken nose.

Guilty Pleas To Selling Of Drugs

Two young Marin men pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of selling drugs last year. Barry Baukol of Mill Valley and Carl L. King of Fairfax admitted selling methamphetamine on Feb. 3, 1968.

A count of another sale of the same drug against King was dismissed, and Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for July 14.

French Or Humanities Courses Set

Red Hill School fifth through eighth graders will be permitted to take either French or humanities on an elective basis this fall, the pilot project being approved last night by the San Anselmo School District board.

Currently those students are required to take French, Supt. Stephen L. Parodi reported. The recommendation for the project came from Red Hill School principal Donald A. Shaw following a change in the state law permitting the variation.

The San Anselmo School District trustees:

PHILOSOPHY — Adopted a district philosophy of education as submitted by the Educational Specifications Committee.

SALARY SCHEDULE — Discussed salary schedule proposals for 1969-70 but took no action, calling a special salary meeting for 8:30 p.m., tomorrow, at Red Hill School. The board met in closed session at meeting's end to discuss salaries with their negotiator but took no action, Parodi said.

PHYSICAL FITNESS — Heard in a report by Barry Connell on the district's physical fitness program that eighth grade boys do not do as well as fifth grade boys in pushups but boys in both grades did quite well in the 50 yard dash as compared with the national norm.

KINDERGARTEN — Agreed to write State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, saying it favors a fully state-funded kindergarten program rather than the partially funded one at present.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Kris Beining, Wade Thomas School, second grade, at $6,961; Mrs. Leslie Kahl, Sleepy Hollow, third grade, $6,574 and Sandra Tierney, Wade Thomas, third grade, $8,122 and agreed to give five per cent additional pay in 1969-70 to Frances Findley, Yolansdale, third grade, who will become head teacher in addition to teaching her regular class.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE — Granted a leave of absence for 1969-70 to Ann T. Morrison, Wade Thomas School, fifth grade, now on sick leave.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations from Jean Yates, Sleepy Hollow, sixth grade, who is moving to Oklahoma with her husband and Margaret Olson, Wade Thomas, library teacher-aide, for personal reasons.

Petaluman Killed In Viet Battle

A 19-year-old Petaluma Marine was reported killed in action in Vietnam Saturday, the Defense Department has announced.

Jason David Hunnicutt of 8 Dean Court, was reportedly killed when he was struck in the head by rockets and mortars while standing guard at a small Marine outpost in Quan An province.

A Marine for nearly a year; Hunnicutt had been in Vietnam for five months. A private first class, he was to have been promoted to lance corporal this month, according to his father, Joseph W. Hunnicutt.

A 1967 graduate of Petaluma Senior High School, he had worked for the Carson Goat Milk Co. while a student.

In addition to his father, he is survived by his mother, Wanda E. Hunnicutt; two sisters, Nancy Willitts of Pittsfield, Ill., and Joyce Hunnicutt, at home; and a brother, Marty Hunnicutt, at home.

American Flag Still Flies Low

The American flag continues to fly at half-mast at the College of Marin in honor of men who have lost their lives in war.

An altercation among students occurred last Friday after lowering ceremonies. The flag was lowered several times, finally disappeared but was replaced yesterday morning at 6:45 a.m.

The flag is to be flown at half-mast until June 19, the end of the current final examination period.

Kentfield Trustees Shun Tax Rate Boost

Kentfield School District trustees last night adopted a preliminary 1969-70 budget of $1,331,171 and said they are determined to hold the current $3.34 tax rate.

The board, reported Supt. Anthony G. Bacich, has adjusted to the 1969-70 financial picture by drastically reducing maintenance costs and eliminating nearly all capital outlay items and cutting one staff member.

But, in order to maintain the current school program for 1970-71, a tax increase election will be necessary, the board said.

Trustees set a meeting for July 7 at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade School to reach a decision on calling a tax election early this fall, Bacich reported.

The board tentatively approved a salary schedule with a 4.82 per cent increase over the current year for teachers and classified employees. This results in a schedule running from a beginning salary of $6,500 to $13,000 after 13 years of service and an added 60 units of graduate work.

The 4.82 per cent increase is above the automatic annual step raise which runs about 5 per cent.

A 12-by-12 board, burned continuously for one hour on all four sides, would still be stronger than a 9-by-9 inch board never touched by fire. Even when exposee to fire, thick wood members retain their strength for long periods of time.

Foe Of Film Series To Talk

A psychiatrist opposed to the sex education aspects of the film series, "Time of Your Life," will appear before a Mill Valley School District review committee tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Dr. Louis A. Noltimier, a member of Gov. Ronald Reagan's Advisory Committee on Mental Health, is president of Physicians for Good Government and on the staffs at St. Mary's and St. Francis hospitals, San Francisco.

The session is to be held at Homestead School, 305 Montford Avenue.

At an earlier meeting Mrs. Marilyn McCurdy, who appears in the film, spoke in favor of adoption of the KQED series.

A 12.9 per cent gain in personal income was shown by Florida in 1968.

Nixon Sets Briefing On Midway Session

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon, heading home from the Midway summit conference, hopes his decision to begin withdrawing U.S. troops from South Vietnam will be read by Communist peace negotiators as a significant signal.

Nixon will get a formal Washington welcome from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and other dignitaries and will deliver "general remarks."

His comments will be broadcast live by some networks.

The cabinet and some members of Congress from both parties will participate in the welcome, with Nixon accorded full military honors.

In early evening, Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress will meet with Nixon in the White House to get a firsthand report on his Midway meeting Sunday with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

White House sources, who declined to be identified by name, said Nixon and his aides believed the Midway sessions were successful and that administration objectives were achieved.

They said Nixon was hopeful that his decision to withdraw 25,000 U.S. troops from South Vietnam by the end of August would convey a significant message to the other side.

The bulk of the 25,000 will be combat troops, they said, and asserted this fact should underscore the intended signal.

While Nixon and Thieu indicated more troops will be pulled out later, the White House said there is no numerical target for the year.

Initial reaction to the troop withdrawal from North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, was to denounce it as mere propaganda.

A spokesman for Hanoi at the Paris peace talks said yesterday it was part of "perfidious maneuvers" by Nixon "seeking by all means to calm the opposition of the American people" to the Vietnam war.

A National Liberation Front source said the withdrawal "constitutes only a grain of sand thrown in an ocean" and a "propaganda maneuver intended to calm the demands of the American people and mislead world opinion.

White House sources said the initial negative reaction was predictable.

The White House reported that a tentative decision to begin the withdrawals was made about six weeks ago, but insisted that a final decision on the details was not reached until the two presidents met at Midway.

The Midway conference was pictured by the American sources as one of a series of recent major turning points in the Washington-Saigon approach to the Paris peace talks.

At the end of March, they noted, Thieu offered to enter into unconditional negotiations with representatives of the National Liberation Front. Then came Nixon's eight-point peace plan of May 14, followed by the Midway agreement to begin gradually replacing U.S. forces with newly trained and equipped South Vietnamese units.

While the sources said they did not want to speculate, they hinted strongly that Theu soon can be expected to spell out in greater detail his suggestions for the political evolution of South Vietnam.

They reported that Nixon and Thieu devoted more time to this subject at Midway than to any other topic.

College Unrest Plans Stalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — A divided House Education Committee was unable to reach agreement today on a compromise bill designed to deal with college unrest.

Opponents of any federal action on the subject prevented the committee from putting through a bipartisan bill.

Chairman Carl Perkins, D-Ky., scheduled another session for tomorrow in hopes of getting the legislation approved.

Safe Is Stolen

W. Leonard Needham of 825 Las Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael, reported to police today the theft of a 100-year-old safe, $200 in coins and $10 in cash from his apartment during the night. The thieves pried the front door to enter the residence, police said.

Condemnation Talk On Rail Property

Tiburon City Councilman William R. Bremer last night said he might recommend condemnation of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way along Tiburon Boulevard if negotiations to purchase the land are not successful by the end of July.

Bremer told the council, in a report prompted by criticism of delay in acquiring the right-of-way sought by the city for a bicycle and pedestrian path, that he had received "certain overtures" from railroad representatives concerning sale of the property to the city.

However, he noted, the railroad's overtures "have other ramifications" which he implied concerned other railroad holdings in the city.

"We must consider all the ramifications to the city of the railroad's interests," he said, adding he wanted to clarify these "ramifications" before making a recommendation for action to the council.

He promised the council a full report "perhaps in two weeks" at which time, he said, the issue would be discussed fully.

Bremer's remarks were prompted by a letter in yesterday's Independent-Journal from Tiburon resident Gerry E. Coles which criticized the council for an apparent delay of more than a year in acquiring the land.

In his letter, Coles asked, "How long must our patience endure? S.P. is playing a waiting game, and our council naively goofs along."

The city should have condemned the land a long time ago, Coles said.

Bremer, announcing he wanted to "respond publicly" to the letter, said "The approach advocated by Coles in naive, insipid, negligent."

"I am not ready to declare war on the railroad," Bremer said. "It may have to be done eventually . . . I will not be bulldozed into taking a premature position on this."

Bremer, who was appointed the city's representative in the negotiations with the railroad, was supported by Mayor Branwell D. Fanning who said he was "not disappointed" in Coles' attitude. "I didn't expect much else. He seems to have taken it as a personal project to keep the waters muddy."

Councilman Anne E. Ellinwood said the council was "overreacting." Coles has the right to "take the public channels, including the press," to air his displeasure with the council, she said.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

HORSES — Declared its intent to amend the zoning ordinance to regulate the keeping of horses, donkeys, mules and similar domestic animals in the city.

BICYCLE TRAILS — Endorsed the addition of an urban bicycle trail system to the county parks and recreation plan and suggested Trestle Glen Boulevard be added to the trail system.

EMPLOYEES — Allocated $3,450 for salaries for temporarv employees in the public works department.

ARK — Extended a temporary permit allowing storage of the ark Mermaid on Tiburon Peninsula Club property until July 14.

ABATEMENT — Indicated its intent to declare two arks stored on Northwestern Pacific Railroad property a public nuisance at the June 23 meeting if the arks have not been removed by that time.

Lagoon Victim's Mother Sues

A $75,000 damage suit has been filed in Marin Superior Court for wrongful death by the mother of a nine-year-old boy drowned Feb. 8 in a lagoon near the Civic Center against Marin County.

In her suit Carol Ann Fust, who describes herself as David Blaine Dills' only survivor, claimed that the body of water should have been fenced and that it appeared to be shallow but actually had deep holes.

Also named in the suit are five John Does and two corporations of unknown names.

Rifle Shots Chase Petaluma Prowler

Rifle shots from a Petaluma resident routed a prowler at 2 a.m. today, police reported.

Frank Claxton, 428 Fifth Street, said he saw a prowler in his back yard, fired a shot into the air and began a chase. He said he chased the man on Fifth Street to G Street where he fired a second shot in the air, but lost the man as he fled toward Petaluma Boulevard South. The prowler was described as being five feet five inches tall and weighing 125 pounds.

Youth Is Booked In Drug Probe

A 16-year-old high school student has been booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of selling dangerous drugs in connection with the distribution of seconal tablets last month at a Santa Venetia teen-age party.

Philip Adams of 109 Professional Center Parkway, San Rafael, was arrested Thursday at school for allegedly selling 20 seconal tablets fcr $5 on May 16 at Northgate Shopping Center.

Marin County Sheriff's inspector Charles Prandi said a 16-year-old boy and his 13-year-old sister said they had received the pills, known as "reds," at the party from another youth who said he purchased them from Adams.

No Election

The fleet captains for sail, ski and cruiser boats of the Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the community center and not an election of the captains as reported last Friday in the Independent-Journal.

According to a spokesman for General Foods the five varieties of cereals containing freeze-dry fruit had to be cut down to one, cornflakes and strawberries. "Maybe, the variety was too bewildering" said the GF spokesman. An astute observation when you consider the consumer has at least 190 choices in cereals. Among them, different size packages, instant and almost instant, a variety of shapes and colors—what else.

Co-op has cut down your work a little, we only have ninety-three varieties.

OUR FIRST FAN LETTER

I tried your method of storing lettuce and it works perfectly says Mrs. Frank Carwin, Walnut Creek. One of our home economists says if you add a paper towel when storing it in a plastic bag it will be super-perfect.

Limitations of space do not allow us to print answers to all your questions, however each will be acknowledged and in cases where the information is on file we will send you an answer. Those that need to be researched may take a little while longer but we will try to give you the BUY WORD.

FATS ENOUGH

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture has proposed that the fat content of cooked sausage, such as frankfurters and bologna, be limited to 33%. Analitical data gathered by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service indicates 33 per cent is the maximum fat content currently normal in these products. The proposal, if adopted would prevent further increases. It will be considered at a public hearing, June 18-20 at USDA in Washington, D.C. If you don't want the level of fat increased in sausage products write a note (2 copies) to the Hearing Clerk, Rm. 112-A, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. DO IT NOW.

WITH THE "new generation" has come a new style in weddings, bringing a joyous pageantry to these often outdoor occasions. Artists Bob and Eileen are New Yorkers, but their wishes for a "glorious celebration" of a wedding are typical of recent Marin and Bay Area weddings with colorful hip clothes and rock music for the celebration afterward.

NEW GENERATION

Weddings Take On A Free Pageantry

They prefer their coffee black or sweetened with coarse unrefined sugar. They don't drink alcohol or smoke cigarettes. They eat only pure foods, grown without any chemical fertilizers. They express a disinterest in clothes yet decorate themselves with paints, brightly colored beads, pendants, flowers, ribbons and scarves. They dislike traditional formality and surround their most important affairs with rituals of their own design.

They are the flower children, the prophets of peace, love and Utopia in our time. Most of the enclaves where they gathered have been reduced to decay. Haight-Ashbury and the East Village have become sordid centers of crime. Their once passionate belief in the self-revealing, conscious-expanding powers of potent weeds and chemical compounds have proved a false and dangerous myth. Most of their experiments in communalism have failed, partly as a result of a hostile society and partly because the communes attracted young people too confused and too lost in the psychological undergrowth of their own problems.

But the flower children's spirit remains. They still preach altruism, mysticism, honesty, joy and non-violence. And they have deeply touched the imagination of the straight society. Corporation presidents and psychiatrists speak of hang ups. Advertising executives and salesgirls speak of groovy trends. Department stores and shopping malls have blossomed out in psychedelic colors and designs. Television commercials from brotherhood to soft drinks use acid rock backgrounds. No other sub culture has so influenced the world's youth. And members of the tribe like to think they live the life styles of the future.

Spring in New York brings the cult to full flower. During the first warm days of April, two of the faithful got married with joyous pageantry. In Central Park, on a blustery day, Bob and Eileen (they've given up the use of last names) promised each other love and peace, and "to stay with each other as long as we both shall desire," and were happily pelted by their friends with carnations, irises, daisies and daffodils.

Both Bob and Eileen are artists; he paints, designs and works for an art gallery; she makes pottery. Both are unlike the hippies of a few years ago; they have no desire to drop out of society but to work within it, to follow their personal vocations and perhaps to reform society by their example. Both regard long-held ways of doing things as valueless and point out the contradictions in American life. But when they married, they both wanted a ceremony.

"It's a glorious celebration," said Eileen. "We're happy and in love, and we want everybody to share it."

The bride was radiant in a long white eyelet dress made by a young designer, Pat Walker, sold in Greenwich Village's Apartment G.

"The dress is out of sight," sighed Eileen, "it doesn't have artificial things like buttons and zippers. You just pull the sashes to make it look any way you want."

The bridegroom wore a pale pink flowered shirt, belted dungarees, ropes of beads, boots and a cowboy hat. The hat was decorated with head bands crafted by the Hopi Indians, whose naturalistic ways Bob admires. He decided not to wear two silver and turquoise bracelets sent to him by a friend in Tangiers because the friend was "too far into the drug scene."

Accompanied by tambourines, guitars and chants of "Hare Krishna," the wedding party marched back to a friend's apartment on the West Side. There they swayed to ear-shattering sounds of the Grateful Dead in the flashing beams of a strobe light and the greenish glow of a television set.

Explaining why he never turned the set's sound on, Bob said, "There's no good sounds on, but I like to keep a lot of images in front of my eyes."

Will they remain together until death does them part? "Sure," says Bob, "or until one of us wants to split."

"But," adds Eileen, "I'm sure Bob and I will love each other forever. We really are into what we're like, and we really groove on one another."

SHUNNING THE traditional silk or satin gown, but keeping the regal feeling, a long white eyelet dress was selected by Eileen from a custom shop in Greenwich Village. It has no buttons or zippers. "You just pull the sashes any way you want," explains the bride.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Girl's Phony Correspondence Poses Believable Problem

DEAR HELEN:

I am a well-adjusted high school senior. The other night my father, a widower, had some friends over to the house.

When they left, I noticed most were glassy-eyed and there was a peculiar odor about them. The next day I searched Dad's room and found a packet of marijuana.

I read about parents turning their children in for smoking pot. Should I turn my dad in to the police? — BO-ZEAR

DEAR BO:

The New Jersey hoaxer strikes again. I've learned to recognize your printing — having seen it so often — and also your cute double-meaning signatures.

But because their turn-about could easily happen, I'll give a phony question a straight answer:

Ask your father if a mild high is worth a felony conviction, and add that it's safer (legally, anyway) to cruise with booze than trip up on pot. (But is either trip really necessary?—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm glad to read that others are fed up to here with college riots, sieges, takeovers and threats. Those guys have proved their points, and most universities — like Columbia for instance — have made many needed changes.

I hope when classes begin this fall the violence won't start up again — and if it does, I hope the authorities turn those soul brothers of the SDS, etc. into cell brothers fast! — BRENT

DEAR HELEN:

I'm one of the so-called silent generation, aged 25. In my college days we stuffed telephone booths, and before that they stuffed down goldfish. Now they're stuffing presidents' offices as part of their rites of spring. Maybe we were copouts, as they say, but at least we got an education. Only five years separates me from these kids, but that's a bigger gap than there is between me and my parents. — DON'T UNDERSTAND 'EM

DEAR HELEN:

All over the country overdue reforms are being made in colleges. I don't like violence, but I'll have to admit — it got what mild gripes didn't — action! Let's hope the get tough policy doesn't get so tough it stifles the progress that dissenters started. — NON-VIOLENT DISSENTER

DEAR HELEN:

My hang-up: I was engaged to a young man who I thought was out of this world. Well I found he was way, way out of orbit. We broke up. I went into a decline.

As the days went by I began eating enormous amounts of food. I gained 10 pounds quite suddenly, to my sad surprise.

My rescue: Self-analysis. Heck if I'm going to let that no-good bum make me into a fat sob-slob: I am resuming my health diet and once I've lost the excess weight I'm going to escape from hiding, have my hair restyled, let my nervously chewed nails grow long again and paint them apricot. And most of all, I'm going to enjoy that good old feeling of self-confidence— GOBBLE NO MORE

DEAR GOB:

Your letter should help many young people who haven't yet learned that a shot of anger is the best cure for a broken heart. — H.

GEMMA CRUZ Araneta, Miss International of 1964, is one of four international beauty queens living in Manila. She is director of the Philippine National Museum and writes a cultural column in the Weekly Graphic magazine. Married to Antonio Araneta Jr., a Filipino Oxford graduate and journalist, she is one of the most widely traveled women from the Philippines.

Manila's Beauty Queens

MANILA (UPI) — Almost without notice of the fact, Manila has quietly become something of a beauty queen capital. Four international beauty queens now reside within the city's metropolitan limits.

Three of the beauties came from foreign lands, wooed and won by Filipino bachelors.

THEY ARE Armi Kuusela of Finland, Miss Universe of 1953; Stella Marquez of Colombia, Miss International of 1962, and Angela Filmer of Malaysia, Miss Asia of 1965.

They have settled down in Manila with their Filipino husbands and adopted the Philippines as their home.

Manila's fourth beauty is Gemma Cruz Araneta, Miss International of 1964 and now director of the Philippine National Museum. She is married to Antonio Araneta, Jr., a Filipino Oxford graduate and journalist.

Manila claimed five international beauty queens until last February when Richard Handl, former manager of the Rama Hilton Hotel in Bangkok, married Maria Rita (Baby) Santiago, 1968 Queen of the Pacific, and swept her off to a new home in West Berlin.

ARMI KUUSELA, 35, mother of five children, was proclaimed the first Miss Universe 16 years ago in Long Beach.

During her visit to Manila in the course of a world tour, which was part of her prize, she met a handsome Filipino millionaire five years her senior, Virgilio Hilario. They were married after a whirlwind courtship.

Armi looks after their five children, Arne 13, Anna 11, Eva 10, Jose 9, and Mikko 3, and helps her husband in his various business enterprises and civic activities. Since her marriage, she has learned how to speak the Filipino language like a native.

"It is very lovely to stay here but the only thing which scares me is the summer heat," said Armi, who was accustomed to a cold, wintry climate before her marriage.

Jorge Araneta, son of a Filipino industrialist and sportsman, courted and married Stella Marquez in a romance that spanned the Pacific Ocean from Manila to Cali, Colombia.

Stella is a permanent fixture in almost all of Manila's charity-civic affairs. She is chairman of the annual Miss Philippines Pageant and is executive officer of the Colombian consulate. Her husband serves as Colombia's honorary consul general.

The five-foot-two Angela, or Dolly as her husband calls her, has a 3-year-old daughter, Angelique, and expects another child soon.

GEMMA CRUZ Araneta, 25, is perhaps one of the Philippines most - widely traveled women. She accompanied her journalist husband to the Soviet Union, Communist China and North Vietnam, countries normally barred to Filipinos.

Besides running the National Museum, where she was a researcher before she became Miss International of 1964, Gemma writes a cultural column in the weekly Graphic magazine. She also has written a book, "Hanoi Dairy," based on the month-long visit she and her husband made to North Vietnam in 1968.

Conversation With Daddy

By DONALD E. MULLEN

NEW YORK (UPI) — I gathered my three grocery snappers — Scott, 6, Andrew, 4, and Alice, 20 months, in front of the hearth, and, eyes twinkling kindly, asked them:

"Father's Day is coming. Do you regard me in a lighthearted way, yet with just that right amount of sentimentality?"

Scott: What does lighthearted mean?

Daddy: It means am I a fun guy, a groovy fellow to have around?

Andy: Say it again, is it a new riddle?

Scott: Shut up, I'm asking—What does sentimentality mean?

Daddy: It means...well...like when you go to bed at night you say 'I love you, daddy,'' and really mean it.

Andy: That's the answer to the riddle?

Scott: I don't think so.

Daddy: Don't think so what?

Andy: I know—I'll meet you at the corner!

Scott: No, dumb head—he's talking about Father's Day presents.

Daddy: Nobody said any thing about any presents. All I want to know is...

Andy: Now I'll ask one—why did the little boy throw the clock out the window?

Scott: You don't want any presents at all?

Andy: It's my turn!

Daddy: Quiet; let's have a little attention here. Now what did I ask before?

Scott: I forgot.

Andy: Let's play I spy.

Daddy: Let's put it this way. If you were going to buy me a present for Father's Day, why would you buy it?

Scott: Because mommy gave us the money?

Daddy: No.

Scott: It's because all the kids in the world have to thank their fathers for everything.

Daddy: You mean 'want to,' don't you?

Scott: Want to what?

Daddy: I think Father's Day is for the birds.

Andy: No it's not, it's for you and we're making a nice pre...

Scott: Shut up, Andy, big mouth—it's a surprise!

First Class Badges Awarded To Seven San Rafael Girl Scouts

Seven San Rafael girls received the highest honor in Cadette Girl Scouting, the First Class Badge, last night at the annual Awards Night held at the San Rafael home of Mr. and Mrs. George Tuttle.

Gladys Mendelson, the daughter of Mrs. Bette Cooper; Deborah Plotkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Plotkin; Susan Rose, daughter of the Williams Roses; Patricia Salin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lothar Salin; Deborah White, daughter of the Wayne Welches; and Margaret Yarling, Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Yarling's daughter are members of Troop 2009. Mrs. Yarling is the leader of the troop, sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael. Patti Kendrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kendrick, is a member of Troop 1327, led by Mrs. Boyd Wells.

The honor exemplifies many years of Scouting, proficiency in skills of art, homemaking, citizenship, health and safety, international friendship and the out-of-doors. The award is similar to the Eagle award in Boy Scouting.

AT THURSDAY'S meeting of the Path Finders Section of the Marin Art and Garden Center plans for the summer will be discussed and officers will be elected.

New members will be greeted during the 10 a.m. coffee hour at the home of the president, Mrs. John Gentles of San Rafael.

MRS. BUD Ruzsicska was installed president of Theta Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in Petaluma. The other chapter officers are Mmes. Bob Rafael, vice president; Paul Dito, recording secretary; Norman Rollins, corresponding secretary; Les Sturm, treasurer; Jim Bostrum, civil defense; John Setlak and Harold Matzen, city council delegates.

NOVATO CHAPTER 609, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a flag ceremony and meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at Druids Hall in Novato.

Chairman for the evening will be Mrs. Dorothy A. Campbell, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Lott Vickers, Mrs. Stanley Crandall, Mrs. W. O. Bird and Laurence Schmidt.

AT THE annual meeting of the Marin County Women's Tennis Club at the home of Mrs. William B. Lindow in Tiburon, last year's president, Mrs. Wallace Painter of San Anselmo, turned over the gavel to Mrs. Walter Becker of San Rafael.

Also elected were vice president, Mrs. Norbert Dose of San Anselmo; secretary, Mrs. William Lindow of Tiburon; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Backer of Ross; and tournament chairman, Mrs. Joseph Personeni of Greenbrae.

In addition to the summer mixed doubles tourney the club holds, this group of experienced tennis players is now a member of the Bay Area Ladies League A Division.

A LUAU will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Williams for members and their husbands of Upsilon Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at 7 p.m., Friday. Chairmen of the luau are Mmes. Claus Mund, Robert Teijeiro, Williams and Donald Heinitz.

The No-Party

The fashion in parties, according to Madame Elsa Schiaparelli: "Don't mix the old with the young." She staged a happening for her granddaughter, Berry Berenson, at the St. Regis. The occasion was Miss Berenson's 21st birthday. "Schiap" practiced what she preached by not attending.

Knit Nighties

Registration Opens Tomorrow For Audubon Canyon Ranch Volunteers

An unusual opportunity will be available soon to Marin men and women who enjoy children and have an interest in becoming volunteer naturalists. The Audubon Canyon Ranch at the Bolinas Lagoon will soon broaden its educational horizons with financial aid from the Junior League of San Francisco, Inc.

A training program to be called the Volunteer Council of the Audubon Canyon Ranch will begin next fall.

The program, consisting of alternate field trips and lectures, to be given in Ross, will deal with the natural history of the plants and animals associated with the varied ecological communitie s at the Audubon Canyon Ranch and throughout Marin County. The variety of areas in the county, such as woodlands, ponds, grasslands, chaparral, bays and the Bolinas Lagoon will be emphasized.

Volunteers will learn the multiple facets of conservation and county planning, as they relate to Marin, from biologists of National Science Education Resources in a program coordinated by Mrs. Rembert Kingsley and conducted by Clarin Zumwalt, naturalist at the Ranch. Instructing with Mrs. Kingsley and Mr. Zumwalt will be Mrs. Katherine Cuneo, Mrs. Virginia Havel and Maggie and David Cavagnaro.

How to involve the child in the classroom with the story of the Blue Heron and the Egret, and how to hold his attention and to answer questions when out on the trail will be part of the learning experience offered in this course. When the volunteer has completed his training he will be equipped to enter the classroom to present his information and then to guide the curious students along the nature trails of the Audubon Canyon Ranch.

Interviews for those interested in participating in this program of sixteen training sessions will be held at the Volunteer Bureau of Marin, 723 A Street, San Rafael tomorrow and Thursday between 10 a.m. and noon. Interview appointment may be made with Mrs. Kieckhefer.

Kentfield Surgeon Among New Breed

By PATRICK SULLIVAN

Their concern for healing transcends patient rosters and the borders of the towns and cities where they practice.

Burke, a quiet, unassuming six-footer late in April traveled 10,000 miles to the curving peninsula Federation of Malaysia, 300 miles southwest across the Gulf of Siam from South Vietnam.

His five-week visit, spent mostly at the Sungei Patani District Hospital, was busy. He performed an average of three operations a day.

And all around him the country was exploding in bitter racial rioting.

Native Malays and the minority Malaysian Chinese clashed in the streets following a general election early in May in which openly racist Chinese and Malay parties cut deeply into the coalition Alliance Party's majority in Parliament.

The Alliance Party declared it would not participate in the new cabinet, setting the stage for wild street parades which disintegrated into taunts, confrontations — and ultimately — an anti-Chinese rampage.

Machinegun-armed government troops — all native Malays — imposed a rigid curfew, restoring some order, but not before about 500 persons were killed, about 90 per cent Chinese.

"It is just the start," Burke said glumly in an interview last week. "It brought out the real racial hatred" between the Chinese and Malays.

Most of the violence was confined to the capitol of Kuala Lumpur, where Burke needed a curfew card to get past the armed troops during five days at the university medical center.

"The soldiers rather indiscriminately suppressed the suddenly opend fire with machine guns. The man, his wife and two children were killed. One son survived."

Some Chinese doctors on the hospital staff indicated they felt compleled to leave Malaysia because of the racial hatred, Burke added.

The government of Premier Tunku Abdul Rahman imposed strict censorship, suspending all newspapers and radio broadcasts except by the government station and banning Time and Newsweek magazines, the tanned physician said.

"You had no idea what was going on. It is a completely helpless feeling."

Putting the violence in the background for the moment, the journey, Burke said, was "very refreshing."

He worked in Sungei Patani with a team of six doctors, nurses and technicians in Malaysia on a two-year project for the CARE-Medico organization.

The surgery department there was established by the team earlier in its tour, due to end in November, ending years of a situation in which persons in need of operations had to travel 50 miles to the next hospital.

Burke found a great many parasitic diseases, including worms, and malaria among the Malaysians, who daily must face a wet, hot (95-degree) climate.

In Kuala Lumpur he worked with members of the second graduating class of the university medical school. The class of about 65 joins a similar number who became doctors last year.

More and more doctors are participating in such "working vacations" as his to nations such as Malaysia and elsewhere under the auspices of CARE-Medico, Burke said. Other doctors serve on the ship HOPE and in missionary hospitals.

In a few years, he said, he just might undertake another such mission himself.

Martin Van Buren was the first U.S. President who never was a British subject.

$3 Billion Manned Lab Program Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department today announced cancellation of the Air Force's $3 billion Manned Orbiting Laboratory program because of "the continuing urgency of reducing federal defense spending."

Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard told reporters this means the Pentagon is giving up the idea of a military manned space mission "for the time being."

In addition to citing budget cutting pressure, Packard said the decision to cancel the project, was based on "advances in automated techniques for unmanned satellite systems in such fields as research, communications, navigation and meteorology."

He refused to discuss any spy mission the Manned Orbiting Laboratory would have had.

Packard estimated that, as a result of the cancellation, close to $300 million will be saved in spending during the coming fiscal year.

Cancellation will save about $1.5 billion over the next five years, Packard estimated.

The Manned Orbiting Laboratory project was announced by the Lyndon B. Johnson administration in December 1963.

It contemplated sending up two-man crews who would have lived and worked in a 30,000-pound, 72-foot-long spacecraft for 30 days.

The first manned flight would have been staged this coming December, according to the original plan, but a combination of factors have slipped the program objective to mid-1972.

Judiciary Warned Of Imposed Ethics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., told the U.S. Judicial Conference today that the judiciary faces congressionally-imposed ethical standards if it fails to put its own house in order.

Appearing at a closed session of the conference at the invitation of Chief Justice Earl Warren, Tydings said in a prepared text that pending legislation would create a commission of judicial disabilities and tenure and require full public disclosure of financial interests.

As chairman of the Senate subcommittee on improvements in judicial machinery, he said that a crisis in confidence in the courts must be resolved. He said that this was caused by the "judiciary's timidity in dealing with the rare instance of judicial misconduct and the more frequent of judicial disability."

"To be quite frank," he said, "the judicial councils have not done the job it was hoped they would do . . . "

Tyding did not mention the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas, who quit under fire of criticism of his acceptance of a yearly fee from the family of convicted financier Louis E. Wolfson. The Fortas case prompted Warren to call the judicial conference together to consider reforms.

Warren, due to retire with the court's adjournment later this month, is believed anxious to have a code of conduct worked out before then—and before Congress attempts to impose one from the outside.

The conference's 11-member committee on court administration met late into the evening yesterday at the court, presumably putting the finishing touches on proposed new standards.

Activities of the committee and of the conference itself have been secret.

The proposed code is expected to rule out most lecturing by federal judges, require extensive reporting of income and put strict limits on relations with nonjudicial organizations.

Fairfax Faces 6-Cent Boost In Tax Rate

A 1969-70 budget of $539,403 — which would require a 6-cent tax rate increase — was proposed to the Fairfax City Council last night by City Administrator Frances R. Lestanguet. (Another Fairfax Council story, page 1.)

Buried in her budget message was a warning that the tax rate could be forced even higher, possibly up 11 cents.

The budget is up $77,491 from this fiscal year's $461,912 and would require hiking the tax rate from $1.74 to $1.80 per $100 valuation, the highest in seven years.

In her budget message, Mrs. Lestanguet said the 6-cent increase "will be considered by many to be high, but it will be easier to explain to those who complain that 4 cents of it is for retirement due to cost-of-living salary increases."

She added, "It is unfortunate that the retirement tax rate was not increased 2 cents last year . . ."

The proposed budget showed expected revenues of $269,023 from property taxes, up from $245,950 this year, $248,916 from other sources and $21,464 from reserves.

Mrs. Lestanguet warned that if the council's policy of keeping its general fund year-end balance at $150,000 or above is maintained, the council has two choices: It can cut the budget $16,000 or increase the tax rate 5 cents more to $1.85 (an 11-cent total boost) and still have to cut $7,922.

"Either of these two will be difficult to do," the message said. (The general fund, now only 20 days away from the end of the fiscal year, is well below the $150,000 level).

The budget requests are $63,463 less than asked by department heads, she said. Expenditures include $342,269 for personnel, $112,632 for materials and supplies and $84,502 for capital outlay.

The personnel money includes a 5 per cent increase for all full-time employees. It does not include funds for more police or an additional employee in the street department for which there is a definite need, Mrs. Lestanguet said.

The biggest capital improvement item is $40,000 for restoration of Forrest Avenue. Another $13,168 would go to the vehicle replacement fund and $12,000 for street resurfacing.

The $14,526 increase in materials and supplies expenditures would included added money for election services, ordinance codification required by a proposed zoning ordinance, street lighting and recreation day camp supplies.

The council set budget hearings for 8 p.m. on June 17, 20, 23, 24 and 27 at the Women's Club.

The Fairfax City Council also:

SEWER — At the request of Councilman Frank J. Egger demanded that the Ross Valley Sanitation District take immediate steps to stop dumping raw sewage into San Anselmo (Cascade) Creek. Egger said the pollution is coming from a broken main line which received a "Mickey Mouse" repair job when it burst in February.

TAXI — Approved a five-year renewal of the city's taxi franchise with Yellow Cab of San Rafael.

STREETS — Accepted the $13,831 resurfacing of Forrest Avenue and other streets by the Brown-Ely Co. constrctors.

VARIANCE — Granted a request for a variance regarding fire protection from Robert L. Rose on Ridgeway Park under which he would install a low pressure pump to extend fire protection to his house.

PAY — Approved payment of $449.48 to retired Police Capt. Robert Cortelyou, who was forced to retire early with permanent disability after an accident Feb. 9.

Courthouse Sale Discussion Revived

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Negotiations for sale of the courthouse square to the City of San Rafael were reopened last night at a joint meeting of county supervisors and city councilmen in the city hall.

Just before the meeting, supervisors and councilmen were presented with copies of an appraisal report made for the county by Edward P. Morphy. It valued the property at $750,000 with both courthouse and annex removed or $850,000 with annex intact. Demolition costs were estimated at $150,000 for both buildings or $110,000 for the courthouse only.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini at first suggested maybe the city, which a few months ago offered $500,000 for the property, should get its own appraisal. Later, however, he expressed doubt that would be necessary.

To show beyond doubt that they are serious about the city's acquiring the square, the three supervisors and three councilmen present extended a bid for any developer interested in the midtown block to deal directly with the city.

They approved unanimously a statement prepared on the spot by chairman John F. McInnis of the board of supervisors, declaring: "Redevelopment of downtown San Rafael is recognized as a paramount requirement by the City of San Rafael and the County of Marin. To this end, the county is interested in cooperating with San Rafael for the earliest possible transfer of ownership of the courthouse property to the city, so the city can entertain offers for the proper development immediately."

Supervisors and councilmen agreed Morphy's appraisal figures represented merely something from which to work in negotiating.

Robert A. Roumiguiere, a member of the citizen committee on the courthouse property appointed by the county, pointed out that Morphy estimated demolition of the courthouse would cost $110,000 and that of the annex, $40,000. Thus, he said, actual net to the county under his appraisal would be $600,000 with annex removed and $740,000 with it intact.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said there seemed to be a contradiction in the report, however, as in describing the developer's approach to the property, Morphy had included demolition costs as part of development.

The No. 1 question, left unanswered, was when the city could come up with the money — assuming agreement on price. Part of the corporation yard property which it had hoped to sell to finance purchase of the square was sold recently for a low down payment, giving the city little cash on hand.

Councilman Fred C. Robbins Jr., suggested title might be transferred to the city for a dollar, with an agreement for proceeds of city sale to a specified maximum to be paid to the county. This was promptly squelched, however, by chairman McInnis and Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

S. K. Herzog, in the audience, noted that "the day all those people move out of the courthouse to the Civic Center, the appraisal becomes obsolete" because of the effect of the move on downtown business.

Not mentioned in Morphy's appraisal report was provision of parking for redevelopment of the square, cost of which has loomed large in city discussions. City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said a report on the parking needs is expected within a few days from D. Jackson Faustman of Sacramento, parking consultant.

McInnis agreed to start next Tuesday's supervisors' session at 9 a.m. with Morphy present to answer questions regarding the appraisal, and Bettini agreed to have the city represented there. Following that, another joint meeting of supervisors and councilmen will be scheduled.

Bootzin Judge Hears Funds Not Promised

A Marin attorney testified in Marin Superior Court today that octegenerian Max Bootzin told him there was never a promise of marriage involving him and either of two women to whom he gave property and cash.

William O. Weissich testified that Bootzin, at a meeting in the attorney's office Nov. 12, 1965, said the idea of a man his age marrying either of the younger women was outlandish.

Bootzin, Weissich said, further depicted as a "pack of lies" newspaper reports that promises of marriage were involved in the case.

In the non-jury trial, before Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson, Bootzin's heirs are attempting to regain property and money given by Bootzin to Charmaine Klenman, 31, and Joan Saylor, 22.

Weissich, former Marin County district attorney, testified Bootzin told him the two women had been kind and attentive to him and he was grateful.

However, three days after the office visit, Bootzin advised Weissich's secretary that he wanted the attorney to do nothing more in the way of contesting and executorship sought by his family because ". . . I will not do anything against my children. . ."

Weissich said he had considered Bootzin competent, although he told the elderly man he would want a psychiatrist's report because of his age and the fact the case involved two much younger women.

Teen Center Fund Plea Scrutinized

The San Anselmo City Council moved cautiously over portions of its preliminary budget for 1969-70 last night but in no case was it so careful as with a request from the Town Meeting for $500 for the Third Rail Coffee House.

Councilmen heard manager Norman Leach's itemized $6,195 budget for the teen center located in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church, then asked question after question in connection with the $500 the city was asked to contribute.

To Councilman Duane C. Ragan, Leach reported the regular hours are Friday and Satuday evenings from 8 p.m. to midnight; yes, it is supported by the church's board of deacons; spotlights and amplifiers are needed for the bands which perform; drug abuse information at the coffee house is needed to supplement that offered by local police; the public health service information on drugs is not always accurate.

Ragan said he opposes authorizing the $500 on the basis the coffee house is a private organization.

Councilman James F. Reed said he had reached no decision, that he would like to visit the coffee house and that the council has an obligation to help the teens.

To Councilman Robert M. Scott's questions, Leach said, yes, he feels marijuana should be legalized like alcohol; that it could be beneficial to certain people and no, he has not produced a paper on how to get high on different substances. Leach told Scott he has no antipathy toward the police and that the coffee house is not run by him but by policies and programs established by teenagers.

Answering Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson's queries, Leach said attendance averages 75 on Friday nights and 75 to 200 on Saturday nights.

The coffee house manager said he could not give the percentage of San Anselmans who are served because being a resident is not required.

Leach said that similar teen centers in Fairfax and Mill Valley had to close reportedly because of problems that came from the teens using drugs and alcohol.

Anderson said he, too, would like to visit the coffee house, "unannounced."

Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro said he felt the most important question was qhether the coffee house served San Anselmo teen-agers.

Reed asked Leach if the coffee house were getting very many teens that are presently experiencing drugs. "Yes, Leach replied.

Reed then asked if he was having any luck convincing them that there are other ways of fulfilling one's self other than the drug route. "This is very difficult to answer," Leach replied. He said he knows that some teens were using a lot of drugs when they first came to the center and are now using none.

Leach said those teens under the influence of alcohol or drugs are asked to leave the coffee house and anyone carrying either can have his parents notified.

No action was taken. The subject is expected to be reconsidered June 19 with other requests from the Town Meeting.

The council went over the proposed chamber of commerce budget request of $5,190, up $855 from the current figure. A city contribution of $3,500 was recommended by administrator-controller A. C. Kaeppel.

The library board requested an increase of 10 hours a week for one employee, $1,000 to replace a water line in the basement and rental of a copy machine at $480 a year for five years, and $10,000 for books, with Kaeppel suggesting $9,500.

Total library budget for 1969-70 is estimated at $59,109 as against the current $56,808.

The council discussed hiring one or two full-time maintenance men for the Parks Department.

Kaeppel had budgeted $8,000 in the budget for one added man, $5,200 for a parttime maintenance man and $4,560 for professional landscaping services of A. and J. Shooter for a total of about $18,000.

Other items in the proposed $52,599 parks budget include $2,347 for reconstruction of tennis courts, $5,000 for improvements including comfort stations at Robson-Harrington Park. The proposed $32,680 recreation budget includes $1,000 for senior citizen services.

The council will meet in regular session tonight at 8 o'clock. It meets next on the budget at 8 p.m. Thursday to discuss police, fire and general government. The meeting was adjourned in memory of Hans E. Fischel, San Anselmo's part-time city treasurer, who died Saturday in an auto accident.

Gift Wrap Button Kills Marin Baby

A 10-month-old San Rafael boy choked to death yesterday after swallowing a plastic button used to secure ribbon bows to gift packages.

The boy, Alexander Peter Laskoff II, was rushed to the family physician a short distance from the family home at 96 Oakridge Road, but failed to respond to the efforts of five doctors.

Deputy County Coroner Keith C. Craig said the boy loosened the button from a length of ribbon while playing in his home shortly after 1 p.m. His mother, Joyce, tried to grab the object before the boy swallowed it, but failed.

She rushed him in the family car several blocks to Dr. Williams S. Neal at 11 Professional Center Parkway. Five doctors worked on him to no avail. The button was describes as being about an inch long and about twice as wide as a pencil.

The boy's father, Alexander, is a salesman with Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. in San Francisco. Also surviving is a twin sister, Carol.

Graveside services will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael. Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, is in charge of arrangements.

$60 Taken

Martha O'Brien of 85 Montego Key, Bel Marin, reported to the sheriff's department Saturday that burglars had taken $60 cash from her home as well as a pair of silver candlesticks and a tape recorder, officers said today.

Filling Salt Ponds No Link To Pollution

Filling salt ponds to create land for housing development would in itself have little or no effect on San Francisco Bay air pollution, according to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's chief administrative officer. (See also BCDC Legislature story, page 1)

This finding, however, apparently was unknown to the smog district's director of information — though it was known to the executive director of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, which has recommended against such fill in its proposed master plan for the bay.

Paul E. Peterzell, in his "Golden Gate View" column in the Independent-Journal of May 27, reported that representatives of Leslie Salt Co., which proposes to fill some of the flooded shorelands it now uses for salt ponds, testified before legislative committees that smog district studies prove the salt ponds do not help reduce air pollution and "that water surface of any kind has no effect in reducing smog."

He then quoted the smog district's director of information, Edward W. McHugh, that "we never made such a finding," and that the statement was "not supportable."

However, on Feb. 15, 1966, D. J. Callghan, chief administrative officer of the smog district, wrote to Joseph E. Bodovitz, executive director of BCDC, as follows:

"The staff has reviewed and studied material available on possible effects of filling the bay, and it is our opinion that, unless all tideland areas are filled, there would be little or no effect on inversion of temperature, which affects the severity of air pollution episodes. A recent study conducted by San Jose State in the south bay area indicated that an 80 per cent fill would probably result in an increase of five degrees in summer temperature and a reduction of about four degrees in winter temperature. This would have only a slight effect on the formation of photochemical air pollution.

"The major effect, however, of bay fill on air pollution would result from the use of the new land created: more freeways, more residences, more industry and more commercial establishments. This would increase the amount of pollutants emitted to the air and would have a very direct effect on increasing the air pollution potential."

Charles Denton, director of public relations for Leslie Salt Co., commenting on this letter, remarked:

"If development is pushed farther and farther into the foothills and beyond to keep it away from the bay, travel time to and from the core area will be increased and, with it, the likelihood of even greater auto-generated air pollution, to say nothing of the need for more and larger freeways."

Thus, he suggested, the alternative would add to air pollution more than would developments along the bay shore on the "swamp and overflowed" lands, which are not actually part of the bay.

Attorney's Firing Delays Kidnap Trial

The trial of two men accused of kidnaping and robbing restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella last November came to a brief halt today when one of the defendants fired his attorney and decided to represent himself.

Daniel Thomas Stathos told Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in his chambers that there were "irreconcilable differences" between him and attorney Carleton Innis of Berkeley, who has been Stathos's lawyer for several years.

Judge Gardiner agreed to allow Stathos to try his own case.

The prosecution has already presented several witnesses linking Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnel to the Sabella crime and Stathos alone to the robbing of the Greenbrae Lanes in October.

Friday a former confederate of the two men who is now serving a San Quentin prison term testified how he and Stathos and Harnal had planned and executed the Sabella affair and how he and Stathos held up the bowling alley.

Scheduled for this afternoon's court session was cross-examination of the convict, Walter John Hoefler, formerly of Lakrspur.

Harnal will continue to be represented by Public Defender Jerome C. Durham.

Acrylic and collage paintings and pen and ink sketches of Mexico by Marin artist Irene Clark are currently on display through July 7 at the Palate Restaurant in Mill Valley.

College Trustees Set Closed Talks

Marin Junior College District trustees have canceled their adjourned meeting set for Thursday but instead will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in closed session to discuss hiring of a new president of the College of Marin. The meeting will be in room 72 of the Fine Arts Building.

The board is considering applications from three candidates to fill the post now being held by Louis H. Herkenhoff, acting president.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

High School Graduation, Yesterday And Today

Each year, as the time rolls around for our high schools to graduate another throng of students on the verge of manhood and womanhood, the urge is great upon editorial writers to compare the proceedings with their own graduations in an earlier generation. Sometimes the urge becomes overpowering.

This particular editorial writer was graduated from high school in 1930. The bottom had fallen out of the New York stock market just six months earlier, and the effects of the crash were beginning to be felt in the West. It was not an atmosphere conducive to great expectations.

Even without a stock market crash, times were tough in that little town, dependent largely on farming and livestock raising. Only a minority of that high school graduating class planned to go on to college; for most, the cost put further education out of the question.

IN THOSE DAYS, the valedictorian was not selected by a test to choose the best student speaker; the valedictorian was the student with the highest grades through four years of high school. The valedictorian of our class was among those who had no hope nor plan for college. Her father was a sheepherder. Her family was bedrock poor. (Nowadays, she would be assured of scholarships to continue on to college.)

What she said in her valedictory, and what the commencement speaker (a prominent out-of-town lawyer) said were not long remembered. But neither of them berated society as they found it. Neither of them denigrated their nation. Their talks may not have been particularly "relevant," but they were optimistic. The lawyer had faith in the young graduates; and the graduates had faith in themselves.

Each of those neatly tonsured and well scrubbed (though not necessarily well dressed) young people knew, as he or she was handed the diploma, what it meant: It meant the student had achieved, through his own efforts, a passing grade in every class taken to meet the requirements — all the way up from first grade (there was no kindergarten). No one had been passed on through high school because some psychologist suggested it would inhibit him to fall behind his "peer group." Every diploma was earned.

THIS WEEK'S graduates, however, have been offered educational opportunities far beyond anything in the high schools of 1930. They have gone to school in better buildings, better equipped, with better-educated teachers, better libraries, better textbooks.

Most of them can look forward confidently to going on to college. Despite the twin menaces of the draft and the bomb, they have much reason to view the future with hope and optimism. The specter of increasing want does not confront them. There appears little likelihood that they, like many of those graduated in 1930, will find themselves within a few years "on WPA."

We have faith in them, as that commencement speaker 39 years ago had in us. Some of them rail at "the system"; some of them wear their hair long and unkempt, smoke "pot," and have tried ways of life which were tried and found wanting countless generations ago. But these are merely new — though extreme — manifestations of the ever-renewing revolt of the younger generation.

We have given them the tools. We think they can do the job.

EDWARD S. MUSKIE SAYS:

Solution To Crime Not Easy, But Three Things All Can Do

Every responsible citizen is concerned with the epidemic of crime which grips our society. Between 1960 and 1967, the FBI index showed reported crimes to have risen 88 per cent, nine times the population increase. In 1968, the rate of violent crimes again increased dramatically. In too many of our urban centers citizens are afraid to enter parks, to walk at dusk, or to be in downtown areas at night.

Twice as many juveniles under age 18 are arrested for serious crimes as adults over 25.

One out of every two persons arrested for burglary last year was under 18. Almost half the arrests for serious crimes, like murder, rape and robbery, were of juveniles under 18.

Those who commit a second crime average three convictions and two penal terms within 10 years.

While there was an increase in violent crime arrests in the cities in all age groups, the percentage increase was greater in the suburban areas.

SUCH FACTS shock and dishearten.

There are those who have the solution to crime: "impeach soft judges;" "give heavier sentences;" "make prisons more punitive;" "make more arrests;" "hire more police;" "establish a national police force," and "clean up TV programming."

But the solutions to problems of crime are not simple; they are as complicated as the vast range of behavior called criminal. Oversimplification must not be substituted for clarity, recklessness for courage, exaggeration for objective evidence.

Part of the answer must be the relief of the underlying causes of crime: unemployment, family breakdown, inadequate education, substandard housing, discrimination, frustration and despair.

THE FIRST DUTY of every American in contributing to a reduction in crime is to create an environment of respect for the law. This can only be done by those who show that respect in the conduct of their lives. Juvenile delinquents — and adult criminals as well — often justify their actions by saying that the only difference between them and "respectable citizens" is being caught.

The second duty is to support the administration of justice by better pay, training, equipment for police, insistence on discipline and respect for law and individual rights by police, and immunity of police administrations from political expediency.

The third duty of the concerned citizen is to help improve the administration of our court system. It may well be that the real failure of our courts in the criminal justice system stems not from decisions made, but from the cases which the courts have not decided as a result of backlog and delay. For example, in 1968, more than 4,000 cases had been pending over six months and almost 20 per cent had been pending for over a year in our nation's federal trial courts. Justice delayed is justice denied, to the community as well as to the defendant.

WHEN CRIMINAL justice systems begin to appear impotent, the public begins to believe that a criminal who can get a capable lawyer will get off in the end. To the criminal, the percentages will appear better. Under such circumstances citizens lose faith in justice. Loss of support follows close on the heels of loss of faith, and no system of justice can long endure without the support of the society it serves.

Music Chest Needs More Memberships

Many thanks for the nice editorial of May 2 on behalf of the Marin Music Chest. It was most kind of you.

The drive has been slow — hard doing — this year but I think we're going to make it.

Programs have been chosen to appeal to the youth of our county and our big hope now is to increase attendance.

Can't Stand Hearing Grown Man Cry

Your account of the arrest and detainment of R. W. Beban and Kimo Campbell is another typical example of the insidious attack on the police by the mass media while at the same time interviewing, lionizing and trying in every way to justify the acts of the agitators.

Your report started off with a matter-of-fact statement that the two young men were working for a radio station in Berkeley and that they were held by the police incommunicado in a state of terror for 38 hours. You stated this as the true facts and without qualification.

Your admission that Beban is a reporter for Ramparts magazine and the editor of Marin College Times should be enough to discredit anything he might have to report. Why is it you failed to tell us something of editor Robert Scheer and his magazine? Are we to judge the remainder of Beban's account of his "ordeal" by his claim that the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center was a former concentration camp for Japanese during World War II? The truth is that Santa Rita is the former U.S. Naval Camp Shoemaker. The understatement of the whole report was that of the deputy who reportedly said to Beban, "You've been causing trouble in Marin County."

If reporters choose to accompany and report the heroics of the revolutionaries then they should accept the hazards without snivelling the same as the reporters do who accompany the Army into battle. I never could stand to hear a grown man cry.

Different View On Foreign Policy

Regarding Senator Cranston's resolution that diplomatic recognition does not constitute approval which you praise so highly (editorial, June 3), it is doubtful whether it would have any effect at all on our foreign policy because the principal (sic) of recognition solely on the basis of approval has not been consistently followed. Your own editorial mentions many dictatorships as numerous exceptions. We have also recognized many Communist satellites whose governments do not meet with our approval. If we have adhered to any principal (sic), it has been that of recognizing governments only when it is practical and consistent with our interests to do so. Any foreign diplomats who, as you assert, regard this as "daft" have undoubtedly not manned the embassies in Peking which are repeatedly attacked and whose ministers are subjected to frequent physical indignities. Moreover, nonrecognition does not imply absence of diplomatic intercourse, since we have frequently met with Peking representatives in Poland and with North Korean representatives at Panmunjon. The diplomats of friendly or neutral powers have represented us in other countries, such as Cambodia. All Cranston is trying to say is that we ought to recognize certain Communist powers he is soft on. Would he also favor our recognizing the de facto government of Rhodesia? I think not!

Mill Valley View From Council Side

Mrs. Anne Bardwell's remarks concerning two recent events in Mill Valley ("Reporter's Notebook," May 23) require a few comments.

Budget sessions: I'll admit the meetings have been frustrating. The budget as presented called for a tax rate of $3.48 (illegal, but showing city needs) a 50 per cent increase from last year. Not included were some employee requests for salary and fringe benefits, which if granted would add another 25 cents. Resolving this and other budget items may take a little time. The democratic process is slow and has faults but is far superior to other alternatives.

City manager:

1. City ordinance 310 states: "The city manager shall be appointed by the city council solely on the basis of his executive and administrative qualifications." No mention is made of personal friendships or other amenities.

2. The new manager was chosen accordingly. Some 100 applications were screened — seven applicants were interviewed and the writer and one other councilmen spent a full day verifying opinions reached as above.

3. Knowing Mr. Bert Balmer and respecting his professional ability, I think he participated to the extend he felt necessary.

4. The last selection of a manager was made in accordance with Mrs. Bardwell's so-called "professional procedure," and probably caused the largest rift in community feelings in recent years.

If Mrs. Bardwell and some of her colleagues had more concern for the professionalism of reporting as opposed to that of selecting city managers there would be a tremendous decrease in the great "creditility gap." During the last five years I have often found little resemblance between news reports and the actual intent of a particular meeting. Issues are taken out of context or only one side presented. Fragments of facts are given which usually amplify the opinions of the reporter. We already have problems of air and water pollution, let's not add the news media to the list.

Social Service Found Cooperative

I recently had occasion to enlist the services of Marin County Social Services in connection with my mother.

I wish to commend this office in their efficiency in handling the matter with great ease. Julia, in particular, was most helpful and informative and saw that everything was taken care of immediately, and mother is well situated now.

This is a well organized and fine social service and a credit to the County of Marin.

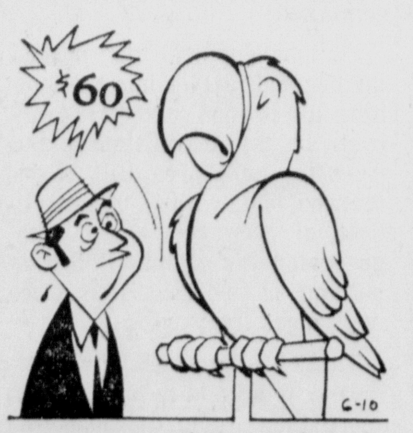
TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

FELLOW PRICED a parrot that had struck his fancy in a pet shop, and was dismayed when the purchase price was quoted at 60 bucks. "Is he such a wonderful talker?" asked the prospective purchaser. "Can't speak one durn word," the proprietor assured him cheerfully, "but he sure is one heck of a listener!"



Fellow who was elated when he was elected first vice president of a big TV network isn't so happy now that the meaning of the job has begun to sink in. When anything goes wrong — and how often it does! — he's the first vice president blamed.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Americans Growing Impatient With Nixon's Extreme Caution

WASHINGTON — Agreement on the withdrawal of some American troops from Vietnam in late summer, if that is the upshot of the Midway conference, will come just in the nick of time. Just in time, that is to say, for President Nixon.

The mood is hardening, as is evident to anyone moving about the country. The view among citizens of widely varying rank and age is turning from skepticism and doubt over the administration's approach to one of sour conviction that it is only more of the same.

Taking out only 40,000 to 50,000 troops, many of them part of the top-heavy support structure, should do a lot to satisfy the moderates on the college campuses and isolate the extremists. It will be proof that an end fo the war is in sight even though complete withdrawal is clouded by doubts.

ON THE CAMPUSES the war is closely linked to the draft. Passage of the Nixon draft plan — a lottery with vulnerability concentrated on the 19-year-olds as against the present seven-year period between the ages of 19 and 25 — would lessen tensions. Educators on several campuses expressed the view that such a change in the law would ease pressures, since numbers of so-called students are merely sheltering in the ivied halls from the long arm of the draft. With no real interest in education, they are restless recruits for the determined disrupters.

With the end of the first half-year of the Nixon administration at hand, the sticky gradualism of the approach to the war carries over into domestic policy. The preoccupation with a balanced budget is cutting into programs to rebuild the cities and train the jobless. This is in contrast with reports of growing anger and defiance in the ghettos and the very real peril of another summer of violence.

TO WHAT DEGREE is the President himself to blame? The American tradition is to zero in on the man at the center of the target. He wanted the job, didn't he?

Yet an objective look at the rigidities of the system itself and the condition of America and the world suggests it may not be that simple. What if Hubert Humphrey had been president during the past five months? What if the tiny fraction of votes in four or five states had gone the other way?

President Humphrey would have sizable majorities of his own in both the Senate and the House. How useful these majorities would be, with their balky southern components, is questionable. The drive for economy, coupled with a distaste for past solutions, such as the poverty program, is deeply rooted in the Congress.

Humphrey would almost certainly have moved more vigorously and rapidly toward a settlement of the Vietnam war, although he would have faced the same risk of collapse and rout with precipitate action.

ON ONE FRONT where the Nixon administration's sticky gradualism has meant delay and perhaps failure, Humphrey was prepared to move quickly. With his long experience in nursing the test-ban and the nuclear nonproliferation treaties, Humphrey would certainly have given preparation for arms limitation talks with the Russians first priority. He would have moved those preparations to the highest level with the prod of urgency.

Attitudes are harderning on the right as well as the left and a cautious, deliberate Nixon may well believe, as his two comencement addresses seemed to indicate, that he can count on a strong reaction to sustain him. But that reaction will not solve the nation's problems.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

Series Of Incidents Shows Moral Decay Of College

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
Professor of Education
San Jose State College

The general moral tone of a college or university is determined by the institution's president. He selects the administrators subordinate to the office he holds, and he approves appointments to the teaching faculty. He passes on faculty promotion and tenure recommendations. Through these powers he can control the quality of the faculty.

Few college or university presidents, however, exercise the powers delegated to them by boards of trustees.

TO SHOW HOW a college president's attitudes and actions may tend to influence the moral standards on a college campus, a series of related decisions made by one president are offered as illustrations. Similar incidents, no doubt, could be documented on almost any college or university campus.

When the president of San Jose State College overruled his dean of faculties in May 1966, and promoted a faculty member who had admitted to his involvement in an on-campus student-faculty drinking scandal, he established the moral climate which would prevail during his administration. And, when a second participant in the campus drinking episode was later elevated by the president to an administrative post, the moral tone established became further apparent.

ON AUG. 7, 1967, a San Jose State College professor entered a plea of guilty to a morals charge in municipal court for San Jose-Milpitas-Alviso Judicial District. With full knowledge of this conviction, the president of the college promoted this faculty member and announced his advancement to a full professorship three months after the conviction.

Currently, a student who on March 6, 1969, was convicted on two counts of grand theft in Santa Clara County Superior Court sits with faculty members and administrators as a voting member of the college's academic council which is advisory to the college president. As a condition of his probation, the student, Grady F. Robertson, is "committed to the custody of the sheriff of Santa Clara County to serve consecutive weekends . . . for six cllendar months. . . ." Robertson, whose weekend jail term is still being served, was re-elected recently to a seat on the college's academic council by a vote of 625, which represents election by about ½ of one per cent of the school's total enrollment.

With administrative actions that either directly or indirectly influenced these incidents, and with the recent rehiring of the striking faculty goons who disrupted the instructional program for 37 days this year, is it surprising that the current academic term has culminated with one of the worst scandals in the 110-year history of San Jose State College?

THOUGH HE MAY have been unaware of the consequences of the role he played, Dr. Winfield Salisbury II, an assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, set the stage for the scandal when he requested use of an athletic practice field for the week end of May 23-25 to hold what the press has since termed a "be-in." The college authorities approved use of the facility by Salisbury and a group with which he reportedly is affiliated, the Institute for Research and Understanding.

The "be-in," which attracted several thousand student and off-campus participants, turned into an orgy which some veteran policemen termed the worst they had ever seen. San Jose police filed the following "be-in" related crime reports: one attempted murder, seven assaults with deadly weapons, one mass rape, two strongarm robberies, one grand theft, 42 arrests for narcotics, two attempted rapes, 15 auto thefts, and numerous cases of malicious mischief and petty theft.

While the full extent of the physical damage of the "be-in" may eventually be determined, the extent of the moral erosion and damage to the reputation of San Jose State College will never be known.

If Planning An Assassination, First Get A Literary Agent

"Well, I'm not one to blow my own horn."

"I've come to you for some advice. I am thinking of assassinating a major public figure, and I was wondering how much money I could make on it."

"It really depands on the victim. It it's a major-major public figure, there is quite a bit of money to be made. The families and lawyers of previous assassins have been paid hundreds of thousands of dollars."

"But I can't write."

"THAT'S NO problem. We can always find a writer to work with you. You sign an exclusive contract with him for your story and then we work out a split."

"First, there are the book rights. I know several publishers who are willing to go to six figures for the exclusive story written by an assassin. We'll keep the magazine rights separate. I'm sure I could get some very energetic bidding going from the periodicals, and I would estimate we could get into six figures there as well.

"After we make a magazine deal, we'll go for newspaper syndication. I'm certain I can create some interest there."

"WHAT ABOUT television?"

"We'll make a deal for television, but it will have to be on an exclusive deal. I don't want you appearing on every network for free. If you see a TV camera, clam up. In this way we can get a lot more money for an interview."

"Do you think you can get any companies to bid for the movie rights?"

"I should hope so, particularly if there is an element of mystery involved in the assassination. I think what you have to do is make many contradictory statements at your trial as James Earl Ray did. In that way the script writers will be able to write it in more dramatic terms."

"What else?"

"Don't overlook the overseas publication rights, as well as all your personal letters, which will certainly have value.

"Then there's your wife's story which can be sold separately, your mother's story, and we could make another book from your family album."

"GOSH, I WOULDN'T have thought of half those things."

"Of course, I must warn you that you won't get all the money. Your defense attorney will demand a large percentage of it. Then there's my commission, the expenses of research for your collaborator, and money we must pay to other people who have to give us clearances for using their names in the movie version."

"Still, there will be a lot left over for myself and my family, won't there?"

"Of course. You and your family could come out of this very comfortably."

"I didn't realize there was this much money to be made in assassinating somebody."

"Only in America."

Woman Claims Misquotation

Mrs. Donald A. Travis of San Rafael reported today that she was misquoted in Saturday's Independent-Journal account of her husband's seizure Thursday in Sausalito and subsequent transfer to Napa State Hospital.

Mrs. Travis said she had not meant that her husband had taken LSD, as reported, but that she thought some might have been slipped into wine he was drinking before being found at 300 Bridgeway, unconscious, rigid and cold to the touch.

Mrs. Travis said she was distraught at the time and now believes her husband, who has been despondent, was actually suffering the after-effects of medication.

Conditions At Hospital Held Poor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Aid Retarded Children Inc. of San Francisco says it will seek state money later this month to remedy what it describes as overcrowding, understaffing and other deficiencies at Sonoma State Hospital.

In support of a request to the Assembly's Ways and Means Committee for more funds, the parents' organization will be armed with a report by Dr. Gunnar Dybwad of Brandeis University.

Dybwad, former executive director of the National Association for Retarded Children, inspected Sonoma State Hospital last Nov. 18-19.

With him on the inspection team designated by the state Department of Mental Hygiene were Dr. Ivy Mooring, executive director of the Los Angeles County Council for Retarded Children, and Martha Adams of the University of California nursing school faculty.

Parts of their report were made public yesterday by attorney Quentin Kopp at a news conference called by Joseph Fogarty of San Francisco and Benton Siefert of Larkspur, who have children at the Sonoma hospital.

Kopp quoted Dybward's report as saying:

"Patients are herded into huge, barn-like wards bereft of any niceties of home and treated like and consequently behave like animals in a zoo...

"The principle of dignity of the individual is violated when he is stripped of all his clothes —when he has absolutely no vestige of privacy, even a shoe box which he can call his own...

"The wards that were visited at night were found to be poorly ventilated. They had the institution stuffiness and smell...

"There seemed to be a lack of funds to provide basic necessities for the care of patients. A deplorable situation existed in that there was a combination of inadequate linen supply and laundry service. This created a situation in which rags were used for drying material after patients' toileting, washing and bathing."

Kopp said that on behalf of the concerned parents he had to sue in San Francisco Superior Court to try to get Dybwad's report made public in time for use at the current session of the legislature.

Kopp said the report was promised March 31, but delayed for review by state authorities.

AN IDEA

Are you reading the Want Ads every day, hoping to spot a good buy? Then consider for a moment another way of doing the same thing which we think may be better.

It is a fact that often OUR best buys never get advertised at all. We have over $13 million in Marin property listed for sale at any one time, and naturally we can't advertise all we have for sale every day. And furthermore, we call OUR buyers BEFORE a property gets to the papers, and if it is what they want, it is sold before it is advertised at all!

So our suggestion is that you tell us what it is that YOU are looking for in Marin. Chances are we have it listed now, or if not, that we will have it listed soon, because we have a continuous flow of new listings from a backlog of FIFTY-NINE YEARS of selling here (relistings) as well as from our complete coverage with SIX MARIN COUNTY OFFICES.

As soon as we spot what you are looking for, WE WILL CALL YOU FIRST. BEFORE WE ADVERTISE THE PROPERTY. Become one of our buyers . . . call

Terra Linda Student Fund Aids Projects

It took the Student Body Association at Terra Linda High School three years to accumulate an excess of $5,500 in its reserve fund — but only a month to decide how to spend it.

The money piled up as a result of three prosperous football seasons. Early last month, James F. Plank, San Rafael schools superintendent, declared the excess had to be appropriated. Student body associations were not meant to be profit-making organizations, he said.

The student council was swamped with suggestions on how to spend the money after asking the staff and students for ideas.

The council has decided to spend the money this way:

To the athletic department for the organization and outfitting of two new teams in soccer and boys' gymnastics, $1,850.

For campus beautification with details to be decided by a student-staff committee following completion of street work near the school, $1,650.

To the music department, $700.

For the school newspaper operations, $650.

To the drama department to enable equipment previously rented to be purchased, $500.

Principal Frank Stocking said a previously stated excess of $8,500 was revised to $5,500 upon further study.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Altitude Changes May Cause Pain In Inner Ear, Sinuses

VAN DELLEN

Gas, trapped in a balloon, expands at high altitudes because the pressure of the surrounding air lessens. The balloon may double in size and will break when the wall stretches beyond its capacity.

Gases trapped within the intestine also expand, and unless they escape, the bowel may overdistend and is in danger of rupturing or becoming gangrenous.

THIS DOES NOT HAPPEN to gas in the normal gastrointestinal tract because it escapes in one way or another. However, when the bowel is obstructed or a hernia has slipped out and is stuck in its sac, these gases are trapped.

Gas also is a problem during the first two weeks after an abdominal operation. These factors should be taken into consideration by the convalescent who plans to travel by air.

Air in the middle ear tends to pass in and out via the eustachian tube. So long as the structure is open, the gases will escape after expanding due to changes in pressure. The same takes place with expanding air in the sinuses that escapes on ascending to a high altitude.

TRY TO IMGAINE what happens at high altitudes when a person has a cold and the escape routes are blocked. The air in the ear or in one or more of the sinuses begins to expand creating considerable tension within the cavities.

The pain from these disorders is most marked on returning to ground level and persists so long as the air is trapped. Deafness may co-exist when the ears are involved.

IF THE EARS or sinuses do not open spontaneously, a nose or ear specialist is needed. By not flying when a respiratory infection exists, this can be avoided. However, if air travel is necessary, nose drops containing a decongestant will keep the passageways open. Chewing gum or yawning helps to open the eustachian tubes.

A small bubble of air under the filling of a tooth can also produce severe pain if it expands. In order to obtain relief, the filling must be removed.

BLEEDING WHILE PREGNANT

A reader writes: Even if a woman menstruates, is there still a possibility she may be pregnant?

REPLY

Some pregnant women bleed, but when the flow is profuse, the chances of their remaining pregnant are practically nil. The exception occurs in tubal pregnanacy when the spotting begins two to four weeks after the first period is missed and lower abdominal pain develops. In this case, a lifesaving operation usually is necessary.

Another Co-Ed Found Murdered

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A pretty, unidentified young woman, shot, stabbed and sexually abused, is the latest victim in a chain of six slayings near this college town in 22 months.

Her mutilated body was discovered yesterday on an abandoned farm. Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey said it seemed probable she had met her fate at the hands of the same killer as the others. He added that no likely suspect had been sighted.

Since Aug. 7, 1967, the bodies of five other girls have been found within a seven-mile radius of Ann Arbor, home of the University of Michigan. Two of the victims were co-eds at Eastern Michigan University in nearby Ypsilanti and one was a student at the University of Michigan.

Owners Backing Tax Proposal

The Marin Estates Homeowners Association board endorses the proposal that residents of cities and fire districts be relieved of the tax obligation for funding the county's fire department to unincorporated and non-districted areas, president George R. Hebberd has reported.

The board also supports a proposal that the fire areas in the county fire department's jurisdiction be reconstituted so that people would pay for the fire protection they actually get.

Hebberd reported that Nancy Riley was appointed to fill the directorship of Mary Jane Lindberg who resigned.

Hearing Set On Sanity

Proceedings in the case of a 25-year-old San Anselmo man who claimed that his "angel dust" was the coming thing in narcotics were halted yesterday while his sanity is investigated.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court appointed two psychiatrists to examine William Olaf Hendrickson before he is sentenced.

Hendrickson pleaded guilty last week to possessing cocaine and LSD.

When arrested May 18 Hendrickson claimed that his chemically treated parsley was 30 times as powerful as marijuana. Chemists have not yet determined what is in the "angel dust."

Graduation Set Tomorrow Night

Graduating student Castroma Dickens of Marin City and school district board chairman Bruce E. Woelfel will be the speakers when 81 candidates are graduated from Martin Luther King School in Sausalito at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the school multipurpose room.

The graduating class will go on from the ceremony to a graduation dance at the Manzanita Center in Marin City. The class picnic was held Friday at the Town and Country Club in Fairfax.

Doctors Appointed To Examine Youth

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday appointed two doctors to examine Terrence Scott Borrman, 19, of Mill Valley to determine if he is a narcotics addict or in danger of becoming one.

Borrman had earlier admitted running a highway patrolman off Lucas Valley Road on March 27 while driving a stolen car. His case was continued until June 23.

The San Antonio Volunteer Fire Department will hold a chicken barbecue at noon Sunday on the Mazza-Pomi Ranch on the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, south of the Sonoma County line.

Elmo Garzelli, barbecue chairman, said food will be served all afternoon.

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee will consider an application from Alfred Barthel for a sign on the southeast corner of his restaurant, Senor Alfredo, at 115 San Anselmo Avenue at an 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow.

The committee will also review the design of a proposed roof for Mel R. Westenberg's parking deck at 36 Sunview Avenue.

To Observe Stars

The Star Observers of Marin will meet at the San Rafael Recreation Center Friday at 8 p.m. for an observing session. Sessions open to the public also are scheduled for June 26, at the recreation center, and July 3, when the group will travel to the East Bay.

Namath Voices Disappointment With Jets Bosses

STATELINE, Nev. (AP)—Joe Namath says he is "a little disappointed" with the New York Jets, the team that gave him $400,000 to sign a pro football contract.

Namath is now out of pro football, at least he announced his retirement last Friday rather than sell his interest in a New York City tavern.

Pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle said gamblers frequent the Bachelors III and ordered Namath to sell his one-third interest in the place or retire.

Namath said yesterday the Jets supplied him with a list of unsavory characters who frequented the bar two months ago but had made "no attempt to help since."

"I was a little disappointed," added the hero of the Jets 16-7 Superbowl win over the Baltimore Colts.

Namath was sitting in a Lake Tahoe casino, surrounded by newsmen and gamblers. "I did not do anything wrong," he said at least twice.

Only two questions put to the Jets Quarterback drew "no comment" replies from him:

Would he be interested in buying into one of Nevada's legal gaming operations? Has he asked a Las Vegas bank for a loan to finance buying a casino?

There had been a report that Namath was looking for such a loan.

Namath is in Nevada to play in the eighth annual Harrah's Invitational Golf Tournament. The same Bill Harrah who runs the tournament runs the largest gambling operation in the state.

Hughes, in addition to other things, owns more Nevada casinos than any other man.

Namath played a rain-soaked practice round yesterday. He was on the 15th hole when a press conference with him was about to begin.

He arrived an hour later clad in a windbreaker and mod fashion wide striped pants, and twirled a drink in his hands as he answered questions.

Namath said he contacted the district attorney's office about hiring an off duty investigator to work at his New York bar after the Jets' report of gamblers seen there. He did not say whether they ever hired the investigator.

Rozelle first contacted him about the bar last Tuesday, Namath said, and gave him 24 hours to sell.

Rozelle reconsidered last Wednesday and gave him a couple of extra days, Namath said.

"The first feeling I had was to sell. I talked with friends and my lawyers and decided it was not fair, not right," said Namath.

"I just want to know what I did wrong," he said. "The big problem is that I want to play football."

Reports that his decision to quit pro football could cost him up to $5 million dollars were accurate, Namath said.

Nothing has transpired since last Friday that would cause him to change his mind, Namath said. He indicated his future plans extend only as far as a movie in July.

Although he said he would like to talk to Rozelle, Namath held little hope such conversation would be profitable. "I do not expect him to budge an inch," said Namath.

Namath said he had talked with many of his teammates and they supported his decision. He said he hoped some of them would reconsider their threats to quit if he does not return.

Russ Dillon May Pitch Against No. 1 Draftee

The selection of Russell King Dillon to the Northern California All-Star squad will place the talented Novato High southpaw pitcher in some pretty talented company at the North-South Cal High School baseball classic at Candlestick Park June 21.

Of course, you can turn that around by saying the other graduating senior all-stars from throughout the state will be in some pretty talented company in Mr. Dillon whose credentials speak for themselves. The stylish Novatan won 13 of 14 decisions this spring, was 8-0 without yielding an earned run in pitching Novato to the Marin County Athletic League championship and, while working eight innings for runner-up Novato in the recent Tournament of Champions, struck out 19 batters, again without a run against him. A switch hitter, he also bats with authority.

Scouted By Ted Williams

At Candlestick, Dillon will have the opportunity to test his slants against America's premier prep, outfielder Jeffrey Burroughs of Long Beach, the number one choice in last week's major league player draft. The Washington Senators, getting the first shot at the more than 1,170 draftees, tabbed Master Burroughs who was scouted personally by none other than Manager Ted Williams.

The North team, to be managed by Al Endriss of Redwood High School and Jim Keating of St. Ignatius in San Francisco, will have a pair of high draft choices in Len Baxley of Anderson, near Redding, No. 1 Detroit pick, and Stan Tapi of Fresno, a No. 2 selection.

In American Legion Ball

Meanwhile, Dillon is keeping in shape for the North-South game by playing for the Novato American Legion Post in junior league competition and will be on the mound this Saturday in a game against Napa at Novato High, 5 p.m.

Over the weekend, playing outfield, Dillon cracked five hits in a pair of Novato victories over Dixon and Vallejo. Other Novato stars were pitchers Steve McNally and Mike Timmel, supported by strong hitting from Mark Newson, Dee Fedrick, Barry Berringer, Gary Trono and Glenn Holsclaw. The team is managed by Gene Ferretti.

Willard Batting Only .238

OUTFIELDER Nick Willard of Novato, playing for the Bakersfield Dodgers in the California League, is batting .238 at last report while southpaw Bill Lee of Terra Linda is now 4-2 won-lost for the Pittsfield, Mass. Red Sox of the Double A Eastern League, losing his latest outing. Still, Lee has a great 1.89 earned run average in 57 innings on the mound, having yielded 39 hits while walking 26 and striking out 37.

THOMAS W. THOMAS IV, who went from Novato High to Menlo J.C., is now ticketed for Washington State University where he should help the Cougar baseball team.

Hurler Chris Short Out For The Season

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pitcher Chris Short of the Philadelphia Phillies will undergo surgery here this week and will be out for the remainder of the season, a spokesman for the National Baseball League Club said today.

A club spokesman said the 31-year-old lefthander who led the team with a 19-13 record last season would enter Temple University Hospital Thursday or Friday for removal of a herniated disc in the lumbar region of his back.

Dr. Frederick Murtagh, a neurosurgeon who operated on the Phillies Bobby Wine last May for the same problem, was to perform the operation.

Short, who has been on the disabled list since April 21, pitched twice this season but was not involved in a decision.

He had entered the hospital May 9 for therapy and was discharged May 30. He re-entered the hospital for two days last week and was to have made the West Coast trip with the team June 5. However, his back continued to give him trouble and he remained in Philadelphia.

Giants Vs. Mets Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie McCovey and his aching right hip have had one day to rest up and the San Francisco Giants now hope their big first baseman is ready to help them gain a measure of revenge on the New York Mets.

The Mets, working on a club record winning streak of 10 straight, open a two-game series tonight in Candlestick Park. Three of those victories came over the unsuspecting Giants recently in New York.

FIVE STRAIGHT

Since then the Giants have put together a five-game winning streak of their own, one that has carried them to within three games of the Atlanta Braves, who lead the National League's West Division.

While McCovey took yesterday off, the Giants journeyed down the Peninsula to Santa Clara where they beat the University of Santa Clara Broncos 6-4 in an exhibition game.

HOME RUNS

Dave Marshall and Ken Kenderson both hit homers of about 370 feet to right field against the Broncos and Rich Robertson, who went seven innings, was the winning pitcher.

Catcher Dick Dietz raised a few eyebrows when he pitched in the eighth inning for the Giants. Joe Gibbon finished up. Vince Bigone, Alvin Strain and Jim Silvestrini drove in runs for Santa Clara.

Shuffling A's Up Against Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Oakland Athletics, who have players coming and going all the time, open a three-game series against the Washington Senators here tonight.

Joining the club here today was Joe Rudi, who has been hitting .395 with 59 runs batted in at the A's Des Moines, Iowa, American Association farm team.

TO BIRMINGHAM

Optioned back to Birmingham of the Southern League, where he came from less than two weeks earlier, was rookie catcher Gene Tenace, who had managed just two hits in 15 trips to the plate with the A's.

Rejoining the Athletics over the weekend was Ramon Webster, who was sent down to the minors in favor of Jose Tartabull. Manager Hank Bauer decided to take another look at Webster when Tartabull failed to hit in nine trips to the plate, most of them as a pinch hitter.

HOTTEST RUMOR

Hottest rumor in the A's camp at the moment is the one that would have pitcher Lew Krausse traded to another club, perhaps for a relief pitcher.

Krausse, 0-3, has appeared almost entirely in relief this year, despite the fact that he is probably more effective as a starter.

Hunter, 4-3, pitches against the Athletics tonight while Joe Coleman, 3-5, goes for Washington.

Recreation Softball

Cal's Steak House defeated Wright's 6-1, Cliff's Chevron routed the Harding Gophers 16-2 and the Doves edged Pepsi Cola 7-3 last night in the San Rafael Recreation Department Softball League at Albert Field.

A TIP FROM THE TOP

New York Mets outfielder, Cleon Jones, whose .353 batting average is second in the National League, gave some batting tips to 14-year-old Chubby Hall of Marin City yesterday during a visit to the Boys Club of Southern Marin. Looking on is Manny Chandler, director of the club. Jones, whose torrid hitting has sparked the Mets to 10 consecutive victories, will lead the New Yorkers against the Giants tonight in Candlestick Park in the opening of a two-game series. North Prep Stars Roster Announced

A 16-man roster that includes southpaw pitcher Russ Dillon of Novato was announced today to represent the North against the South in the first California High School All-Star Baseball Game at San Francisco's Candlestick Park June 21.

The squad, selected by co-managers Al Endriss of Redwood High School in Larkspur and Jim Keating of San Francisco's St. Ignatius High School from nominations submitted by sports writers throughout the area, includes four pitchers, six infielders, four outfielders and two catchers. All the players are graduating seniors in the game sponsored by the California Police Activities League and patterned after the annual North-South football classic in Los Angeles.

The North roster:

CATCHERS — Ron Dyson, Oakland Tech; Emery Mitchell, Encina (Sacramento).

Bert Yancey Declares He's Ready This Time

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Bert Yancey, who blows the big ones, says it's just a matter of growing up and he believes he's mature enough now to win the Open.

"I've changed a lot since last year," the tall, blond ex-West Pointer added today in recalling how he led through the first three rounds of the U.S. Open Golf championship a year ago at Oak Hill in Rochester, N.Y., only to finish third, six strokes back of the winner, Lee Trevino.

GIVEAWAY

"Lee wanted to win more than I did," he added. "I have a strange feeling out on the course in that final round. I didn't think I was worthy to be Open champion. So you might say I gave it away."

The year before, in 1967, Yancey opened with a 67 in the Masters for a three-stroke lead, still led by a shot after the second round and tied after 54. He shot a final round 73 and finished third behind the late-charging Gay Brewer, Jr.

"It was the same thing," Yancey explained while tuning up for the Open starting Thursday over the Champions Club's Cypress Creek Course. "I just couldn't visualize myself being in a class with the greats who had won the event. I talked myself out of it."

IN AWE

The 30-year-old Floridian acknowledged that he had been in awe of such giants as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Bill Casper—but no more.

"I've won five tournaments on the tour now," he said. "This year I've already won around $50,000, my best year yet, and have a tournament title (Atlanta). Palmer and Nicklaus aren't playing as well. So my attitude has changed.

"I have convinced myself that if anyone can win this Open, I can.

"I'm over that feeling of unworthiness. I think a lot of the fellows on the tour are. That's

AVERY OVERRULED

There'll Still Be Olympics Skiing

WARSAW (AP) — New rules created by the International Ski Federation (FIS) that allow skiers to receive expense money and appear in advertisements under certain conditions have been endorsed by the International Olympic Committee.

In a statement issued yesterday after its annual meeting, the IOC said it "welcomed" recent steps taken by the FIS to control eligibility of skiers in the Winter Games.

EXPENSE MONEY

The new FIS rules ban skiers from competing for money but permit them to receive expense money and pay for time lost from work. They also allow skiers to appear in advertisements if they receive permission from their national federations.

The IOC also rebuffed Avery Brundage, its 82-year-old president from Chicago, by shelving his demands that two Winter Games champions return their gold medals.

Brundage had demanded the return of all Alpine skiing medals won in the 1968 games because of alleged commercialism. He specifically mentioned Canada's Nancy Greene Raine and Jean-Claude Killy of France.

In Montreal, Mrs. Raine, former World Cup skiing champion, said she thought the new rule to permit financial aid was good. She said the action to shelve demands for return of the gold medals did not affect her. She said her name was used by Brundage but the IOC never named her officially.

The nine-page IOC report recommended:

—That the Winter Games be continued.

—That the Winter Games be limited to 10 days, plus opening day.

--That opening and closing ceremonies be simplified.

—That no new events be added and that no sports be transferred from the Summer Games.

ADDITIONAL DAY

Munich was given 16 days to stage the 1972 Summer Games, one more than normally allowed. Slalom canoeing was approved as a new event.

Under the new FIS rules, each nation's ski federation will make its own rules, including a decision on the type and make of skis to be used by all its competitors.

IOC members privately voiced their opinion that "Warsaw has not brought to an end yet the skiing question. It looks like we will have to deal with it for a long time."

Gene's Agent Calls 49er Offer 'Insult'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Flanker Gene Washington of Stanford has hired an agent to conduct contract talks with the San Francisco 49ers.

Agent Chuck DeKeado of Los Angeles said yesterday he has turned down an $80,000 package over three years for Washington, second draft choice of the 49ers.

"They want a $50 receiver for a million dollar quarterback (John Brodie," said DeKeado. "This is an insult to Gene."

Jack White, general manager of the 49ers said, "We feel we have made Gene a fair and reasonable offer. We feel negotiations will be consummated to everyone's satisfaction."

If Washington fails to sign a contract with San Francisco, DeKeado said he probably would ink a one-year pact with entertainer Bill Cosby for filming commercials for Cosby's company.

HERB MICHELSON

A New Puppet Show In Oakland Coliseum

OAKLAND — The incessant puppet show with A's personnel these past two weeks proves that owner Charles O. Finley (1) is convinced hurry-up patchwork here and there will ultimately bring a 1969 pennant, or (2) is panicked because the club isn't playing much better than .500 ball, or (3) both.

In a two-week period, the Oakland front office dumped three fellows to the minors, cut one completely and sold a fifth to Seattle. To replace them,five lads were promoted from the pastures of Des Moines and Birmingham.

THERE IS GOOD reason to believe that manager Hank Bauer knew nothing about at least two of these personnel shifts—although he'll say nothing about what he knew or didn't know. But Bauer has worked for Finley before and is aware that the owner operated with remote independence. It would be nice, though, at least for handshaking purposes, for the manager to hear about new faces before seeing them.

In all of 1968, save for the arrival of the kids in the final few weeks of the season, the A's made few changes in personnel. Finley stodd pat with his kids, who were judged to be in a learning year.

NOT SO IN '69. The owner is certain he has a pennant contender and is not abiding stand-patness.

Yet, the juggling act seems odd. Ramon Webster was sent down earlier in the year for Jose Tartabull — both to be used, ostensibly, as left-handed pinch hitters. Webster had been performing nicely in that task but was farmed to Iowa anyway. Tartabull contributed little and, over the weekend, was sent to Iowa. Whom should he meet in mid-flight but Webster.

WHILE AT Des Moines, onetime first baseman Webster worked in the outfield with the notion he'd have a better chance of playing with the A's in the outfield than behind durable Danny Cater at first. So much for the mitigating circumstances of that strange shuttling act.

How about the grabbing of a fourth catcher, one Federico Velazquez, whom the A's dumped on the expansion draft only a few months previously? Even Seattle didn't want Velazquez. But Finley may be planning to form an all-catcher bridge team.

HE ALSO YEARNS to rehire Diego Segui, another draft expendable last fall. Segui is a more consistent reliever than anyone in the A's bullpen now but was considered too old by management and grabbed by Seattle.

George Lauzerique was excellent in spring training but farmed out the day before the season opened to make room for ex-Athletic John Wyatt, who's as ancient as Segui but may have represented a Segui substitute in Finley's eyes.

And so who is given an outright release when Lauzerique is finally recalled? John Wyatt of course.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Profitable Fishing Trip And Rooms Get Painted

Did you ever go fishing to get your house painted? Well, daughter Marylu said she wanted to paint our kitchen and living room, and for us to go for a trip. So spouse Mary and I took off for the Sierra's.

We decided to first try Webber Lake in Sierra County for old times sake! I guess I've fished Webber for 30 years. Upon arrival, lots of discussion took place with Bob and Aileen Wise who run the resort on the lake. Before the discussion was over, we had bought some "special" Webber Lake salmon eggs and some nite crawlers.

I SAID WE wanted some fish for a dinner because I had talked Norman and Georgia Quadros of Mill Valley into coming up, but mostly I had guaranteed Georgia that she would catch her first trout for sure. She's been fishing Rodeo Lagoon in Southern Marin County for a month, and I felt she deserved something better! Anyway, it would be good to have a string of fish to show them upon their arrival.

As we left Bob's cabin, he said, "Dont worry if you don't catch any. I brought you up a Mackinaw from Tahoe." That shook me — if he had to give us a fish then things might be bad around here.

WELL, MARY and I tried different spots around the lake without even a hit. About 6 p.m. we came in and had dinner, and we were still so sure we'd get some fish for the Quadroses that we fileted the Mackinaw and ate it. It was excellent!

The wind had been blowing during the afternoon, but in the evening it stopped, so I tried fishing in front of the cabin. The first darned hit broke my two-pound test line, but I finally caught about a nine-inch brook. That was it for the evening. Bob trolled around and caught a 14-inch rainbow, so I had two fish as a starter.

The next morning, Mary and I drove over to Davis Lake in Piumas County, about 50 miles from Webber. I guess we got there about 11 a.m. Most of the people there had near-limits by this time. They all said it was best to fish early before the wind came up at noon. The lake is about three miles long and one mile wide, and boats are permitted.

IT IS DEEP off the shoreline and most people use salmon eggs fishing from the banks. There is no charge, and you are pretty much on your own. Mary and I caught six rainbows from 10 to 14 inches. The fish were red meated, and in top shape, and put up a good fight. We fished casually about three hours, and then drove back to Webber.

We now had eight respectable fish, and waited for the Quadroses to arrive. Saturday morning all four of us tried Webber using bait, and finally Georgia caught an eight-inch rainbow. You know what she said? "Okay now. Take me in!" I'm beginning to believe she's the dutiful wife type. Norm, Mary and I finished out the day catching three limits of mixed trout, three browns, five brooks, and the remainder rainbows. The limit on trout at Webber is five. Saturday night we went to Reno, and won a little. We arrived home at Woodacre Sunday with 14 trout, and a painted house interior that looked professionally done. I think we've got it made!

BEFORE LEAVING Webber, I asked Bob Wise how he fished Lake Tahoe. It sounded interesting! For Machinaws, he used a rod with roller guides and tip, and over 1000 feet of monel line trolling on the bottom which is 300 feet deep at the hot spots. The baits used are six to eight-inch rough fish from the lake, usually chubs or suckers. Mackinaws run from two to 30 pounds.

The rainbows are taken at the dropoffs at the edge of the green water where the blue begins to show. Troll with 200 yards of line out, usually monofiliment, no sinker, and a flatfish, rebel, etc. as the lure. The rainbows are all about 18 inches long, and really put up a fight. The reason for the 200 yards of line is that the clearness of the water causes the fish to spook from the boat.

Lolich Fans 16, Tigers Lose Game

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mickey Lolich passed out cigars to his Detroit teammates to celebrate the birth of his second daughter, then gave the Seattle Pilots practically nothing. But the Pilots still got the last laugh.

Joyce Lolich presented the Tiger left-hander with daughter No. 2 yesterday morning. Lolich gave Seattle 16 strikeouts last night, but the Pilots spoiled things by handing Detroit a 3-2 loss in 10 innings.

Lolich did give Seattle something, and it was costly—a lead-off homer to Dick Simpson. He then struck out 16 through seven innings and yielded just three more hits, through nine, but the Tigers could get only one run off Seattle's Marty Pattin—and that came on Lolich's RBI single in the fifth.

OFF DOBSON

Seattle won it off Pat Dobson, who came on after Lolich was lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth.

In other action, Boston topped Minnesota 5-3, Kansas City trounced the New York Yankees 7-1 and Cleveland took the Chicago White Sox 5-1 in the American League while Cincinnati downed the Chicago Cubs 4-1 in the only National League contest.

It was the second 16-strikeout performance, high in the majors this year and Detroit record, for Lolich, who was making his first start since being hit on his left, or pitching, forearm by a line drive in a game against Oakland May 27. He struck out 16 in a 6-3 victory over California May 23.

TIES RECORD

Pattin, 6-4, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the Seattle 10th, struck out nine and the total of 25 for nine innings tied the record for an American League night game.

Boston built up a 5-1 lead, mainly on the strength of a two-run homer by Carl Yastrzemski, his 14th, and a solo shot by Rico Petrocelli, his 20th.

Joe Pepitone's 17th homer in the second inning gave the Yankees an early lead, but Kansas City, which had lost four straight and 10-of-11, wrapped up the victory with five runs in the fifth.

KEY HIT

The big inning was keyed by ex-Yank Ellie Rodriquez' three-run homer.

Cincinnati snapped the Cubs' seven-game winning streak as Bob Tolan doubled twice and scored twice. One of his doubles was a drag bunt which got between first baseman Ernie Banks and second baseman Nate Oliver.

Miss Pigeon, winning her second round match, defeated Mrs. Shirley Brasher of England 6-3, 9-7, while Miss Tuero trimmed Miss G. C. Dove of South Africa 6-2, 6-4 in the first round.

Joe Yancey To Coach U.S. Spikers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joe Yancey, cofounder of the New York Pioneer Club, was named yesterday as head coach of the U.S. track and field team that will meet Russia and the British Commonwealth.

That international competition will be held at the Los angeles Memorial Coliseum July 18-19.

28 YEARS

Selection of Yancey, a Negro, was announced at a meeting of the Southern California Track Writers Association by Hilmer Lodge, chairman of the track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Yancey, 56, organized the Pioneer Club 28 years ago and has been its coach ever since. He has also coached many national teams including those of Jamaica, Trinidad, Ceylon and the Bahamas.

PROTEGES

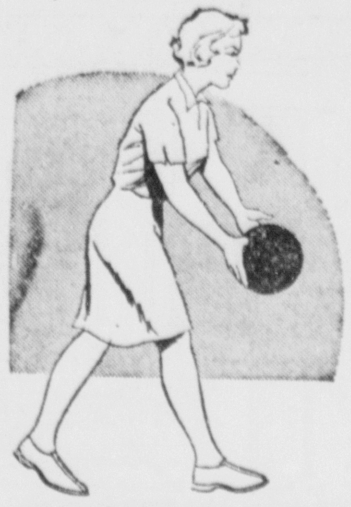
Two of his recent proteges are sprinter John Carlos and world long jump record-holder Bob Beamon. Both went to New York city schools and trained with the Pioneer club.

In 1952, Yancey coached the Jamaican 1,600-meter relay team of Arthur Wint, Les Laing, Herb McKenley and George Rhoden that set an Olympic record of 3 minutes 3.9 seconds.

Yancey has worked for the U.S. Internal Revenue Service for 28 years.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



When the thumb comes out of the ball first and the fingers "lift" the ball slightly, count on plenty of ball spin. If the fingers are to be in a proper position to deliver this spin, they must stay behind the ball throughout the backswing and downswing.

Cooper Captures Boxing Title

Cooper floored McCoy with a left hook to the chin in the 12th round for the only knockdown of the fight. McCoy arose at the count of eight.

Referee Tony Bosnich scored it 10-2 while Judge Elmer Costa voted 8-3 and Judge Johnny Lotsey 9-2.

Cooper's record is now 14-1-1 while McCoy is 11-3.

BRITISH AMATEUR

16-Year-Old Phenom Could Provide Upset

HOYLAKE, England (AP) — Dale Hayes, 16-year-old South African whom Gary Player rates one of the finest up and coming amateurs in the business, went into the second round of the British Amateur Golf Championship today and said:

"I hope I do well because Gary has arranged for me to play in an American junior tournament at San Diego in August."

The 6-foot-3, 201-pound South African from Pretoria defeated Ralph Schlicht of Madison, Wis., 5 and 4, yesterday.

Many experts at these links on the edge of the Irish Sea think that Hayes, who hits the ball a mile, could provide the big upset of the week in this championship first played over this 6,950-yard, par 36-36—72 layout in 1885.

Twenty-five Americans are still chasing the title, including former American Walker Cuppers Bill Hyndman III of Philadelphia, Bob Gardnerof Beverly Hills and Dale Morey of High Point, N.C.

Morey, 50, won his opening match yesterday with a 9 and 8 victory over Bill Castleman of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., and Gardner, 48, defeated Ivor Thomas, England, 4 and 2.

Hyndman, Gardner and Morey—plus other Americans in the field—hope to do well here in the hope of grabbing a spot on the U.S. Walker Cup team.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes It Takes Transfer For Key Ruff In The Dummy

In some hands you have a loser in dummy's short suit and therefore plan to ruff that loser with one of dummy's trumps. In other hands, however, you must transfer dummy's shortage from one suit to another before you can gain anything by ruffing in the dummy.

GAIN NOTHING

You win today's first trick with the ace of hearts, noting that you gain nothing by ruffing your third heart in dummy because all of your hearts are natural winners. But if you abandon the idea of ruffing anything in dummy you will eventually lose three diamonds and one club.

Your best course iy to run the three winning hearts at once in order to discard a diamond from the dummy. Then you can plan to ruff a diamond instead of a heart in the dummy.

FEEL NERVOUS?

You feel nervous about taking the three hearts before drawing trumps, but it is even more dangerous to draw trumps first. If you couldn't ruff a diamond in dummy your contract would depend on winning a trick with the king of diamonds. Your chances would be poor since West almost surely has the ace of diamonds as side strength for his overcall on a topless heart suit.

WRONG SIDE

After you have taken your three hearts you would dearly like to begin the diamonds by leading from the dummy toward your king, but you cannot afford to get to dummy with a trump for this purpose. The opponents would win the first diamond and lead a second trump; and then West would win the second diamond to lead a third trump, thus removing the last trump from the dummy.

After you have won the first three heart tricks, you must lead a low diamond from your own hand. If the opponents return a trump, you give up another diamond. They return a second trump, but now you can lead your last diamond, ruffing in the dummy.

DAILY QUESTION

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not quite worth an opening bid. If you had a sixth heart instead of one of the low cards in spades or diamonds, you could open the bidding with one heart.

Budget Is Due Another Hearing

The board also will discuss whether continued weekly meetings on the two topics are still needed.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, June 10, the 161st day of 1969 with 204 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars ar Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1898 United Statse Marines began the invasion of Cuba in the Spanish-American War.

In 1940 Italian dictator Benito Mussolini declared war on France and Britain.

In 1942 the German Gestapo burned the tiny Czechoslovakian village of Lidice after shooting 173 men and deporting women and children to concentration camps.

In 1967 the Soviet Union broke diplomatic relations with Israel after Israel announced a major victory over Syria as both Mideast nations accepted a United Nations ceasefire.

A thought for the day: Aesop said: "Self conceit may lead to self-destruction."

Stocks Hit Again With Big Decline

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks tumbled again today with the major losses coming in the final half hour after Treasury Secretary David Kennedy warned that the Nixon administration will have to consider price and wage controls if Congress fails to renew the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

The market opened with prices easier in moderate trading and were narrow down to the final half hour. Gold mining shares were strong during the early trading on news of higher gold prices in London and Paris. Drug company shares were up, too, with Merck advancing on the announcement it had obtained the first license to make a new vaccine against German measles.

Among the blue chips, Sohio made a big mid-day gain. The stock rose more than 20 last week as traders figured Sohio shareholders stood to get the best bargain out of the proposed merger with BP Oil.

The gold mining shares, led by American South African, Campbell Red Lake and Homestake remained strong in the late afternoon decline. But most other sections of the list declined substantially. In the specialties and electronics morning fractional losses were extended to 1 to 4 points. Early losses in oils also deepened.

Steels, motors, chemicals, rails, airlines and aircrafts remained narrow pretty much to the final bell, mostly off fractions with a few plus signs.

NASA Contracts

SILVER SPRING, Md. (UPI) — Computer Applications, Inc., has obtained two contracts totaling $5 million from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) for three years of programming services.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Family-Run Firms Have Good Records

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have $35,000 in the bank at 5 per cent, am 70 years old and working. I am worried about what inflation is doing to my savings. Should I switch my savings into stocks? — E. N.

A. You are right in worrying about your capital; inflation is eating it up at a 4 per cent annual rate. While I would not advise liquidating all your savings, a modest commitment — amounting to 25 per cent of your capital — in common stocks would be a very wise move. Two lesser-known companies which have commendable growth records, Reece Corp. and Taylor Wine, should continue to move ahead with the economy.

Reece, a Massachusetts-based manufacturer, serves the apparel industry. The company produces buttonhole, pocket-making and other specialized sewing machines which are leased and sold to foreign and domestic clothing makers. In the first quarter of 1969 earnings rose 36 per cent to 44 cents a share on a 24 per cent increase in sales.

Taylor, a New York wine maker, sells under its name as well as the Great Western label. In spite of increased taxes, both federal and state, equal to 29 cents a share, nine months earnings through March rose 10 per cent to $2.32 a share.

Both companies are family-run and in the latter case the Taylor family controls 49 per cent of the stock.

Q. I bought Grove Press at 13 and it went to 35. Should I hold? — N. N.

A. Grove Press has been a speculative favorite ever since the shares went public at $7 in 1967. The company publishes a diversified list of books including textbooks, mass circulation paperbacks and quality paperbacks. Movie distribution rights, a book club and a monthly literature review are other areas of operation. Several flamboyant book and movie titles have proved to be lucrative and created a strong specualtive interest in the shares. First-quarter earnings jumped to 16 cents a share from 4 cents in 1968. Sales were up 40 per cent to $2.3 million. Hold.

$500,000 Seat

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Stock Exchange has announced a seat sale for $500,000, unchanged from a previous sale. Big board memberships currently are quoted at $475,000 bid, $515,000 asked.

Senior Citizens Win Help At Budget Talks

Marin Senior Coordinating Council won a $15,579 county appropriation yesterday by unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, as County Administrator Alan Bruce, who had been hewing the hard line, threw in the towel.

An imposing array of speakers pleaded for the $15,000 county aid to support a $40,000 volunteer program for senior citizens in Marin County. Speakers Ernest N. Kettenhofen, president of the Senior Coordinating Council; vice president Vera L. Schultz; executive director Edwin T. Ryken, and secretary Lucille Hodgen were backed by a delegation of elderly citizens, who argued that the program would die without the funds for coordination and leadership.

Veteran Supervisor William A. Gnoss warned that "it will be the greatest mistake" if the request were denied.

Administrator Bruce, who had recommended that the amount be cut to $1,400, the same as this year, ducked his head slightly and announced: "I yield on this one."

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, said "I am happy that Mr. Bruce has decided to give up."

Looking down at Bruce and his staff, Chairman John F. McInnis chuckled: "That heart of stone sitting out there has melted."

The appropriation brought resounding applause from the audience, and the supervisors looked pleased, even though at that point the indicated tax rate rose to a new high of $2.504.

The other requests yesterday did not fare as well, and by nightfall, the anticipated tax rate for next year had dropped one mill, to $2.503.

Fair-Marin Incorporated, which will operate the Veterans Memorial Auditorium and 80-acre fairground, took a trimming.

Fair-Marin president Harold Stockstad and directors asked for a 1969-70 budget of $98,280, which the administrator had cut to $88,780.

Supervisors cut the $7,500 vehicle and equipment maintenance replacement fund and other items. They agreed with Bruce that $4,500 for dedication of the auditorium should be dropped. Total appropriation for Fair-Marin came to $75,250.

A coordinator for youth activities, sought by both the Youth Commission Formation Committee and the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission, brought supervisors agreement. They asked the county administrator to come back with specific recommendations tomorrow or Thursday.

Other Budget Actions By The Supervisors:

PARKS AND RECREATION — Granted two new employees of four requested and approved a total budget of $711,166, as compared with $553,144 this year. Of the total, $232,871 is a carryover from capital outlay funds unspent this year. A $25,000 outlay for a bicycle trail from the Golden Gate Bridge into Sausalito was left in the budget.

GENERAL INSURANCE — Net cost for next year will be $119,017, compared with this year's $64,517. Most of the increase is for the new Hall of Justice, and $3,100 is to insure huge glass windows above the entrance to the Hall of Justice. The administrator said one big glass would cost $900 to $1,000 to replace.

PURCHASING DEPARTMENT — $35,976, compared with this year's $32,603.

CENTRAL MAIL — $100,433, compared with this year's $92,046. The new budget includes a $7,500 increase because of the expected raise in first class mail postage from 6 cents to 7 cents next year.

BOND INTEREST, REDEMPTION — $451,430, compared with $446,562 for this yar.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT — $67,500, compared with $67,838 this year, with the bulk going to the County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and for regional, cultural and special events.

MISCELLANEOUS — $95,500, compared with $53,218 this year. Most of the increase is in overtime costs, and $19,300 to assume financial commitments of the Bolinas Harbor District, which is in the process of dissolution. Supervisors rejected a $42,706 request by the Sausalito School District, which sought the subsidy because the district serves a low-rent government housing project in Marin City.

Annual Reports

The Marin County Comprehensive Health Planning Council, Inc. will receive reports from its nominating, finance, by-laws and planning committees at its 8 p.m. meeting Thursday in the Coral Room of Marin General Hospital.

Home Looted Of Stereo, Jewels

Three burglaries were reported during the weekend, San Rafael police said yesterday.

Shirley Ann Avner of 9 Esmeyer Street, San Rafael, told police someone took a stereo, jewelry, and a clock radio, valued at $630, from her home at approximately 3:30 p... Saturday.

A clock, pictures and two stereo speakers, valued at $144, were taken from the apartment of William G. Banghart, 45 Woodland Avenue, sometime during the night Saturday, police said.

Burglars took a portable television, a portable radio, food and several blue chip stamp books, valued at $170, from the home of Virginia W. Schuyten, 204 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael, between 8 p.m. Saturday and 12:45 p.m. yesterday, police said.

Reactionary Teens Studied

NEW YORK (UPI)—A survey in the current issue of Fortune magazine reveals that young adults who are critical of society are most likely to be the children of permissive, college-educated, upper-income parents.

However the survey conducted by pollster Daniel Yankelovich shows that only 1 per cent of young Americans are revolutionaries and only 10 per cent could be classified as radical dissidents.

Reporting that almost 90 per cent of America's youth believe that reform should be sought through legitimate channels before they are sought through disruptions, the survey rated 23 per cent as reformers; 48 per cent as moderates, and 19 per cent as conservatives.

Leg Is Broken In Auto Accident

A Petaluma youth was injured jured Saturday at 3:30 p.m. when the car in which she was riding overturned on Highway 1, south of Bodega.

Karen Hughes, 21, of 205 Sunnyslope Avenue, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a broken right leg. The California Highway Patrol said the car, driven by her husband, Leonard Hughes, 22, overturned when the trailer it was pulling began to whip.

Planning Criticized But Budget Unscathed

Marin County Planning Department's $419,200 budget for next year, up from this year's $410,097, survived unscathed a withering blast from two supervisors yesterday.

On a motion by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and a second by Supervisor Michael Wornum, the planning department budget won unanimous approval, with the understanding that Planning Director Paul C. Zucker would define his planning programs more specifically and set up a completion timetable for the programs.

The supervisors also approved another $58,331, up from this year's $39,921, for the balanced transportation program administered by the planning department.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who tried to fire Zucker earlier this year, levelled the strongest criticism against the planning department budget.

"I feel that the budget is too high and there's too much personnel," said Baar. He charged that the departent has spent a half million dollars on advance planning during the past three years. "For a half million dollars, what has been accomplished?" he asked.

Zucker listed the various general plans such as the West Marin Plan, San Geronimo Plan, Fairfax Plan, Novato and North Novato Plan, and other studies like Route 17 and transportation.

Barr said the planning department's plans are too vague, and the results cannot be pinned down.

Zucker in turn charged that Baar's mention of the half million dollars for advance planning is vague, and if the amount were broken down into components, he would be able to justify each component. Zucker said most of the planning programs were undertaken at the request of the supervisors, planning commission and the City-County Planning Council.

Chairman John F. McInnis acknowledged that planning is important, but he wanted the planning department to show, with specific definition of programs the time schedules, why it is worth $400,000.

County Administrator Alan Bruce suggested that the planning department could come back with a report on specific projects and timetables, and the supervisors could then set up priorities.

Baar said he would go for the budget under conditions outlined by Bruce.

Human Rights Commission Gets Police Work Grant

The Marin County Human Rights Commission has recieved a $57,000 grant from the San Francisco Foundation to launch a police-community relations program, Austin J. Thompson, executive director of the commission, announced yesterday.

The grant, which is contingent upon approval of a $173,691 grant to the commission under the federal Safe Streets and Crime Control Act of 1968, is for one year and represents the county's "in-kind" contribution to the first year of the program.

The regional criminal justice advisory board of the Association of Bay Area Governments is due to take up the Marin commission's grant application at a special meeting in Berkeley on June 26.

Thompson, in announcing the grant, said the proposed three-stage community relations program would "make police-community relations in Marin County an example for the rest of the nation."

The program would provide in-service training for police, recruitment and training of police cadets for ancillary duties and community education programs.

Pleads Innocent

Daniel Alan Wynns, 18, of Novato pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of possessing marijuana and having an open can of beer in his car when arrested March 18 on Highway 101. A jury trial was set for the week of Sept. 22 in Marin Superior Court.

Dates Set For Horse Event

Dates for the two-part junior horse mastership eliminations of the California State Horsemen's Association were announced today by Dale Prince, secretary of Region 1 of the California State Horsemen's Association.

The written test will be given at 7 p.m., July 18 at the Sonoma County Driving and Riding clubhouse in Santa Rosa. The riding and grooming test will be given at 9 a.m. July 26 at the Chris Beck arean at Santa Rosa, Mrs. Prince said.

Further information may be obtained from Stanley K. Gobbin of 2660 Vineyard Road, Novato, president of region 1 of the association.

Conservers Set Visit To Duxbury Reef

A field trip to examine the potential of Duxbury Reef as a marine reserve will begin at 6 a.m. Saturday on the reef, led by Gordon C. Cahn and Alfonzo Molina and the Bolinas-Stinson unit of the Marin Conservation League.

Following the field trip, there will be reports on logging and Bolinas Lagoon legislation.

Session Reset

The regular meeting of the West Marin School board, set for 8 p.m. yesterday, was postponed until 8 p.m. next Monday because of a lack of a quorum.
